...ATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

...n Livingston's rose tinted picture ...r romance was transformed into ...ish study in black and white yes...ay when Franklin S. Hardinge ...ve his version of his affair on the ...ess stand in Judge Charles H. ...ch's courtroom. In general out...e the millionaire oil burner manu...urer's story was similar to that ...d by Miss Livingston, who is suing ...r $250,000 for breach of promise. ...e detail and coloring there was a ...al of difference between the tale ...ances related by Miss Livingston ...d the concise version told by ...dinge.

...e making Don Juan was Hardinge, ...upying the witness stand for the ...ond day in his defense of the suit. ...as calm, cool and collected business ...ctive. He made of the affair a ...ere commercial proposition, almost ...ntirely devoid of the tender senti...ent he claims he entertained for ...e. His curt phrases were incon...ruous with the rôle of Romeo in ...hich he was cast by the attractive ...ss divorcee.

Ann's Letters a Factor.

...ll hovering over his head like ...e sword of Damocles, was the burn...g correspondence of his love letters to ...r, the genuineness of which is not ...isputed by the defense. It appeared ...at Hardinge and his lawyers were ...irecting their chief efforts towards ...inimizing the effect of these let...rs.

...Hardinge like the girl he nearly ...arried appeared to have the habit ...f keeping correspondence—especially ...ve letters. Regardless of their im...ort in the case, these letters from ...im to her elderly suitor were chatty ...nd interesting missives for the most ...art.

...ost fans who have heard all the ...proceedings to date in Judge Miller's ...ourtroom building courtroom could ...ake interesting comparisons between ...he two versions of the first meeting ...etween the working girl on her way ...ut for a vacation and the wealthy ...manufacturer on a business jaunt. ...Hardinge told substantially the same ...story as Ann, except for important ...gaps in his testimony which Ann had ...filled with complimentary remarks on ...his part. Hardinge testified that he ...hadn't made those remarks.

Hardinge's Version of Meeting.

"I was sitting on the rear platform, ...waiting," Hardinge began the story ...of the train meeting, "when Miss Liv...ingston tried to come out the door. I ...was rather in the way of the door, so ...I got up to let her out, and she made ...some remark about not being allowed ...to smoke in the dining car. She said ...she wanted to smoke there, so I told ...her it was all right with me, and so ...did. We got into a casual conver...sation then." The story was devel...oped under the questions of Hardinge's ...attorney, John H. Bussian.

Q.—What did you say and what did ...she say? A.—I believe I asked her ...what part of the country she was ...from, and she said Tulsa. We talked ...about where we were going, and she ...said she was going to a convention in ...Denver, where she expected to meet a ...friend, a St. Louis newspaper man ...and his wife. I told her I was going ...to San Francisco and Vancouver on ...business and to visit two aunts.

How the Talk Began.

Q.—Then what happened? A.—Miss ...Livingston got up and went back into ...her car to read. About twenty min...utes later I passed her on the way to ...my car, and asked whether I might ...sit down and talk with her. We chat...ted a while, and she told me she was ...secretary to the richest man in Tulsa. ...Then I asked her whether she had ...heard about my oil burner, and she ...said she hadn't. I remarked that ...should make us better friends—her ...coming from an oil town and me sell...ing oil burners.

Q.—What else? A.—She asked me ...whether I'd heard about the petroleum ...exposition there, and I said I hadn't. ...So she told me all about it. She was ...a very good advertiser for it, too, and ...suggested that I exhibit my oil burner ...there. I asked her to get me infor...mation about space and rates, and ...she said she would.

Marriage Hoax in Denver.

Q.—Did you see her in Denver? A.—I told her I was meeting some ...friends in Denver and wanted to play ...a joke on them, and would she allow ...me to introduce her as my wife? She ...said she was agreeable, so we got to

BRITISH PLANE CARRIER PICKS THEM UP ALIVE

Taken to Gibraltar by Rescuers.

BULLETIN.

LONDON, June 29 (Saturday.)—(AP)—The British admiralty announced this morning the H. M. S. Eagle, airplane carrier, had found the missing Spanish aviators, Maj. Ramon Franco and his three companions, and was bringing them to port at Gibraltar.

BULLETIN.

MADRID, June 29 (Saturday.)—(AP)—Maj. Ramon Franco and three companions, who disappeared last Saturday morning in the course of a trans-Atlantic flight, were reported today to have been found.

The ministry of state announced it had received a cablegram from the Spanish consul at Gibraltar reporting that a British airplane from H. M. S. Eagle had found Maj. Franco and his three companions all alive, floating near the Azores.

The flyers left Alcazares airdrome at Cartagena, Spain, at 4:50 p. m. Friday of last week, heading for the Azores with the intention of stopping there en route to New York. They were last heard from after passing Cape San Vincent, Portugal, late that night.

HAWKS BACK IN NEW YORK

Roosevelt Field, L. I., June 29.—2 a. m.—[Special.]—Capt. Frank M. Hawks landed here at 1:16 a. m. in his Lockheed air express, breaking the transcontinental record for the second time in as many days and establishing a new round trip record between the two coast lines of the United States.

The unofficial record established, before a checkup could be made on the official time of the start and the finish, showed that he made the east bound trip in 17 hours 38 minutes, as against his previous time of 18 hours 21 minutes and 39 seconds, made Feb. 4.

On Thursday Capt. Hawks flew from New York to Los Angeles in 19 hours 10 minutes and 32 seconds, setting a new record. The previous time was 24 hours 51 minutes.

Landing Spectacular.

Shortly before the pilot came into sight a light rain began to fall on the field. Fears were expressed that he would not be able to see the runway through the mist. At 1:10, however, the moon pierced the low clouds for a moment and simultaneously a low hum came from the west. Out of the darkness came Hawks in a streaking landing. He landed at such fast speed that his plane slid into the fence on the far side of the field before he could stop it. The plane was only slightly damaged and the pilot stepped out unhurt in the hazy glare of the flood lights to greet Mrs. Hawks and the others who had been anxiously awaiting him.

Hawks' elapsed time for the round trip flight was approximately 36 hours and 54 minutes.

Breaks Record to Mississippi.

East St. Louis, Ill., June 28.—(AP)—Capt. Frank Hawks, transcontinental flyer, circled over Parks airport at 5:32 p. m. today and dropped a note explaining strong head winds had impeded his progress. He came within fifty feet of the field to read the weather charts, and after dropping the note pulled up sharply and headed eastward.

The note said: "Certainly do appreciate your thoughtfulness. Have been bucking strong head winds all day. No time this way, I'm afraid. Eleven hours and 45 minutes to here."

Repairs Delay Start.

Los Angeles, Cal., June 28.—(AP)—In search of another nonstop transcontinental airplane speed record, Capt. Frank Hawks left here today for New York determined to "bore right through."

Hawks arrived here yesterday from Roosevelt field, N. Y., in 19 hours 10 minutes and 32 seconds, a new record for the east-west trip.

Capt. Hawks hopped off at the Metropolitan airport at 3:37:47 a. m., seven hours and 14 minutes after arriving.

MICHIGAN AVE. BRIDGE MISHAP TIES UP TRAFFIC

Automobiles were jammed in solid lines for a half mile in each direction yesterday afternoon when the Michigan avenue link bridge power was temporarily shut off. The span remained half way up for nearly ten minutes.

At 4:15 p. m. the sandboat Gilbert, which often forces the main river bridges open twice a day, tooted for passageway and the bridge lifted. Half way down, the electric lifting machinery went dead and the leaves remained in mid-air until an expert electrician arrived. Meanwhile motorists and pedestrians in the early rush hour crowds were compelled to wait.

Earlier in the day surface cars on the Archer avenue, Ashland avenue, Halsted street and Racine avenue lines were blockaded a half hour while wrecking crews struggled to reload a twenty ton steel beam which fell off a truck on Archer avenue.

GIRL WHO AIDED KILLER IN ESCAPE TAKES OWN LIFE

Romance failed Juanita Gallardo, pretty Mexican girl, who two years ago aided her sweetheart to escape from the county jail at Joliet on the eve of his execution for murder, and yesterday she died, a victim of poison taken with suicidal intent. She had given up hope of a reunion with Bernardo Roa, who escaped into Mexico, and left her to serve a prison sentence for her part in his release.

Miss Gallardo smuggled saws into the Will county jail and was responsible for the jail break of Gregorio Rizzo, Roberto Torrez and Roa. They reached South Chicago where they killed a policeman and where Rizzo was shot. Rizzo was returned to Joliet and later killed in another attempt to escape. Torrez was recaptured and was executed, but Roa has never been apprehended.

CHOOSE 'CENTURY OF PROGRESS' AS 1933 FAIR'S TITLE

Chicago's 1933 centennial exposition will be known officially as the "Century of Progress." This was decided yesterday at a meeting of the founder and sustaining members in the exposition headquarters in the Burnham building. The Chicago's World's Fair centennial celebration, the name under which the exposition was organized, was held by officials to be suggestive of a type of spectacle which is alien to the purposes of the committee in charge.

Rufus C. Dawes, president of the exposition, announced that the new name will become official with the filing of notice of the change in the office of the secretary of state in Springfield today.

Uncle Sam No Shylock, Germans Told

As indicated yesterday in The Tribune, the state department sees no way to extend from Aug. 1 the time for payment of the French debt of $400,000,000, despite France's plea. [See page 5.]

MUNICH, June 28.—"America is no shylock and all ranting to that effect reflects a misunderstanding of American psychology," Dr. Hjalmar Schacht, head of the reichsbank and chief German delegate to the recent Paris reparations conference, said in an address on the Young reparations plan before the annual meeting of German associated chambers of commerce today.

It was his first official utterance since his return from Paris. The frankness with which he reviewed progress of Paris negotiations and the struggle of the German delegation to obtain something approximating an even break in the course of the protracted parleys is expected to have an important influence on the reichstag's deliberations when the reich's new reparations commitments come up for parliamentary ratification. He expressed the hope that no reichstag majority would be available for the ratification of the Young plan unless the Rhineland is unconditionally evacuated and a satisfactory arrangement concluded with respect to the future of the Saar.

Says U. S. Is Misunderstood.

Reverting to the decision of the German delegates to accept Young's mediation, Dr. Schacht said: "The circumstances that comprise the proposal finally accepted by the German delegates came from the American group, made its acceptance essentially easy for us. For this nation—perhaps in greater degree than any other—possesses a sense of economic responsibility.

"It is high time that we comprehend that all this anti-American ranting about Shylock betrays a complete misconception of American psychology. America is no Shylock, it merely expects of every man, every nation, complete responsibility for actions and obligations assumed. American resistance to the fusion of interallied debts with German reparations is prompted by the feeling that it is unfair to attempt to unload on others obligations which one voluntarily and knowingly assumed.

Wants Nations to Rule Selves.

"We also have no good reason for joining in the now somewhat familiar chorus that all Europe is about to become an American colony. Nothing could be farther removed from American aspirations than the desire to relieve Europeans of responsibility for the administration of their economic affairs. America cannot use slaves in international intercourse; she demands that men and nations be independent and responsible for the conduct of their affairs. We must not forget that it was the agent general for reparations who by virtue of being an American was the first to demand courageously that Germany be placed in a position to meet her obligations without intervention of foreign control agencies."

Sees Peace in Plan.

Concluding, Dr. Schacht stated, "The German experts have recommended the acceptance of the Young reparations plan not because they believe its figures confirm their economic convictions, but because they believe the Young plan will at last bring international, economic and political peace, for which the world—these ten years since the signing of the Versailles treaty—has been vainly waiting. Peace among nations is only possible when mutual good will prevails.

"Germany has given more emphatic demonstrations of this good will in the last decade than could reasonably be expected of any people."

Convicts Hoot Vegetables; Given Jobs in Rock Quarry

Forty convicts who went on a strike and refused to work in the vegetable garden in the new state prison at Stateville were transferred to the stone quarry in the old prison at Joliet. When guards routed them out to hoe the weeds the forty strikers hooted and booed until Warden Elmer J. Green took command. Loaded into a bus, under heavy guard, they were transported to the rock pile, and spent the day toiling with pick and shovel.

Edith Mason Sues Polacco for Divorce

Edith Mason, prima donna of the Chicago Civic Opera company, filed suit for divorce yesterday against Giorgio Polacco, director of the company, just one day before their tenth wedding anniversary.

Miss Mason's bill was filed before Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher, who ordered it suppressed. Judge Fisher refused to comment on the case, declaring he had not read the bill and did not even know what lawyer represented the plaintiff.

"I wonder how that story got out," he remarked in a tone of exasperation when word of the failure of his suppression order reached him.

Wed Ten Years Ago.

Maestro Polacco, who is 54 years old, and Miss Mason, who is 36, were married June 29, 1919. Their only child, Grace Edith Polacco, was born in the summer of 1925. Mrs. Arthur Meeker is the child's godmother.

"I have no comment to make," was Miss Mason's reply to queries on the divorce matter. It was understood that she would demand sole custody of her daughter, and friends of the maestro predicted that he would strenuously oppose the demand. When the child was still an infant, it was recalled, Polacco insured his life for $500,000, naming the baby his beneficiary.

"My daughter will need a lot of money if her tastes are anything like her mother's," was the remark attributed to him at the time.

Plans to Fill Contract.

A suggestion that Miss Mason contemplated the action only a short time before filing suit was found in the fact that she and her husband leased a 14 room apartment at 999 Lake Shore drive as recently as April 7. The lease was for the six months of the opera season, beginning next Oct. 1. Polacco is reported to be at sea en route from Italy to New York.

It was said that Miss Mason has no thought of allowing domestic troubles to interfere with her professional career. Her contract with the opera company calls for performances when the new Civic Opera theater opens, and the prima donna intends to fulfill it, thus making likely a situation where the singer will face her divorced husband across the footlights.

4 BOYS, DRIFTING ON LAKE, SAVED BY COAST GUARDS

Four small boys were late for supper last night, but they had an explanation which probably induced their parents to forget discipline and instead thank providence and the coast guard that their sons arrived home safely.

The boys, between 12 and 14 years old, were gleefully poling a homemade raft in the shallow lake water off Roosevelt road when a land breeze began to blow. The mariners were a mile off shore, opposite 23d street, when a passing motorist saw distress signals far out and notified the coast guard.

Two of the lads were on their knees in prayer and the other two were making heroic but futile efforts to paddle with the poles when Capt. John Anderson and his coast guardsmen came to the rescue. The boys were ferried ashore in a speed boat, while the crew steamed to Belmont harbor on an alarm that proved false. In the transfer the names of the rescued lads were not learned.

WIDOW SEEKS TO PUNISH SLAYERS OF HER HUSBAND

Mrs. Charlotte Thilo, widow of Dr. George W. Thilo, physician who died on Dec. 17, 1928, of injuries received at the hands of four holdup men, has started an investigation to ascertain why the robbers were permitted to plead guilty to robbery and sent to the reformatory and not prosecuted for the killing. The coroner's jury, on Dec. 28, last, ordered the four men held for murder. The state's attorney's office claimed it got no transcript of the jury's order.

Previous to that Judge Frank Padden had held them to the grand jury for robbery. On April 4, when their case came up before Judge McGoorty, with Assistant State's Attorney Harry Ditchburne prosecuting, the men pleaded guilty to plain robbery and were sentenced to serve from one to twenty years in the reformatory. They will be eligible to parole next February.

Dr. Thilo was held up in front of his home, and when he resisted was kicked and beaten, dying three days later. The four men arrested were Sollie Deutch, Raymond Scott, Lawrence Ogden, and Al Goldstein. Mrs. Thilo identified Scott, Ogden, and Deutch.

TRIBUNE PLANE ON EVE OF TRIP VIA GREENLAND

Arrives Here Sunday Ready to Go.

BY TOM PETTEY.

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—The 'Untin' Bowler, a big gray amphibion plane that has been chasing its shadow across homeland skyways for THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, expects to hop off tomorrow noon, weather permitting, from North Beach, Long Island, landing pier, on its greatest adventure. It will be more than adventure, for before its two pilots, Bob Gast and Parker [Shorty] Cramer, and Reporter Bob Wood return from a round trip flight to Berlin they expect to have charted a new air route over the great north circle from the heart of America to the industrial center of Europe—from Chicago to Berlin and back.

The 'Untin' Bowler will fly west before it wings its way to Europe, for the purpose of the flight is to establish Chicago as a terminus for a hitherto plotted great north circle route flung far above the fog banks off Newfoundland. The plane will beat its own path through uncharted territory and will endeavor to link two worlds by an almost overland air lane.

No Long Jumps Planned.

Nosing up the Hudson over a familiar route, the Sikorsky air yacht will drop low over Albany and then hurry on to pay its respects to Buffalo. From Buffalo the flyers will go to Cleveland. They may remain over night there, for there will be no long jump on the Bowler's flight.

Arriving in Chicago, as is expected, on Sunday, the plane and its twin Platt and Whitney Wasp motors will be given a final grooming at Municipal field. A few days later it will drop down on Lake Michigan, near the Yacht club, shed its landing wheels to save weight, take on Bob Wood, THE TRIBUNE'S aviation editor, to write the story of the flight, and head for the far northland as an ice and ocean going flying boat.

The trip will not be a stunt. It will be a scientific survey of the most logical air path between the old and the new worlds.

Radio to Flash News.

Weather permitting, the journey from Chicago to Berlin will be made in five days. There will be no attempt to break any speed records and there will be no long water hazards nor endurance jumps.

The 4,750 mile route as mapped for the flyers by the American Geographical society includes five hops across the open sea, each less than 300 miles in distance.

Heading northeast from Chicago, the 'Untin' Bowler will stop in Milwaukee and then fly on over the northern circle, its radio flashing messages to THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and a selected group of associated newspapers as it speeds over Canada, Greenland, Iceland, and on to Bergen, Copenhagen, and Berlin.

If all goes well, the air yacht then will lay in a new stock of supplies and hurry back to Chicago by way of Warsaw, Stockholm, Bergen and the same far northern route to complete the first trans-Atlantic round trip flight in history.

Chicago's Advantage to be Shown.

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE flight is based upon airways and not steamship routes. Its aim is to demonstrate that Chicago is the natural and the best terminus for an airline to Europe and that the northern circle, with land most of the way, offers fewer hazards than any other lane.

It expects to show the practicability of a terminal in the industrial center of the United States, from which planes could be dispatched to and received from central Europe. Feeder lines already radiate out of Chicago making direct connections with Mexico and Central America, and a five day hookup for mail service between Central America and Europe is possible.

Advantages of Route Are Great.

Some of the outstanding advantages of the north circle or overland passage to Europe include:

The fact that the distance from Chicago to the mainland of Europe, because of the spherical nature of the earth's surface, is less than 200 miles farther than the distance from New York to the European mainland.

That while the north country is a land of intense storms, they are not local storms, but can be predicted almost to the hour; and that long periods of dependable weather may be expected. For more than 600 miles in Greenland, flyers can obtain tail winds blowing either east or west by merely changing their altitude. This is possible because of the dome of ice over Greenland, which causes air constantly to flow outward toward the gulf stream, become warmed, and flow back at a different altitude.

That bases already have been established every 800 miles along the route and could be set up every 400 miles along 50 per cent of the course. The cost of bases every 400 miles would be less than the expense of establishing one of the proposed "floating islands" in the Atlantic.

Thus the longest hop on the northern route can be made on six hours' fuel, while the other way 30 hours is the minimum. This gives the great circle a payload possibility, feasible in the summer under existing conditions, over which a ship can fly and still keep within the load limits allowed by the department of commerce. The other way gasoline alone far exceeds the load limit.

Topography to Be Studied.

In their flight, Gast and Cramer will face much that is unknown and in addition to mapping an air route they will endeavor to contribute scientific data on the topography of the country over which they fly.

Bearing northeast from Milwaukee, the Europe-bound Bowler will fly to Sault Ste. Marie, where the plane will be cleared by the Canadian customs. This formality completed, the ship will continue on to Cochrane, Ont., and land on Remi lake, an Ontario forestry control station, 640 miles from Milwaukee. Then the ship will pick up supplies and push on 197 miles to Rupert house on the Rupert river. There at the Hudson Bay Indian trading post, the Bowler and its crew will anchor for the first night.

The second day the first stop will be 816 miles farther along the great circle, on the north tip of Labrador. There at Port Burwell, on Cape Chidley in Ungava bay, the flyers will drop down for gas. Port Burwell has a radio station, whose call letters are VCH, but if the 'Untin' Bowler's radio lives up to expectations, its services will not be needed.

Over Ice and Eskimos.

Port Burwell is up north of the fog country on one of the ribs of the world where they have real daylight saving. The sun shines 20 hours a day, so the Bowler and its crew will fly on to Mount Evans, skirt the east coast of Baffinland over Cape Walsingham, visit Holstenborg, capital of north Greenland, and fly up the Stromfjord to Mount Evans, where they will land in protected water and spend the night at Hobbs' camp.

For more than 500 miles on the second day the flyers will look down on great seas of broken ice and icebergs. There are no towns along this stretch and only a few thousand Eskimos in the country.

The third flying day will find the Bowler heading across the great ice cap of Greenland, over which no plane has ever flown. [The cap has been crossed three times by explorers on foot.] The first settlement is 375 miles from Mount Evans and is called Angmagsalik. There is a radio station there with the call OSL, but the Bowler will merely dip down to salute it, continuing on 469 miles to Reykjavik, Iceland's big town.

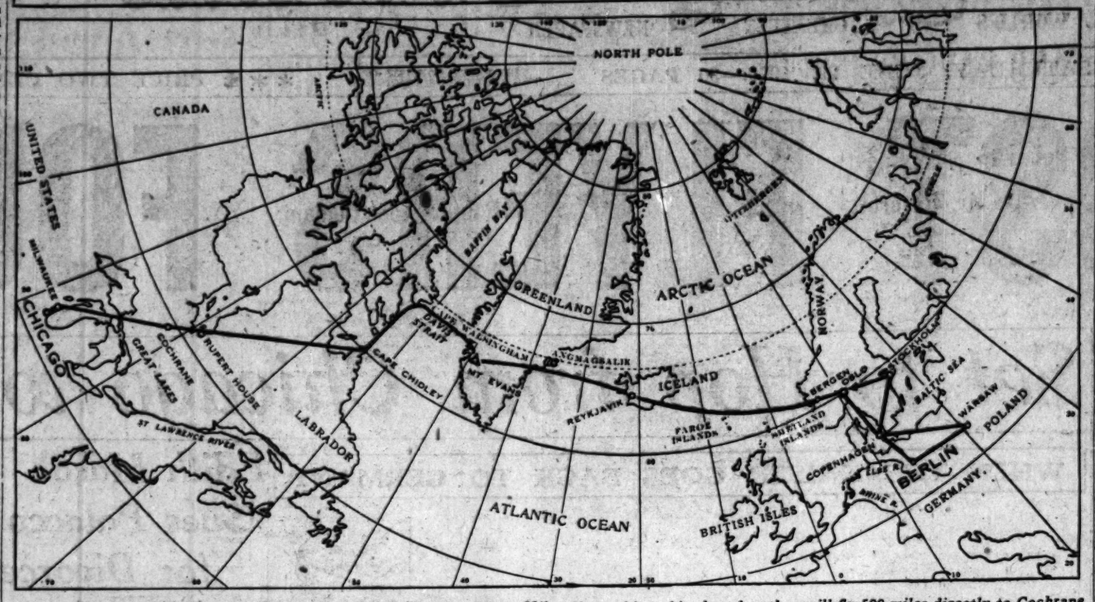
On Across Gulf Stream.

Pushing onward the next day, the Bowler will follow the coast of Iceland for 175 miles and then cut across the sea to Thorshaven in the Faroe islands. By skirting the Iceland coast, the water jump will be held down to less than 300 miles. This jump will offer the greatest hazard of the trip, for it crosses the gulf stream, and where the gulf stream flows flyers catch fogs. Furthermore, the Faroe islands are only tiny dots in the ocean and do not offer a very large target to shoot at. To offset this danger the Bowler will be flying over a stretch of water comparatively free of large ice, and there will be numerous fishing boats and trawlers—probably the first the flyers will see—plying along the banks.

If the Bowler makes the Faroe islands on a bee line there will be no stop at Thorshaven. Glad to be away from the land of the iceberg factories, the flyers will head on toward the Shetland islands across 210 miles of open water and on to Bergen, Norway, where they probably will pass the fourth night.

On the fifth morning they will fly 190 miles to Oslo, down Kattegat strait between the Baltic and the North sea. From Oslo they will continue 302 miles to Copenhagen, Denmark, and from there to Berlin, 220 miles across land and water, to complete one-half their journey.

Map Shows Route to Be Followed by Tribune Airplane in Flight



Starting at Chicago, the flyers will make their way north to Milwaukee. After this short hop they will fly 500 miles directly to Cochrane, Ont., take gas, and resume their flight to Rupert House, 200 miles farther on. The next jump is to Cape Chidley, Labrador, 800 miles. The course then swerves northward to Cape Walsingham on Baffin island and from there to Mount Evans in Greenland, a 600 mile hop. The next hop, from Mount Evans to Reykjavik, Iceland, is 1,100 miles. From Iceland to Bergen, Norway, is a jump of 900 miles, but the Shetland and Faroe islands are convenient in case of accident. From Bergen to Berlin is about 700 miles, the total distance from Chicago to Berlin being figured as 4,786 miles. On the return flight, if it is feasible, the 'Untin' Bowler will fly to Warsaw, to Copenhagen, to Stockholm, to Bergen, and back over the original route.

AVIATION NOTES

Sky Harbor, north Chicago's new half million dollar airport and aviation country club, will be dedicated this afternoon on the Dundee road, four miles west of Glencoe. Planes and pilots from almost every air line operating in the Chicago area will join with a squadron of army pursuit planes from Selfridge field, Michigan, in an air parade at the dedication.

Contracts for new aviation engines, involving an expenditure of close to $2,000,000, were approved in Washington yesterday by F. Trubee Davison, assistant secretary of war for aeronautics. The engines will power new planes purchased recently by the army air corps at a cost of $5,000,000, bringing the total cost of new aircraft to $7,000,000. The orders signed yesterday called for 180 supercharged Wasp engines, 65 D-12 water cooled 600 horsepower engines, and 54 800 horsepower J-6 engines.

Letters protesting against the contemplated property trade between the city and the school board, which would expand the municipal airport, were mailed yesterday by the Woman's City club to President H. Wallace Caldwell of the school board and Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the finance committee of the city council. "Already people are questioning the legality of house bills 236 and 237, which authorize the deal," the letters stated. "A long drawn out lawsuit would postpone the development of the airport."

Patrick Feeney, 42 years old, of Albia, Ia., a laborer employed in the construction of the new Curtiss airport in Glenview, was killed yesterday when he came in contact with a live wire blown down in a storm.

A dispatch from Montreal yesterday stated that Phil Wood and Duke Schiller, Canadian aviators, who under admiralty pressure last year abandoned an attempt to fly the Atlantic, are preparing to fly from Germany to New York late this summer in a four motored German plane which will float for days in the event of a forced landing at sea.

A new private aviation field, affiliated with the Aviation Country Clubs, Inc., will be opened this afternoon near Hicksville, Long Island. The club was constructed at a cost of $300,000.

PORTUGAL HUNTS FLYERS ON SMALL ISLES OF AZORES

LISBON, Portugal, June 28.—(AP)—The Portuguese government today decided to send the gunboat Zaire to the isolated islands of Flores and Corvo, situated on the fringe of the Azores archipelago, in a last hope of finding Maj. Ramon Franco and the three other Spanish aviators who disappeared last week on their flight from Spain to America. The islands of Flores and Corvo have no means of communication with the other islands of the group or with the rest of the world except for the monthly visit of an island steamer. Spain has practically abandoned the search.

Australians in Singapore.

SINGAPORE, Straits Settlement, June 28.—(AP)—Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and his three companions arrived here today in their plane, the Southern Cross, from Derby, Western Australia, en route to England. The flyers set out from Sydney, N. S. W., Tuesday morning, in an effort to break the fifteen day record between England and Australia of Bert Hinkler.

BALDWIN AWARDS TITLES TO 38 IN LAST HONORS LIST

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 28.—The most notable feature of former Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin's resignation honors list, announced tonight, is the elevation to the peerage of Sir William Joynson-Hicks, the popular home secretary of the late government, who becomes a viscount. It is understood he will take the title of Viscount Brentford.

The honors list includes 38 recipients, among whom are twelve members of the former Conservative administration. An earldom is conferred upon Viscount Peel, late secretary of state for India.

Of the four other peerages conferred, the most interesting is that of Sir Hamar Greenwood, Bart., who becomes a baron. Sir Hamar was the last 'chief secretary of Ireland and rendered distinguished service during the great war. Sir George Lawson-Johnson also becomes a baron, awarded him for philanthropic and public services.

REINSTATE DRY AGENT INDICTED ON BRIBE CHARGE

Put to Work on Order from Washington.

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28.—[Special.]—A federal dry agent who was suspended from the local prohibition force several months ago following his indictment by a federal grand jury for accepting bribes has been reinstated through Washington headquarters without having gone to trial.

W. Frank Cunningham, district dry chief, said tonight that the agent, Ben F. Finke, would go on duty immediately in the St. Paul district. The unprecedented action on the part of prohibition headquarters does not mean, however, that Finke has been exonerated of the charges returned in the indictment, Mr. Cunningham said.

Bound Over Three Times.

Testimony that he had paid Finke for protection in operating a huge distillery on the Starnes farm near Oconomowoc was given before the grand jury by Joe Pessin, who was arrested and bound over here three times for grand jury action on liquor cases. Preliminary investigations into the charges was carried on solely by U. S. District Attorney Levi H. Bancroft, who at that time was receiving nation-wide attention for defying Mabel Willebrandt's instructions as to the handling of liquor cases under the Jones law.

Get Blunt Orders.

First intimations of a rift between the local federal district attorney and prohibition headquarters came in the receipt of orders from Washington that all federal court action against Finke be suspended until department of justice agents could investigate the charges more thoroughly. The move came at the request of Senators Deneen and Glenn of Illinois in the expectation that evidence favorable to the agent's defense could be obtained, according to department of justice agents.

While under indictment Finke was used several times as a star witness for the government in trying cases of liquor law violators.

30 ARE FINED BY JUDGE.

2 FLYERS KILLED IN COLLISION AT LOW ALTITUDE

Riverside, Cal., June 28.—[U. P.]—Lieut. William Plummer and Cadet Cyrus G. Wallace were killed instantly today when their airplane was struck a glancing blow by another plane which was taking off from March army field. The plane occupied by the two men killed was struck on the tail by the wing of the other army ship and was so close to the ground that the flyers could not use their parachutes. The second plane was not damaged.

Mechanic Killed, Pilot Hurt.

South Bend, Ind., June 27.—(AP)—Leigh Sellers, 35, mechanic, was killed and Jack Parhill, 30, pilot, was seriously injured today when an airplane crashed two miles north of the South Bend airport. Their plane failed to come out of a flat spin and was wrecked.

Hurt in Seaplane Mishap.

Newbern, N. C., June 28.—(AP)—Lieut. James E. Baker of Hampton Roads, Va., was seriously injured in the crash of the seaplane he was piloting into Morehead City harbor late today. Lieut. William J. Slattery, a passenger, was uninjured. The seaplane was landing when a gust of wind blew it into the mast of the coast guard cutter Pamlico, anchored about 50 yards off shore. It nosed over and plunged into the sound.

Viola Gentry Crashes; Hurt; Pilot Killed; 2 Planes Fall

BULLETIN.

New York, June 29, 2 a. m.—(Special.)—At 1:32 a. m. the Jensen airplane was still in the air, having at that time passed the fifty-fourth hour. The aim is to surpass the present record of 172½ hours set a month ago in Texas by Robbins and Kelly.

New York, June 28.—(Special.)—Two air accidents today took the life of one man and caused serious injury to a woman and two other men.

In one of the accidents, Miss Viola Gentry, famous woman flyer, was injured and her pilot, Jack Ashcraft, was killed.

They were trying for an endurance record. At the time another plane was flying above the field seeking a record. In it was William Ulbrich, Miss Gentry's best friend. That plane still is up and Ulbrich is begging by wireless phone to learn "What has happened to Viola." He had seen wreckage of the plane.

In the other accident, two army flyers from Mitchel field, Lieut. Maxwell Balfour and Corporal Elmer Barry, were injured.

Roosevelt Field, L. I., June 28.—[Special.] — Jack Ashcraft, co-pilot with Miss Viola Gentry, was killed, and Miss Gentry was injured severely at dawn today when the Cabinair biplane, "The Answer," in which they were seeking an endurance record, ran out of fuel.

The plane crashed into a tree top in a fog-obscured forced landing in a nursery on the Jericho turnpike in Old Westbury, about a mile from this field. They had been in the air less than ten hours.

Ashcraft, a graduate of the Gates Flying circus, and Miss Gentry, who forsook a job as a restaurant cashier to enter aviation and later hang up an endurance record for other women to shoot at, took off from this field at 8:46 last night with the intention of staying aloft "until the engine falls apart."

Miscalculate on Refueling.

Miss Gentry and Ashcraft had arranged for their first refueling contact to be made at 7 o'clock this morning. The 89 gallons of gasoline they had taken up with them they thought would last several hours longer than that. They miscalculated somewhere, experts said.

At 5:40 o'clock this morning Miss Gentry dropped a note to the waiting mechanics at Roosevelt field:

"Think we have two hours' gas, everything O. K. VIOLA."

The plane made a wide circle. It came back at 6:12. There was a heavy ground mist. The Answer, however, was flying in the sunlight above. But they couldn't see the field and nobody could see them.

Dropped Notes Lost.

Then the pair apparently dropped a series of notes, but they fell between two airfields and none was found.

It was not until several hours after the crash that workmen in the gully where Rene Fonck and more recently Francis Phillips met disaster came upon another note which told a different story. It said:

"Need gas immediately."

It must have dropped between the time when the only note found was dropped and the final downward swoop of The Answer with empty fuel tanks, a little more than an hour.

Plane Heard to Crash.

At 6:14 a. m., Henry Hicks, proprietor of the nursery grounds at Old Westbury, heard a noise near his house. He ran back and found that a plane had nose dived, striking a tree, burying the propeller in the ground, the tail in the air.

Hicks found Miss Gentry crumpled on the gas tank, which had been thrown on top of the plane's motor. She was bleeding at the mouth.

"My name's Viola Gentry, she murmured. "Call Mrs. Ulbrich, 109 Front street, Mineola. What happened? How is Jack?"

Ashcraft, at the controls, lay between the motor and the gas tank. He had died immediately of a broken neck.

At the hospital, Miss Gentry's condition prevented questioning about the crash. Her left arm was broken, she was severely cut and bruised and there were evidences of internal injuries whose extent at first could not be determined.

The chronometer in the cabin of the plane had stopped at 6:13. That was the minute the helpless craft struck earth. The two 21 gallon fuel tanks on the wings were empty and the fifty-five gallon tank, which in the impact had been torn loose from its fastenings behind the pilot's seat to crush Ashcraft against the motor, contained only the fumes of gasoline.

It was not until 9 o'clock that the refueling plane, manned by Clyde Kincaid, arrived at the field. He had been delayed by fog on the way from Hartford, Conn.

See Wreckage of Plane Below.

When the Gentry plane crashed, another plane was circling over it, bent on trying to break the same record. In it was Mr. and Mrs. Martin Jensen and William Ulbrich, in whose mother's home Miss Gentry boarded.

Circling about the field after daybreak today one of the first things the crew saw was the red and blue wreckage of "The Answer," Miss Gentry's plane. Ulbrich is Miss Gentry's best friend, and as soon as radio telephone communication was re-established with the ground, his voice, husky and tense, was heard by Charles Ellsworth, radio engineer who sat in one of the hangars with ear phones clamped to his head.

"What happened to Viola?" Ulbrich said. "Now you birds give me the details. Don't try to hold out on me."

Ellsworth heard Jensen's voice calling Ulbrich to his assistance at the controls. Then, after a few seconds, the voice of Mrs. Jensen came over in a whisper.

News Kept from Ulbrich.

"Don't give him the details," she urged. "Marty saw the wreck of the ship and has been keeping away from there."

Mrs. Jensen said her nose was bleeding from a "bump" and then she asked in the same hoarse whisper: "How is she?"

Ellsworth told her he thought Miss Gentry would recover. Perhaps a radio hook-up to her bedside could be arranged so that the crew of the Three Musketeers could chat with her when she was well enough, he said. Ashcraft was "hurt badly," Ellsworth told Mrs. Jensen.

The Balfour Accident.

Two army flyers from Mitchel field, Lieut. Maxwell Balfour and Corporal Elmer Barry, were severely burned when the observation plane in which they were making a practice flight burst into flames 2,000 feet from the ground.

When the ship suddenly burst afire, Balfour set off the plane's fire fighting apparatus and dived for the earth from 2,000 feet. Except for the wings the plane was all metal.

Balfour, a skillful flyer, saw high electric wires in the path of the flaming plane and on the edge of No. 2 practice polo field of the Meadowbrook club at Westbury. He acted quickly. He guided the plane between two trees. There was a terrific crash of wings—but Balfour had safely halted fifty feet from the dangerous wires.

Asks Aid for Other Man.

Two linemen ran up. "Get the corporal out. I'll take care of myself," Lieut. Balfour said. He was cut on the face and neck.

They dragged Barry out. He was burned on the neck and shoulders, and was rushed to Nassau hospital.

ASPHALT GRAFT EVIDENCE TO AID SWANSON IN QUIZ

Ettelson Cuts Pay Roll as Prosecutor Acts.

BY CARL WARREN.

State's Attorney John A. Swanson, at the outset of his investigation into the city hall, is to be armed with a strong array of evidence bearing upon alleged graft and conspiracy in the Thompson board of local improvements.

At the prosecutor's office yesterday, Mr. Swanson's first assistant, John E. Northup, announced that he will confer at once with Attorney Hayes McKinney, whose law firm has collected a mass of data in connection with six taxpayers' suits to smash the alleged paving contractors' ring. McKinney charges the board members and in one suit, Mayor Thompson, with connivance to defraud the public of millions of dollars.

Soon after Mr. Northup's announcement, Mr. McKinney stated that he would willingly put his evidence at the state's attorney's disposal and will assist in presenting it if his services are sought.

"We will be glad to help the state's attorney in any proper way," the attorney said. "Although our main purpose is to recover money illegally taken from the taxpayers, I believe our clients will turn the facts we have over to Mr. Swanson for use in criminal prosecutions."

Ettelson Gets Busy.

The proposed coördination of the state's attorney's evidence with that gathered by the McKinney firm came as one of several developments yesterday in the projected city hall investigation. Another of these was Corporation Counsel Ettelson's announcement that seventy-five employés will be lopped off his pay rolls on July 1. Although the failure of the council to approve his request for an extra $100,000 in the midyear budget was given by Mr. Ettelson as the reason for the cut, members of the city council declared that the fact the pay roll cuts comes at a time when Mr. Swanson is planning an investigation is significant.

Among the employés to be dropped will be attorneys, valuators, stenographers, investigators, and clerks, Mr. Ettelson said. Their dismissal, he declared, is certain to be a big handicap to the department.

May Try to Oust Albert.

Coincident with the Ettelson announcement, a city hall rumor spread that an effort may be made to oust Ald. Arthur F. Albert [43d] from the council. The fiery Forty-third ward alderman, an enemy of the Thompson ring, has taken the lead in demanding the city hall quiz.

"Albert has made the statement that there is no city council any more, only a corporation counsel," an administration alderman declared yesterday.

"That is in line with a lot of other wild accusations he made, holding the council in contempt. Several of us believe the council should make him prove his charges or kick him out of it. If he doesn't quit talking we are going to be in bad pretty soon. He is wise he will watch his step."

Three Departments Mentioned.

Three city hall departments have been prominently mentioned as those upon which State's Attorney Swanson probably will concentrate his fire. These are those of Corporation Counsel Ettelson, whose pay rolls once before have been investigated by a grand jury; Building Commissioner Otto Paschen, and Mr. Faherty, head of the local improvements board. With the aid of Mr. McKinney's evidence the prosecutors believe they will have a long running start on the Faherty inquiry.

As the bulk of the McKinney evidence pertains to acts committed since Jan. 1, 1928, it still is competent for use by Mr. Swanson in malfeasance or conspiracy prosecutions if action goes forward immediately. The statute of limitations forbids prosecution of both malfeasance and conspiracy charges after eighteen months have expired. Should the charge be bribery or any other felony the limitation would be three years.

Evidence of Contract Ring.

Attention first was focussed upon the paving contractors' ring in August, 1928, when newspapers published official records showing that four contractors had obtained virtually all of the contracts for asphalt paving since the election of Mayor Thompson in April, 1927. During the sixteen and one-half months, it was shown, the city had let asphalt contracts amounting to $9,142,319. Of this total, the four contractors had $9,085,321.

The favored firms were the American Asphalt Paving company, the White Paving company, the Barber Paving company, and the R. F. Conway company.

Mr. McKinney and his associates of the law firm of McKinney, Lynde & Grear, filed their first suit on Nov. 1, 1928, in behalf of Miss Mary Cecilia Mead, a taxpayer. Two more suits of like character were filed within the next ten days and three more since that time.

Fraudulent Profits Charged.

Each of the bills openly charged "fraudulently excessive profits" to an estimated amount of more than $2,000,000 since the advent of the Thompson administration.

The bill in the third suit, involving the paving of Le Moyne street between Lavergne and Long avenues, was typical. It declared that the cost of the contract was about $51,010, of which $16,988 was "fraudulent excessive profit." It charged that the conspiracy by which this fraudulent profit was obtained arose out of collusion in bidding by members of the Street Paving Contractors' association and that "this conspiracy has existed from the first of 1927 up to the present time."

"The defendants, Michael J. Faherty, George K. Schmidt [now city controller], William S. Finucane, Elmer A. Brown, and James Vignola," the bill charges, "had knowledge of said combination and conspiracy of said bidding contractors and of the said Paving Contractors' association."

Mayor Thompson Accused.

Mayor Thompson was brought into the picture on Feb. 24, 1929, when the McKinney firm, in its sixth suit included him as a defendant on the theory that he assumed responsibility for the situation when he picked Faherty as a cabinet head. Mr. McKinney announced that he will ask leave to amend the five previously filed bills to include Thompson as a defendant.

"Our plan is to amend the bills and force all the suits to an issue at the opening of the October term of court," Mr. McKinney explained yesterday. "At that time we expect to devote our full attention to the Faherty cases. We are confident we have evidence to win in all of them."

Police Annul Engagements for Mr. Reycroft.

"I have an appointment with Mr. Reycroft," said the comely young woman who entered the office of the Tower Chain System, Inc., room 1702, National Surety building, 105 West Madison street.

"And do you have your $1,000 with you?" asked the man behind the railing.

"Yes, and I have the $5,000 real estate bond also."

"Well, you can put your money back in the bank. Mr. Louis J. Reycroft, alias Adams, is not doing business this afternoon. I'm Lieut. Thomas McFarland of the detective bureau."

Has 38 Appointments.

The performance was repeated at half hour intervals yesterday, the lieutenant sending the visitors home with their money. Memoranda on Reycroft's desk showed that he had appointments with thirty-eight men and women for yesterday and today, all on the same subject.

Lieut. McFarland and his squad arrested Reycroft and took charge of his office on information furnished by the Better Business bureau. Four women, two of them school teachers, had reported to the business bureau that they had been offered jobs as hostesses in de luxe filling stations at salaries ranging from $60 a week to $20,000 a year.

The suspicious element in the arrangement was that the prospective employés were to give Reycroft $1,000 cash and $5,000 real estate bonds before beginning work on July 8. Reycroft had advertised in the help wanted columns of the newspapers.

Inquiry Disproves Claims.

Gordon Smith, investigator for the Better Business bureau, interviewed Reycroft. He was told that the Tower Chain System was incorporated in New York; had a home office at 500 Broadway, New York; banked at the Chase National bank of New York, and that it was installing a string of de luxe filling stations in Chicago.

Smith investigated and reported that the Tower Chain System was not incorporated in New York, was not known at 500 Broadway or at the Chase National bank, and that the only evidence of activity in Chicago was directed toward soliciting bonds from prospective employés.

WOMAN STEALS $14,000, TOSSES HER GUN AWAY

Holds Up 2 Men and Takes Pay Roll.

Topeka, Kas., June 28.— (AP) —A young woman, unassisted, and with a revolver believed to have been unloaded, coolly held up two employés of the Security Benefit association here today, and obtained approximately $14,000.

The holdup occurred in front of the headquarters of the association. Escaping on foot, the woman fled to an apartment building a block away. There she discarded a hat, smock and other articles of clothing, then ran out the back door and disappeared.

Leaves Her Gun Behind.

Near the building she dropped a revolver. It was unloaded when found. Police believe that there were no bullets in it at the time of the robbery, although it is possible cartridges were removed before the gun was thrown away.

The woman, described as being a brunette between 25 and 27 years old, thin faced and of medium height, stopped W. L. Stalons, chief clerk of the association, and Louis Streit as they were returning from a bank with pay roll money. She held a handkerchief over her face.

"Drop that package, or I'll blow your insides out," she commanded, drawing her revolver.

Unwilling Chauffeur Vanishes.

Stalons tried to toss the money satchel to Streit, but the woman caught it. She turned to get back into the car of A. J. Perlich of Kansas City, whom she had forced, at the point of a gun, to drive her to the association's headquarters. But Perlich, during the robbery, had fled, driving to police headquarters to get an officer. She then ran a block to the apartment building.

Perlich said the woman entered his car while he was parking it in front of a hotel, and, placing the revolver against his body, compelled him to drive to the scene of the holdup.

FIND SQUATTER SLAIN AT DOOR OF HIS SHACK

The body of a squatter about 60 years old, who had lived as a recluse for the last two years in a shack on the border of the forest preserve at Seeley avenue and the tracks of the Indiana Harbor Belt line in Specialville, was found yesterday at his own doorstep, covered by a weather beaten overcoat. A five inch gash on the back of his skull indicated he had been murdered.

A towerman, stationed a hundred yards up the track, told Police Chief John Rothman of Specialville that he had seen the man last Tuesday with a band of hoboes who that same evening boarded an outbound freight train. Hidden in a crevice in the shack, the police found a tobacco tin containing the squatter's hoard of $6.35. No papers indicating his identity were found.

BOY IS KILLED BY LIGHTNING BOLT; 4 PALS ESCAPE

James Vincent Mele, 14 year old son of Nicolas Mele, Hazel avenue, Deerfield, section foreman on the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad, was killed last Thursday night when he was struck by a bolt of lightning while running for his home through the rain with his brother, John, and three other boys.

The bolt knocked all of the boys to the sidewalk, but all, excepting James, continued on their way without suffering any effects from the shock. John Mele did not miss his brother until after he arrived at home. A search was started which ended in finding James' body early yesterday morning.

The lightning had burned a path down the front and back of the boy's body and had torn one of his shoes from his foot. Artificial respiration was applied for several hours. A large block of concrete was chipped from the sidewalk near the spot where the body was found.

VATICAN CLASHES WITH ITALY OVER VAGABOND CANINE

Mutt Runs to Safety in Pope's New Domain.

BY DAVID DARRAH.

[Copyright: 1929: By The Chicago Tribune.]

ROME, June 28.—The question of whether the extradition clause in the concordant accompanying the Lateran treaty of conciliation between the Italian state and the Vatican city extends to the dog catching department of the municipality of Rome was brought up today by the conduct of a stray dog in St. Peter's square.

This dog, while in the neutral territory of St. Peter's square, was chased by two dog catchers and took refuge inside the frontiers of the Vatican city. The Swiss guards with medieval halberds stopped the pursuit of the dog catchers, and hence the question of extradition.

Eye Witness Tells Story.

An eye witness of the incident described the dog as an evident vagabond without fixed residence, but nevertheless of sympathetic personality as dog personalities go. He said that along came the two dog catchers with the dog wagon loaded with several candidates for the pound. Several children playing nearby, seeing the dog's peril, stoned him until he ran howling just past the guards and into the Vatican entrance. The mutt did not stop for breath until he reached the Piazza di Santa Marta, the eye witness said.

When the dog catchers came up, the Swiss guards said: "You cannot pass."

"Why not? Our duty is to catch that dog," the dog catchers replied.

"This Is Another Country."

"No back talk, this is another country," said the Swiss, resolutely summoning the corporal of the guard, while the dog catchers at the same time summoned two Italian policemen from the other side of St. Peter's square.

A crowd gathered and explanations were demanded. To the furious dog catchers, who were not aware of the fact, some one explained that beyond Charlemagne Arch of St. Peter's square another state began, and that to apprehend the dog it was necessary to seek extradition through diplomatic channels.

The policemen laughed, the crowd laughed, the Swiss guards laughed, every one laughed except the two dog catchers.

"Servicing" of Grape Juice Explained in Federal Court

St. Louis, Mo., June 28.—(AP)—The "servicing" rendered by salesmen that assures grape juice customers of reaping a cellar of wine was described today in federal court in the suit for $100,000 brought by the West Coast Vineyards company, Chicago distributors of grape juice, against the Colony Vintages company of St. Louis and the Swiss-Italian Colony of California.

The servicing formulae were given by Brack Stanford of Chicago, former manager there for William Davis, president of the Colony Vintages company.

What Servicing Means.

"Servicing," he said, "means that after a customer receives grape juices he has ordered, a salesman calls at his home, sees that the juices are placed in the proper temperature in the basement and pulls bungs out of kegs. This starts fermentation.

"Later, after the contents of the keg have been allowed to ferment for a specified time, the product is filtered and bottled, making wine."

Stanford, on cross examination, admitted the conversion of grape juice is "an open violation of the law," and Judge Davis ordered his testimony stricken from the record on objection of the attorney for the Chicago firm.

Unless the juices are "serviced properly," Stanford declared, they will turn into vinegar and be useless for beverage purposes. Davis estimated the alcoholic content of the wine ranges between 10 to 16 per cent. His company distributes a list of juices known as claret, burgundy, sherry, muscatel, port, and Tokay. Davis denied the company authorized the "servicing," asserting the matter was left to the discretion of salesmen.

Calls Contract Illegal.

The defendants seek to have the suit dismissed on the ground that a contract entered into between the Chicago and St. Louis companies giving the West Coast Vineyards company distributing rights in Chicago was illegal because it contained a clause that the Chicago firm should "service" the products properly to customers within the law.

The products are similiar to those with which United States Senator Arthur R. Gould of Maine got "very fair results" and expected to have "fine wine" out of a later shipment. Besides Gould, Davis said, his company had had other distinguished customers in various parts of the country.

Max Rader, president of the California Grape Juice company, testified that to him "servicing" grape juice meant delivering the product to a customer and "going back later and trying to get another order."

COPS INTERRUPT BROKER'S HUNT FOR "TREASURE"

John E. Wheeler, a La Salle street broker of 535 Brier street, Kenilworth, was chasing down clews in a "treasure hunt" last night when the Evanston police interfered.

Mr. Wheeler was driving north in Sheridan road at a rate of 34 miles an hour. Motorcycle Officer Fred Wynn escorted the broker and Mrs. Wheeler to police headquarters, where the treasure hunters pleaded for a prompt hearing.

Justice of the Peace Harry Porter obliged the broker. Wheeler cheerfully paid a $3 fine and $2 in costs and departed after handshakes and thanks for quick service. The treasure hunt had started at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Yale Rice, 920 Michigan avenue, Evanston, and ended in Wilmette with the Wheelers not in the running.

WRANGLE OVER PROPOSED DUTY ON SHOES, HIDES

Makers Divided on Levy for Their Product.

BY ARTHUR CRAWFORD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.] — Proposed duties on hides, leather and shoes occasioned sharp differences of opinion today before a subcommittee of the senate finance committee.

A split in the ranks of the shoe manufacturers was disclosed when Milton S. Florsheim of Chicago, head of the Florsheim Shoe company, strongly opposed a duty on either hides or shoes. He thought a small duty on calf leather was justified.

Mr. Florsheim asserted that the proposed duties would increase the retail price of a pair of shoes by as much as 90 cents and that he believed farmers would gain no benefit from a duty on hides in view of increased costs of shoes and leather goods which he must buy.

Fight Rages All Day.

Duties of the house tariff bill, around which the controversy raged at an all day hearing, are 10 per cent on hides, rates ranging from 12½ to 20 per cent on leather, and 20 per cent on shoes. All are on the free list in the present law.

Agricultural spokesmen asked a higher rate on hides than provided in the house bill. Tanners sought more protection for the calf leather industry. The shoe manufacturers were unanimous in objecting to a duty on hides but divided on the question of a duty on shoes.

Mr. Florsheim's position was at sharp variance with that of William Atwell, representing 72 shoe manufacturers of Lynn, Mass., who declared that foreign imports, particularly of women's shoes, were threatening destruction of the industry.

Shoe manufacturing companies listed by Mr. Florsheim as opposing a duty on shoes were Selz, Schwab and company of Chicago, the International Shoe company and the Brown Shoe company of St. Louis; the Freeman Shoe Manufacturing company, and the Freeman-Beddow Shoe Manufacturing company of Beloit, Wis.; Nunn, Bush and Weldon Shoe company of Milwaukee, Wis.; Durm and McCarthy, Inc., of Auburn, N. Y.; Selby Shoe company of Portsmouth, O.; Julian and Kokenge company of Cincinnati, and the R. P. Hazzard company of Gardiner, Me.

Expect Prosperity to Continue

"All of these companies are prosperous and expect to continue so," said Mr. Florsheim in asserting that none of them felt the need of any duty on shoes. When Senator Elmer Thomas [Dem., Okla.] quoted figures showing that the Florsheim company had made profits of about $7,000,000 in three years Mr. Florsheim said that was approximately correct. He said that the chief benefit of a duty on hides would be to the meat packers.

Charles H. Jones of Wellesley, Mass., chairman of the tariff committee of the New England Shoe Manufacturers' association, and J. F. McElwain of Boston, chairman of the tariff committee on the National Boot and Shoe Manufacturers' association, testified that they had joined in approval of the house rates as a compromise. Both gave the impression, however, that many shoe manufacturers would prefer to do without a duty on shoes if the proposed duty on hides could be eliminated. If there is to be a duty on hides they wanted a duty on shoes.

W. R. Ogg of the American Farm Bureau federation asserted that the house rate on hides is not sufficient, instead of a 10 per cent rate he asked that various specific rates be fixed with a proviso that in no case should the duty be less than 45 per cent ad valorem.

CANADA CUSTOMS SEIZES EIGHT RUM BOATS AT DOCKS

LA SALIE, Ont., June 28.—(AP)—Canadian customs officers yesterday seized eight motor boats owned by rum runners at the Atlantic export docks here because their operators failed to comply with customs regulations, it became known here today. Under Canadian law all operators of boats used for export purposes must report to Canadian authorities as soon as their vessel is landed.

Convict Offers to Solve Police Slaying Mystery

Capt. Albert Christensen, commander of the Robey street police district, said last night that after three years he is close to a solution of the slaying of Sergt. Casimir Wistert, who was found dying of a bullet wound in a hallway at 2204 Wilson avenue the night of June 7, 1926. A convict in Sing Sing prison knows the killer's identity and will barter his information for assistance in procuring his own release, Capt. Christensen said he has learned. Further action awaits the direction of Police Commissioner Russell.

Teacher Retires After 43 Years

MRS. MINNIE T. ALEXANDER.

Ends Long Service

Children of the second and third grades at the William Penn Nixon school, Keeler and Dickens avenues, were especially attentive yesterday. For they knew it would be the last day that they would have with them their teacher, Mrs. Minnie T. Alexander, whose retirement became effective yesterday following 43 years of continuous service in Chicago schools. And 38 years of this service were spent at the Nixon school. The teaching career of Mrs. Alexander, who was born 70 years ago, at Dearborn and Huron streets, really began in 1880, her first assignment being at the King school, on Harrison street. She later quit for a while, returning to her work in 1886. Mrs. Alexander lives at 2064 North Kostner avenue. Her daughter, Miss Grace E. Alexander, teaches Spanish at the Carl Schurz school.

U. S. AGENT LIKES MEXICAN BEER, BOOTLEG LABOR

San Antonio, Tex., June 28.—(AP)—A border customs collector who admitted he drinks beer occasionally in Mexico, and that perhaps half the Mexican laborers employed on his farm may have entered the United States illegally, was denounced by Senator Kenneth McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], at the senate patronage hearing here today.

Roy Campbell, the customs collector, who is stationed at Laredo, Tex., and is said to owe his appointment to R. B. Creager, Republican national committeeman for Texas, was questioned after Senator McKellar had threatened Creager with arrest for an inuendo attack on Congressman John Garner, Democratic leader in the house. The threat brought an apology from Creager.

"I drink a little beer in Mexico occasionally," Campbell testified when questioned by Senator McKellar.

"Do you think it proper for a customs official to cross the border and drink?" Senator McKellar asked.

"I don't think it promotes confidence," Campbell answered.

"Then why do you do it?"

"I want to."

DR. IVAN BRATT SEES MORAL GOOD IN PROHIBITION

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

COPENHAGEN, Denmark, June 28. —Heresy appeared in the ranks of the delegates to the international anti-prohibition congress today when Dr. Ivan Bratt, who created the Swedish restriction system, finished his address by saying, "From a moral viewpoint, prohibition is justified."

Baron Raymond de Luze of Paris told the assembly that the declaration would have to be censored, particularly as it would likely provide ammunition for the prohibitionists, who are convening here Monday and who would purposely follow up the wets and steal their thunder.

Before adjourning, the congress passed three resolutions: [1], regretting that legislation in respect to drinking so frequently ignored personal liberty; [2], condemning the "injurious effects of prohibition legislation, which breaks down the moral sense of justice and public health"; [3], asking for early revision of all prohibition legislation and scaling down of prohibitive alcohol taxation in order to put an end to smuggling and bootlegging.

NEAR BEER HELD LEGAL UNDER IOWA STATUTE

Des Moines, Ia., June 28.—(AP)—Judge G. E. Mershon late today ruled that the seizure of 150,000 bottles of near beer here was illegal.

He sustained the motion of defense attorneys for dismissal of the case on the ground that the beverage constituted "an interstate commerce shipment and rightfully in possession of the claimant railway company and a common carrier." Judge Mershon, however, interpreted the Iowa law as not applying to near beer.

"The court finds," he said, "that the statutes of Iowa do not make illegal the sale or transportation of beverages that are not intoxicating liquor in fact. It is conceded that the liquor seized in this case is malt liquor but it is not intoxicating in fact. The section of the code classing malt liquor as intoxicating liquor can not be construed to include malt liquor that is not intoxicating liquor in fact for the reason that the title of the act in which that section of the code is found contains the words only 'intoxicating liquors.'"

U. S. Agents Seize Stills, Liquor in Calumet City

Two 200 gallon stills and 125 gallons of alcohol were found by prohibition agents early yesterday in a raid at 51 Price street, Calumet City.

2 CAB OFFICIALS CHARGED WITH SLUGGING GIVE UP

Walter Finkle and Charles Patrick, road superintendents for the Checker Taxi company, surrendered to Fillmore police yesterday on warrants charging them with slugging Meyer Mizenberg, a former Checker driver who was severely beaten Thursday as he was leaving his home, 1112 South St. Louis avenue, to go to Federal Judge Wilkerson's court, where a hearing on the company's affairs was to take place. Mizenberg was one of the driver-stockholders whose intervening petiuon in the litigation accused the officers of graft.

Finkle and Patrick were released in $50 bonds and will be arraigned before Municipal Judge Harry Hamlin in the Fillmore street court this morning.

WIFE ASKS PARIS DIVORCE FROM A. G. JENNINGS JR.

Albert Gould Jennings Jr., nephew of the late John Crimmins, Tammany boss, was sued for divorce in Paris yesterday by his wife, Mrs. Helen Bailey Reuping Jennings, formerly of Chicago, according to an Associated Press disptach. The bill charges desertion and non-support.

The Jennings were secretly married in Waukegan on Oct. 1, 1924. The marriage was not discovered until the following March, when it created a stir in New York and Chicago society. Jennings was then 23 years old, and his wife was known to be considerably older.

Mrs. Jennings left Chicago seventeen years ago after procuring a divorce from her first husband.

BODY FOUND IN LAKE.

The body of an unidentified man about 30 years old, clad in black trousers and vest, a tan shirt, and black button shoes, was taken from the lake at the foot of Chicago avenue yesterday and removed to a mortuary at 716 North State street.

FARMERS FAVOR LEGGE FOR POST ON FARM BOARD

Chicagoan Remains Mum on President's Offer.

General approval of the proposed appointment of Alexander Legge of Chicago, president of the International Harvester company, as a member and possibly as chairman of the new federal farm board was manifest yesterday at the headquarters of Illinois Agricultural association at a meeting of the National Milk Producers and at the Chicago Board of Trade. Mr. Legge, however, refused to make any statement on whether he would accept the post tendered him by President Hoover.

In the absence of Earl C. Smith, president of the Illinois Agricultural association, no one there would make any official statement in reference to Mr. Legge's selection. Privately it was said the farmers regard Legge as aggressive and progressive and they are well pleased with the offer of appointment to him. It was pointed out that S. H. Thompson, president of the American Farm Bureau federation, had urged the appointment of Mr. Legge.

Called "Farmers' Friend."

Dairymen at the meeting in the Stevens hotel recalled that two years ago, when corn was selling at a low price and was not easily marketable, Mr. Legge agreed to accept corn at a price of $1 a bushel in payment for all bills owed to the International Harvester company for farm machinery. The dairymen called him "the farmer's friend."

Opinions obtained at the Board of Trade were that Legge's appointment would be a benefit both to the traders and the farmers. It was said they regard Legge as a high class business man and they look for a business administration of the farm board if he accepts. The grain brokers said that through him they hope to have restrictions removed which have driven traders into the Canadian markets, to the detriment of American farmers.

Cite Contacts with Russian.

Another feature cited by grain men in support of the appointment of Mr. Legge was his dealings with the soviet government of Russia. He has access to facts and figures regarding the grain output there and, as there is a possibility that Russia may again become an important factor in the world grain market, he would bring with him to his new position invaluable information and possibilities of future information of equal or greater importance.

Confidence was also expressed that he would be able to remove friction between the Chicago and other markets and to effect coöperation between all American markets, in competition with world trade, eliminating discrimination within the United States regarding the marketing of grain. One cause given for this friction, and which the tradess would look to Mr. Legge to remove, is the call rule which permits traders in other markets to know the price Chicago traders are offering for the farmers' grain.

HOOVER NAMES THREE TO POSTS ON FARM BOARD

Still Awaits Word from Legge.

Washington, June 28.—[Special.]—Appointment of three members of the new federal farm board was definitely announced today by President Hoover.

The three appointees, all of whom have indicated their acceptance, are James C. Stone of Lexington, Ky., representing tobacco coöperatives, C. B. Denman of Farmington, Mo., a live stock man, and Carl Williams of Oklahoma City, Okla., editor of a farm paper and active in cotton coöperatives.

No definite word has been received as to whether Alexander Legge of Chicago, president of the International Harvester company, will accept a place on the board. The belief at the White House is that Mr. Legge will announce his acceptance early next week.

Other Acceptances Awaited.

The President is understood to have completed the entire personnel of the board, contingent only upon acceptances of those to whom he has offered places. The President expects to be able to announce the full membership by the middle of next week and believes that the board will be ready to function by August 1.

None of the four men definitely announced as selections of the President is believed to be slated for the chairmanship of the board. It is thought probable that a representative of the wheat growers will be made chairman. Thomas Campbell of Montana, the largest wheat grower in the country, originally was understood to be slated for membership on the board, but latest reports that he has been eliminated.

The four appointments still to be made known, are expected to include representatives of the dairy industry and fruit growers, besides wheat growers. The other member may be some one experienced in finance.

Stone a Big Burley Man.

Mr. Stone was a founder of the Burley Tobacco Growers' Coöperative association. He is the owner of livestock farms, a director of the Fayette National bank and of the Joint State Land Bank of Kentucky.

Mr. Denman is president of the National Livestock Producers' association, with headquarters in Chicago. This association is a farmers' coöperative, operating in twelve states and doing a business of 150 million dollars annually. Mr. Denman is the owner of a livestock farm near Farmington, Mo.

Mr. Williams has been editor of the Oklahoma Farmer-Stockman since 1913. He is a director of the Liberty National Bank of Oklahoma City. He was an organizer of the Oklahoma Cotton Growers' association and is a former president of the American Cotton Growers' exchange.

Steal Safe and $9,500; Find It in Country

A safe which contained $5,000 in negotiable papers, $2,500 in currency, and $2,000 in checks was stolen by burglars early yesterday from the offices of the Meilecke System corporation, 3466 North Clark street. The safe, blown open and emptied of its contents, was found at Harms road and Simpson street, near Niles. Morton Grove county police are trying to pick up the trail of the thieves.

POLICE 'DOPE' ON FOREIGN ENVOYS SENT TO SENATE

35 Warned for Violations of Law.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—Thirty-five diplomats, including one ambassador and three ministers, have been halted and warned by the local police during the last thirteen years for violation of traffic regulations, Maj. Harry G. Pratt, superintendent of police, reported to the senate today.

Maj. Pratt's letter of transmisal carried the information that some of the foreign diplomats had been stopped for driving automobiles while under the influence of liquor. The list sent to the senate merely carried the names of the diplomats and did not set forth the offense each was charged with having committed. In no instance were diplomats arrested.

German Envoy Heads List.

The most prominent name on the report is listed as "Von Prittwitz, Germany." Herr Friedrich Von Prittwitz und Gaffron is the German ambassador.

Other diplomats listed include J. H. Van Royen, Count Lassi Szechenyi and Eduardo De Medina. The latest diplomatic list gives J. H. Van Royen as the minister from the Netherlands, Count Szechenyi as the Hungarian minister, and Medina as the minister representing Bolivia in Washington.

Diplomats from Sweden, Argentina, Cuba, Germany, Greece, Ecuador, Spain, Hungary, Venezuela, Roumania, Italy, Mexico, Turkey, France, the Irish Free state, Great Britain, Bolivia, Japan, Persia, Egypt, Honduras, Bulgaria and the Netherlands are included in the total of thirty-five. Two of the foreign representatives are listed as having committed two offenses.

The list of diplomatic offenders of the district traffic laws was sent to the senate in response to the Caraway resolution calling for the names of all representatives of foreign countries halted by the police for operating automobiles in the District of Columbia while under the influence of liquor or for other traffic violations.

In his letter Maj. Pratt called attention to the circumstance that foreign representatives, because of their diplomatic immunity privileges, cannot be arrested.

The immunity from arrest enjoyed by foreign representatives assigned to Washington has been the subject of debate on many accasions in the senate. The purpose of this resolution was to determine the extent to which diplomats were ignoring traffic laws.

Charles Danahar, 23 years old, 1017 Ferdinand avenue, Forest Park, died of excessive drinking, according to a coroner's jury verdict yesterday.

MOST OF AMERICAN EMBASSIES IN EUROPE FOUND TO BE "DRY"

LONDON, June 28. — (AP) — The American embassy in London, now "dry" in accordance with the decision of Ambassador Dawes, is not the only "dry" spot in the American diplomatic service. No spirits have been served in the American legation in Denmark for the last two years.

The embassy in Berlin is officially dry and only tea and coffee were served at the "house warming tea" in April, the only official entertainment yet held in the new building.

The American embassy in Paris has been closed since the death of Ambassador Herrick. No liquor ever is served in the diplomatic chancellery, which is the only part of the embassy now functioning.

The American minister at Oslo is a total abstainer and the question of serving alcoholic beverages or of following the example of Ambassador Dawes has not arisen there.

The embassy at Madrid said that no change had been ordered there regarding the character of the refreshments served there, while the embassy in Rome had no comment to make on Ambassador Dawes' action.

So far as could be ascertained, none of the American embassies in southeastern Europe and the Balkans has yet followed Gen. Dawes' example.

MEXICO ORDERS PRESS TO IGNORE RELIGIOUS NEWS

Seek to Avoid Trouble with Radicals.

BY JOHN CORNYN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

MEXICO CITY, June 28. — News papers here today played down stories on the resumption of Catholic church services on agreement with the government and the church, both of whom are anxious to prevent excitement among the people by sensational notices.

At the Episcopate today it was stated that the relations between the government and the church in all negotiations relating to the return of churches to the priests and arrangement of questions pending, are most cordial. Church authorities have refused to allow demonstrations on the part of Catholics over the resumption of service in order to avoid giving the radicals an excuse for counter demonstrations.

For the first time in the history of press and other censorship, public opinion supports the censorship as a wise move and calculated to prevent trouble. Catholic authorities today said the prevention of flamboyant press stories was calculated to prevent further danger in the work still to be done for the complete adjustment of relations between the church and the government.

Both Archbishop Leopoldo Ruiz y Flores and Archbishop Pascual Diaz are anxious to have the resumption of church services pass off "as quietly as possible," and it was further added at the Episcopate that "the efforts to keep down sensational reports by the government meets fully with our own views of the situation."

It is expected the censorship will be removed as soon as the church question becomes normal again.

Paris Press Calls Move One of Hysteria.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., June 28.—[Special.]—Indications today were that the French plea for postponement of the maturity date of Aug. 1 on the $400,000,000 debt owed by the French government to the United States for war supplies purchased after the world war will be unsuccessful.

Paul Claudel, French ambassador, took up the question of postponement of Dec. 31, 1929, with Secretary of State Stimson this afternoon following the receipt of instructions from his government. Both the ambassador and Col. Stimson declined to comment on their meeting.

Would Need Congress Action.

That the plea for postponement would be denied was indicated by Mr. Stimson earlier in the day. He took the view that the maturity date could not be deferred without action by congress, and congress will not convene before Aug. 19.

Congress, through a joint resolution, has provided for deferring the maturity date on the war stocks debt pending France by Aug. 1 ratifies the Mellon-Berenger agreement for funding the four billion dollar French war debt to the United States. If the main war debt plan is ratified the war stocks bill will be absorbed in the general agreement. Congressional circles do not favor further postponement of the war stocks bill, Senator Borah [Rep., Idaho], chairman of the foreign relations committee, indicated.

Borah Scores French Plea.

"The president of the foreign affairs committee of the French assembly, Franklin Bouillon, is quoted as saying that the United States was undertaking to railroad France into a ratification of the debt settlement," Senator Borah said. "He further stated that if America would not recognize justice then France would be able to appeal to the justice of the world.

"This is said in the face of the fact that it is more than three years since the war debt settlement was made, more than ten years since the debt became due and the further fact that we settled with France for about fifty cents on the dollar.

"France is now the most prosperous nation in Europe and has been for the last seven years. She has no unemployment. In fact she has brought over more than 1,000,000 Italians and a large number of Poles to help her industries. It is perfectly evident that such gentlemen as the president of the foreign affairs committee of the French assembly are not fighting for time because they have had all of that; they are not fighting for justice because they have had that in the settlement. There must be something else."

PARIS PRESS SCORES MOVE

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

PARIS, June 28.—The French parliamentary world is suffering something very much like a hangover today from last night's frantic session over war debts to the United States and Great Britain.

Condemned almost unanimously by the French press as guilty of a hysterical performance in demanding that Premier Raymond Poincare reopen negotiations with Washington for the postponement of the due date of the $407,000,000 war stocks debt, the deputies tonight are disconsolately awaiting to hear what happened in Washington.

The premier summoned Emile Moreau, governor of the Bank of France, for a conference early this morning to discuss the situation, payment, and, so it is reported, to take steps to halt any wildcat speculation on the bourse, which responded to last night's action like a seismograph to an earthquake. A serious depression was suffered by French rentes and banking stocks.

Poincare Urges Settlement.

Premier Poincare this afternoon continued before the joint commission on finance and foreign affairs his statement on the problem of debts and reparations and the absolute necessity of their settlement.

He gave the grave political reasons for ratification, and in the corridors of the chamber tonight there was a feeling abroad that the French government will manage to shove ratification through before Aug. 1 regardless of what action, if any, is taken on the Young experts' plan. Thus the nightmare of paying $400,000,000 to the United States for the purchase of war stocks will disappear and the debt be amalgamated in the total French debt to America.

BRITISH CABINET ACTS TO RESUME LINK WITH RUSSIA

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, June 28.—The cabinet continued its work today on the king's speech. The new government has definitely decided to announce the intention of an immediate resumption of relations with Russia in the speech.

It is not certain whether the new disarmament conference will be announced in the king's speech, or whether Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald will make a statement in the house of commons.

There is said to be a feeling both in London and Washington that the experts said all their say in Geneva, and it was up to the statesmen to take up the subject where they left it, trying to reconcile the conflicting expert views.

Finds Kenilworth Needs at Least One More Law

Miss Dorothy Sears, 417 Warwick road, Kenilworth, daughter of the late Joseph Sears, founder of the village, discovered last night that the village needs a law against firecrackers. Preliminary Independence day celebrants kept her awake by shooting firecrackers near her home and she appealed to police for aid. All police could do to help her was to ask the celebrants to explode their firecrackers elsewhere.

LAWYER ACCUSED AS HOLDUP MAN WINS VINDICATION

"Not Guilty," Verdict in Blackwood Case.

Assistant State's Attorney R. E. Blackwood, who was arrested several weeks ago on a robbery charge, was vindicated yesterday when a finding of not guilty was given by Judge Edgar Jonas in the felony court after the judge had heard an ironclad alibi produced in behalf of the assistant prosecutor.

Justice Frederic R. De Young of the Supreme court and Congressman Morton D. Hull were among those who appeared to testify that Blackwood's reputation for honesty and integrity made it improbable that he was one of three men who, on April 5, held up Frederick Froemke, 1709 West 59th street, a real estate dealer.

Swanson in Two Rôles.

The court fans were treated to an unusual sight—that of State's Attorney Swanson doubling in the rôle of witness and defense counsel. Assistant State's Attorney James Mast, acting as prosecuting attorney, had the job of opposing his own chief.

Froemke persisted in his identification of Blackwood, although on cross-examination by the defendant and Mr. Swanson some discrepancies were shown in the original description given by him to the police.

George Zajac, 1317 West Chicago avenue, and Frank Zinser, 1400 West 73d street, who were also in the real estate office when Froemke was robbed of a $1,000 diamond ring and $300, were not positive in their testimony yesterday that Blackwood was the robber. They said he generally resembled the bandit, who seemed a younger man.

Ironclad Alibi Presented.

Assistant State's Attorney Paul H. Moore came to the assistance of his associate to testify that on the afternoon of the robbery he and Blackwood were engaged in prosecuting tax fixers. He produced court records to substantiate his testimony. Prosecutor Swanson then left his rôle of defender long enough to testify that he had conferred with his two assistants about the case they had prosecuted.

It was also shown that Froemke has been engaged in much litigation, both civil and criminal. He has several times been a defendant in confidence game cases.

JAPAN HURRIES UP MIKADO'S O. K. OF KELLOGG PACT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

TOKIO, June 28.—Japan prepared today to rush to Washington the signature of the mikado to the Kellogg anti-war treaty.

The phrase "in the names of their respective peoples" made Japan the last to ratify the pact, although one of the first to indorse it.

Premier Baron Tanaka was embarassed by the resignation of former Foreign Minister Count Uchida from the council, as the count had signed the Kellogg pact for Japan on Aug. 27, 1928, but he began yesterday to reorganize the cabinet.

In a lengthy statement he revealed that former Secretary of State Frank B. Kellogg wrote a note last July saying that the phrase meant "on behalf of" and not "as agent" of their respective peoples.

Alumni Hold Reunion

The Englewood High school class of 1924 held a reunion last night in the school auditorium with their former principal, James E. Armstrong, as chief guest of honor. His successor, Daniel F. O'Hearn, presided. Mr. Armstrong, who retired Feb. 1 after being Englewood's principal for thirty-seven years, was shown drawings of two stained glass windows to be placed at the head of the main stairway in his honor. One window bears the Armstrong coat of arms with the motto, "Valida Mano," meaning "strong of arm," and the other carries the school motto, a fragment from the school song composed by the former principal many years ago. About 200 Englewood graduates attended the reunion.

BOY, 6, KILLED BY AUTOMOBILE WHILE AT PLAY

Ralph Briet, 6 years old, 1419 Wrightwood avenue, was instanly killed when he was struck by an automobile while playing near his home last night. The driver, Edward T. Donahue, 4815 Belle Plaine avenue, was held.

This death and one other raised the 1929 Cook county motor toll to 386. The other victim:

Harry Miller, 21 years old, 6541 North Francisco avenue. Died at the Ravenswood hospital of injuries received Thursday when his automobile collided with another driven by Louis S. Cassell of Winnetka at Crawford and Devon avenues.

BOGOSLOWSKI AND MOSHIEK TO ASK CHANGE OF VENUE

Aaron Moshiek, alleged master forger, and Morris Bogoslowski served notice through their attorney yesterday that they would ask for a change of venue from Judge Thomas Taylor on Monday when their cases are called to trial. They charge that Judge Taylor and Judge Robert E. Gentzel are prejudiced against them.

The men were tried once and convicted of forgery, but the Appellate court reversed the decision and ordered a new trial.

An explosion, believed to have occurred when a quantity of gasoline ignited, blew out the front of the Aero Tire shop on the ground floor of a three story brick structure at 829 Roosevelt road early this morning. Damage estimated at $2,000 was done before firemen subdued the blaze.

STUDENTS RIOT AS ALL GERMANY MOURNS "GUILT"

Police Fight Crowd at Hindenburg Home.

BY GEOFFREY FRASER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, June 28.—Marked by student riots near the residence of President von Hindenburg and a giant demonstration of monarchists in Berlin, as well as services in all parts of the land, Germany today observed its day of "mourning" and protest against the "war guilt lie" and the Versailles treaty of peace signed 10 years ago.

Despite much advertising and a proclamation signed by President von Hindenburg and the cabinet denouncing the treaty's charges against Germany a large part of the population preserved a sort of half indifferent, half benevolent neutrality. The churches were only half filled at the mourning services.

Except for a few aristocratic residential streets there were no flags flown at half staff as the Nationalist press requested.

150,000 at Protest Meeting.

Only open adherents to the former kaiser's régime participated in the big protest meeting in the stadium tonight. Officers of the old army, in full uniform and spiked helmets, enjoyed a passing hour of reminiscent glory under the approving eye of the former crown prince, Frederick Wilhelm, who stood among the spectators but did not push himself forward.

One hundred and fifty thousand people filled the gigantic stadium, the center of which was occupied by 15,000 torch bearing, steel helmeters and Boy Scouts. The stadium was decorated with black, white and red flags of the former monarchy, draped in black. Deputations from regiments of the old army filed by carrying their colors, which were massed in the center with ten bands.

As the flags were dipped in salute in front of Count Westarp, Nationalist leader, and two leaders of the steel helmets, Sedtke and Duesterberg, the huge assembly sang "Deutschland Uber Alles" and then the Netherlands prayer.

Pleads for Liberation.

Count Westarp's speech was an arraignment of the government's policy of kowtowing to the allies. He denied Germany's war guilt, and ended with a vibrant appeal to all to work for the liberation of the fatherland.

"We will be free," he said. "We will be a great power once again. We will be a people able to defend itself—indeed we are that already."

The cabinet's ban on the university students' proposed demonstration led to tumultuous scenes in the historic Unter den Linden at noon. Two thousand Nationalist students succeeded in slipping past the police cordon. They assembled in front of the ministry of education, where they demolished the minister's automobile. In order to prevent the mob from storming the ministry the police fired over the students' heads.

Attempts to rush the Wilhelmstrass in order to acclaim President Paul von Hindenburg were frustrated by repeated charges of police with batons. Eleven students were arrested and several were injured.

Recall Shots at Sarajevo.

SARAJEVO, Jugo-Slavia, June 28.—(AP)—Commemorative services today recalled the shots which just fifteen years ago led to the world war. Both those who fired the shots and the two they killed were honored.

Jugo-Slavians from all sections of the triune kingdom participated in a memorial service at the graves of Gravrilo Princip and Madelko Chaerinovitch, Bosnian students, who shot the Archduke Ferdinand of Austria and his archduchess, avowedly to free Serbia from an Austrian yoke.

Commemorative services for the archduke and his wife were arranged for a spot near the bridge over the placid Miljacka river where they were killed.

ATTORNEY DAVIS FINDS HIMSELF IN NEW DIFFICULTY

Attorney Philip R. Davis, whose conduct is under investigation by the Chicago Bar association, encountered further difficulty yesterday when he attempted to procure a divorce for a woman whose first bill had been dismissed a month ago. The woman's husband, Casper Willis, announced that he will refer this action to the bar association for inquiry.

Davis appeared before Superior Judge Gemmill, representing Mrs. Florence Willis, 6344 Hoyne avenue, in her action against Willis on charges of cruelty. Attorney Irving Breakstone, representing Willis, reminded Judge Gemmill that he had already heard the case.

Mrs. Willis filed a bill for divorce last August through another attorney under the name of Flossie Willis, according to Attorney Breakstone. This action was dismissed for want of equity by Judge Gemmill on May 22. On June 21 she filed suit on identical charges through Attorney Davis. The second bill came before Superior Judge Sabath on a motion for temporary allimony Monday. Judge Sabath refused to hear the case and referred it to Judge Gemmill, Breakstone said.

Judge Gemmill refused to consider the case because he had already decided the matter.

802 SUITS FILED IN COURT ON ONE DAY; SET RECORD

Eight hundred and two suits, a record for one day, were begun in the Circuit and Superior courts yesterday by attorneys to escape the increase in costs effective on July 1, under the bill recently passed by the state legislature. Today is the last day for filing under the old costs of $10 for a new suit, $20 for a condemnation suit, and $3 for an appearance.

In the Superior court 504 new suits were filed and 175 appearances were entered, against the normal daily average of 70 suits and 50 appearances. In the Circuit court 298 suits were filed against the normal average of 50 suits.

Beginning Monday the costs are to be $15 to file a suit, $30 for a condemnation suit, and $5 for an appearance. Attorneys will be required to pay $3 for jury fees if they wish a jury trial. If this fee is not paid at the time of filing, it is to be understood that trial by jury is waived.

FIND TINLEY PARK SPEED FINES PAY CHIEF'S SALARY

Records Seized After Motorists Complain.

BY PUTNEY HAIGHT.

State's attorney's investigators seized all tangible justice court records in automobile cases at Tinley Park yesterday as the result of complaints by motorists that they had been arrested for inconsequential errors and fined excessively.

The justice of the peace, Clyde Rice, who when not administering justice is employed as foreman of a section gang on the Rock Island railway, has been in office since April, but had no complete records.

"We have not been drawing up written complaints," he told Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller, who found him on the railway right of way, "because I just use the arrest slips made out by ours chief. He makes the charges and I hear the cases."

Chief Devotes Time to Speeders.

Mr. Mueller obtained the duplicate arrest book carried by Chief George Smith, who devotes his time entirely to picking up speeders in the village of about 100 inhabitants. Notations on the arrest slips indicated that the justice has been assessing justice costs at $5 upon pleas of guilty, though $2 is the legal fee.

Conference with the village treasurer disclosed the fact that the fines in motor vehicle cases amounted to about $150 per month.

"While the volume of arrests and fines does not seem excessive, it is an interesting coincidence that the police chief's salary from the village is just that amount," Mr. Mueller said. The records will be checked by the county prosecutor and such action as is warranted recommended. Numerous complaints by motorists to the Chicago Motor club constituted the basis for issuance of subpoenas duces tecum preliminary to the raid.

Tinley Park is a small settlement in the far southwest portion of Cook county and is visited principally by pleasure drivers, as the single paved road which passes through it, Ridgeland avenue south from 147th street, terminates at 183d street. A dozen houses and two or three stores make up the hamlet.

Letters to THE TRIBUNE from victims of arrest there state that it is the custom of the police officer to seize drivers of cars moving at a speed greater than 15 miles an hour.

Maywood Promises Action.

James W. Duffy, chairman of the police committee of the village board of Maywood, at a conference last night with Mr. Mueller and Joseph Braum, attorney for the Chicago Motor club, promised to remedy conditions in Maywood. He admitted that there "may be something wrong" with the system which prohibits left turns at 5th avenue and Washington boulevard, where numerous arrests caused the state's attorney's office to start its investigation of traffic in Maywood. Mr. Duffy said he would ask the motor club to make a survey of the needs at the intersection and to make recommendations for changes.

Mr. Mueller disclosed that the police magistrate's records showed 107 arrests in May, 1928, and 71 in May, 1929, for left turns at the intersection, which the motor club contends is not properly marked to warn motorists. The prosecutor's investigation also showed that former Police Magistrate Joseph W. Wright had been charging a fee of $1 for approval of cash bail and that the practice has been continued by the present administration since it took office in April. All persons who have been arrested will be interviewed and if the facts show that fees were charged without authority of law, Mr. Mueller will require the present and past magistrates to refund them.

EVANSTON AWAITS COMPANY'S REPLY ON GAS PROTEST

Rate Is Found Higher than in Chicago.

Ald. Edward B. Davidson of Evanston said yesterday that he is awaiting a reply from the Public Service company of Northern Illinois to a complaint about its gas rates and that he will take no action until he receives the reply. When the company states its position, Ald. Davidson said, he will ask the corporation counsel and city engineer of Evanston to investigate before any appeal is made to the Illinois commerce commission for a reduction.

The complaint cited the existing rate of $1.35 per thousand cubic feet per month, for the first thousand feet, $1.30 per thousand for the next two thousand feet, and a gradual reduction on the price to larger users. This was compared with the rate in other cities. In Detroit the rate is 79c for the average use of 3,000 cubic feet per month, in Chicago it is $1.02 for the same service and Evanston [average] it is $1.21 2-3.

Decline to Make Reply.

At the general offices of the Public Service company it was said no public reply would be made.

"We regard the complaint as too trivial," was the only comment of officials.

An inspection of the records of the commerce commission revealed that the Evanston rate is the same as in all towns in Cook county [outside Chicago], Lake county and Will county. In zones farther downstate the uniform rate is $1.45 a thousand cubic feet with a discount of only 5 cents a thousand, compared with a 10 cent discount in the three northern counties. Rates in counties west of the Public Service territory and served by another company were shown to average about $1.25 per thousand feet of gas.

Evanstonians who think their gas rate should be at least as low as Chicago's called attention to the ever increasing earnings of the Public Service company.

Cite Figures on Earnings.

Figures were cited as follows:

In 1928 the company's net earnings were $5,853,453, which would allow a dividend of $14.32 on all common stock after paying 6 and 7 per cent on the preferred stock. Instead, however, the company paid only an 8 per cent dividend on its common stock and increased its surplus by $2,380,057. The surplus on hand Dec. 31, 1927, was $7,934,137, and a year later it was $10,254,194. Recently stockholders were granted the right to buy additional shares at $100, and this was regarded as a stock dividend of approximately $13,000,000, the right to buy such stock being valued at $23 a share.

The total assets of the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, an Insull property, were listed as $173,114,826, and the stock is selling at an average value of $270 a share, and there are 349,646 shares of common stock, according to the citations.

Serves 1,250,000 People.

The company serves an estimated 1,250,000 persons within an area of 6,000 square miles. It sells gas, electricity, heat and water, and it operates in 302 communities, having more than 300,000 customers. The present rates went into effect more than five years ago, it was said at the commerce commission offices, when postwar prices reached their peak.

FRANK DANISCH IS ACCUSED IN 2 INDICTMENTS

Frank Danisch, former clerk in the Municipal court, was named in two indictments charging operation of a confidence game, returned by the grand jury yesterday to Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court. His bonds were fixed at $25,000 on each charge.

Stanley and Mrs. Anna Sowinski alleged that Danisch swindled them out of $3,500 and Mrs. Konstantia Haase and her husband, Ambrose, charged that he obtained $5,000 from them.

HARDINGE DAUBS BLACK ON ROSY SCENES OF LOVE

Presents Ann's Romance as a Business Deal.

Denver and I met this friend—his wife and daughter didn't come, and I told him we were married in Kansas City. He was much astonished, of course, and said: "Well, at least you picked out a pretty good looker."

This so tickled the courtroom that there was an outburst of merriment, whereat Judge Miller cautioned the spectators against a repetition.

"Did you," deliberately questioned Bussian, "tell Miss Livingston in this conversation that you were looking for a wife, and that you were fond of her?"

"I did," answered the witness, then immediately added, "I didn't." He was apparently confused by the query, which was repeated for his benefit, whereupon he replied: "I did not."

Q.—Did you ever ask Miss Livingston to marry you? A.—I did not.

Q.—Did you ask her to go to San Francisco with you at your expense? A.—I did not.

Ann's Letters in Evidence.

Attorney Bussian then proceeded to introduce in chronological sequence the letters of Ann Livingston after she and Hardinge parted on the train. They concerned for the most part the matter of Hardinge's coming to Tulsa, with plenty of indications that his presence there would not be distasteful to Ann.

In rapid gradations they passed from the formal stage, preceding the Tulsa episode, to the friendly, and after that climbed the thermometer to the ardently friendly and thereafter the endearing and loverlike plane.

Then Bussian laid down the letters and proceeded to take his client over the jumps of the Tulsa happenings already related by Ann. Here the lawyer made his first direct and overt effort to classify the girl as an unscrupulous gold digger who dug to excellent purpose.

Hardinge, replying to queries, said that he and An had passed a shop where she admired some jewelry in the window, adding that she would like to have it. He returned there later and purchased the costume jewelry which Ann had earlier displayed on the stand.

The Nap in the Apartment.

Then the witness was called upon to skirt carefully the happening in his Tulsa apartment, where Ann fell asleep on the couch and he threw a raincoat over her. In her testimony Ann made this an important episode in their budding romance. After she awoke, according to her testimony, Hardinge told her he had been sitting beside her contemplating her beauty and considering what a good wife she would make for him.

"Tell us what happened in your apartment," Bussian instructed Hardinge.

"Miss Livington came back to the hotel about 11, after having dinner with this other friend," was the reply. "She seemed very tired and flung herself down on the couch and fell asleep immediately. I sat beside her, thinking over a conversation of the night before, and she awoke after an hour and was amazed that she had slept so long. I asked her, 'What has happened? You act as if something had occurred.' She said, 'O, nothing. It wouldn't do any good to tell you'."

Q.—Then what happened. A.—I called a cab and drove her home.

His Version of "Engagement."

That, it appeared, was that. Bussian then shifted the scene to Chicago and the apartment of the plaintiff in the Cluxton hotel. The date was that on which Ann claims Hardinge pressed her for an answer to his proposal, and she gave it in the affirmative later that evening in a Rogers Park restaurant.

Q.—What happened that night, if you remember? A.—I went to Miss Livingston's apartment to take her to dinner. She didn't seem to be very happy.

"Tell what was said," interjected Bussian.

"She said that she was unhappy because I hadn't proposed to her. That her relatives and friends in Tulsa were expecting her to write them that she was to be married to me, since she had come up here. I told her this was a great surprise to me, that I hadn't any idea of becoming engaged, and that I wouldn't think of becoming engaged unless the woman agreed to enter into a prenuptial contract."

Tells of Proposed Contract.

Q.—What did Miss Livingston say to that? A.—She said she didn't know what a prenuptial contract was. I told her it was an agreement quite usual in such cases, where a man had business interests to protect. That I had the two children to think of, and Miss Brand—this girl that had been with me so many years and had practically raised my children—that I would have to provide for her. And that if I married a young wife I might die in two weeks and she might step in and take the customary one-third unless such a contract was provided.

Hardinge said he mentioned $100,000 as the specific sum to be settled on her in such a contract, in return for which she was to give up all other claims.

Q. What reply did she make? A. She said that would be agreeable to her and that she could see my part of it.

Q. What happened at this restaurant? A. Well, we had walked to the restaurant while we continued our conversation, and we continued to discuss the contract while at the table. I told Miss Livingston that if she would have a lawyer draw up such an agreement between us, and sign it, that then and then only would I become engaged to her.

Hardinge spoke never a word about the exuberant restaurant scene Ann had pictured, of the successful suitor who had begged for his final answer, and receiving it, had dumped up and kissed her across the small table, enthusiastically a s s e r t i n g that he wanted to dance on the table for joy, and broadcast the joyful news from the housetops to all his friends.

Hardinge will continue his story from that point this morning. As a witness the manufacturer appears to be schooled but little better than was Miss Livingston, whose tendency to volunteer information was a source of intense irritation to opposing counsel, and brought her frequent rebukes.

On the witness stand Hardinge was often in the same attitude he assumed during the preceding week of court sessions, leaning forward with one hand cupped above his left ear.

"Can you hear me now, gentlemen?" he politely inquired of the jury, after several promptings to keep his voice up and during a pause in the proceedings. The jurors indicated that they could.

ANN'S LETTERS SHOW HOW HER MEETING WITH HARDINGE GREW INTO LOVE AFFAIR

LETTERS written by Ann Livingston to Franklin S. Hardinge during the summer and fall of 1927 were introduced by the defense yesterday in the girl's $250,000 suit against the oil burner manufacturer for breach of promise to marry.

The letters reveal the progress of the romance, which started on the observation platform of a train and, with the letters Harding wrote to Ann, which are also before the jury, are expected to play a large part in deciding the case. It is the contention of the plaintiff that these letters depict the natural progress of a love affair, while defense attorneys assert they reveal Miss Livingston in the rôle of a "gold digger."

The letters in the order in which they were written follow:

THE LETTERS

Rocky Mountain Lodges, Grand Lake, Colo., July 10, 1927, Grand Lake Lodge.

My Dear Mr. Hardinge: It is with regret that I didn't receive your letter in Denver, so as to write you in Vancouver as you requested. Really I am very sorry for I know what it is to expect a letter and not get one.

I am very lonely tonight—despite the fact I am up above the clouds and sitting by a huge log fire in a mountain lodge. There is a steady downpour of rain and it makes me yearn for that that has been missing all my poor little life—namely: love and a bit o' kindness. But here I go getting sentimental when I hardly know you; yet you may know exactly how I feel tonight if you have ever been there.

My time is limited here, so I bid you a sweet good night and am hoping as I go through Denver I'll receive another lovely letter from you. Sorry it will be impossible for me to go via Chicago on my way home. Suppose you visit me in my home town real soon. Write me a letter care Box 2047, Tulsa, real soon. I'll be there on the 13th of this month. Love,

ANN LIVINGSTON.

CAN CALL HER ANN

An answer to Hardinge's letter of July 14:

Tulsa, Okla., July 16, 1927.

My Dear Mr. Hardinge:

Your nice letter came as a nice little surprise for candidly I didn't think you would bother enough to answer my poorly written letter, sent you from Great Lake. It made me very happy though, coming as it did so soon after my return home.

Had a most pleasant trip and feel rested and refreshed from it. After writing you I went down to Colorado Springs and spent some time there. Enjoyed Pikes Peak, but still it didn't fascinate me like the lake. I could have spent the summer there. The nights were real cold, but the days delightful. I rode horseback every day. Wish you could have been with me.

Am hoping you are considering having a display at our exposition to be held here in October. Even though you don't have your machinery here there is no law against you attending. All the wealth in oildom is represented at these shows and it is really interesting to attend. Seriously speaking, I do hope you will come to Tulsa some time in the near future and see for yourself a town with twenty-four stories in buildings not yet thirty years old.

She night is sultry and I am restless, so I will just run along, take my bath and tumble in.

Good night and sweet dreams,

ANN LIVINGSTON.

P. S.—You may call me Ann—really—

MENTIONS CHICAGO

Tulsa, Okla., July 26, 1927.

Dear Mr. Hardinge:

Hope you will excuse this stationery as I want to write from the office in order to let you know as soon as possible what I did concerning your request for literature, price, etc., about space at the exposition this fall. I referred your request direct to the office of the International Petroleum exposition and I'm sure you'll hear from them immediately.

Am very much elated that you plan to attend the show. You will surely have the time of your life and it goes without saying that you will like Tulsa and her people.

You were right when you said I had perhaps been in the Terrace Garden at the Morrison. I had dinner there one evening while in Chicago last March. It is perfectly beautiful and how I do wish I were in Chicago to go to such places with you. Nothing I'd like better.

Please write me a long letter and tell me of your chief amusements during your idle hours. Bet I wouldn't have a chance to occupy a few of them if I were there. Now would I?

ANN.

SATURDAY SESSION IS ORDERED TO SPEED UP HARDINGE TRIAL

Court will be convened this morning at 9:30 o'clock in the Hardinge-Livingston trial in Judge Charles H. Miller's court in the county building. Sessions are not generally held on Saturday, but Judge Miller has ordered this additional session in an effort to hurry up the case. It is estimated that Hardinge, the defendant, will be kept on the stand at least all day Monday. The case will probably be closed Tuesday or Wednesday.

WANTS CHILDREN

Aug. 2, 1927.

My dear Mr. Hardinge:

I received your delightful letter and found it very interesting. Pardon my not writing sooner, but I have spent most of my time in the office. I am a busy girl. You spoke of my being a business girl. I am not one by choice, yet I make a fair success of it. I would much rather have a home and children. Motherhood to me is the greatest institution in the world.

My favorite amusements are golf and horseback riding, with swimming a close second.

The thought has flashed to my mind to go to California for the winter. If I went I would have to take a position. The change might do me good. Too much work and not enough play is bad for my nerves. If I go to California it would be before you came for the exposition. With love

ANN.

LIKES GETTING LETTERS

Tulsa, Okla., Aug. 9, 1927.

My dear Mr. Hardinge:

Your delightful letter came some few days past and how very interesting I found it to be. I love to read interesting letters from people, yet I can't write them very well.

May I ask your pardon for not writing sooner? Most of time has been spent in the office since I returned. My employer is a new man on the job and that eternal problem of income tax has given us considerable thought of late.

The thought has flashed through my mind of late to go to California for the winter. Of course I would have to take a position there, but I believe the change would do me good. I am somewhat discontented here and am very restless at times. Too much work and not enough play is bad for my nerves, I'm afraid. Should I go, it won't be before you come here for the exposition.

Must bid you good night and run along to bed. And I don't want to smoke, either—strange, eh?

Love,

ANN LIVINGSTON.

WAITS FOR HIS VISIT

Tulsa, Aug. 16, 1927.

My Dear Mr. Hardinge:

I hope ere this, Mr. Hardinge, you have received my letter written last Monday evening and mailed Tuesday. I had a letter from you last Thursday, but have been waiting to see if you reached the one written prior to yours. Haven't been very well the last few days. The weather is very sultry now, which adds to my discomfort somewhat. Had hoped the rains would continue on through this month so as to keep the air cool. It now seems that I'll not get my wish.

I presume you are still planning a trip to Tulsa during the exposition. I am looking forward to your visit here with keen interest and do hope you won't disappoint me.

You spoke of my having dinner with you at the country club and enjoying it. Would I, my dear, nothing would please me more. Right at this time I have no one to extend such courtesies to me and let me say I miss such treats as I enjoy them so much. Really you have me wrong about smoking cigarets. I don't smoke many.

Write me soon, please.

ANN.

SENDS HER PICTURE

Aug. 21, 1927.

Mr. Hardinge, My Dear:

That was a fascinating letter and now I have the snapshot of Medinah Country club to add to my sweet thoughts of you. There is not one word about your trip. No mattter where I go, it won't be until October or November, so you are safe in coming.

Listen, my dear, when you invite me to dine extend the invitation earlier. I must have time to make my toilet when dining with one so famous. I might say, so wonderful and grand. You would be all this and more if you invited me to a wonderful luncheon such as would be served at Medinah Country club. I love the environment of a country club.

You may address me as Ann. I am just plain Ann to my friends.

Lovingly,

ANN.

DISCUSSES TULSA TRIP

In the next letter, dated Aug. 28, Miss Livingston discussed the advisability of making hotel reservations early for Mr. Hardinge's visit to the Tulsa petroleum exhibition. She then went on:

"It is a shame that you had the expense and bother of having car trouble on your pleasure trip.

Had I been your chauffeur it wouldn't have happened.

You know a Tulsa girl won the title of Miss America at Atlantic City. We are far famed for our beautiful girls and well dressed women. Come and see for yourself. Love, ANN.

MORE ABOUT TRIP

Sept. 11, 1927.

My dear Mr. Hardinge:

All the hotels are sold out, but I may be able to get a reservation for you at the Mayo, through Mr. Clark in our office, who knows Mr. Mayo.

Let me know when to expect you and don't disappoint me. I will do my best to make your visit pleasant. I am not wealthy and have no car, but I have friends who are kind enough to offer theirs when I have friends from out of town.

Now that the time is close, the suspense is great. Lovingly yours,

ANN.

"LOVE AND—"

Sept. 15, 1927.

My dear Mr. Hardinge:

Really, if it will put you out to come the 24th, why not defer your trip and spend the next Saturday and Sunday here? I shall meet you at the station if you don't object and we'll have breakfast together. Then I must go to my office and you'll have to entertain yourself until noon. I am looking forward with anticipation to seeing you.

Love and (a wavy line and ? follows).

SUGGESTS CHICAGO TRIP

My Dear Friend:

I have been waiting all week for a letter. Evidently you forgot to write me. There is one thing I won't stand, and that is neglect. I am just desperately lonesome and sort of blue. I wish I were in Chicago so you could take me around. Really, no joking, what would you think of my coming to Chicago in December? If you will promise me to take me around, why can't I stay until you go to the West Indies?

Love and kisses,

ANN.

"DEAREST FRANKLIN"

My dearest Franklin:

I don't know what else to call you. I can't call you Mr. Hardinge so until I find a pet name Franklin will have to do. Your letter started the day off just right. I never knew any one to speak so beautifully of one so unworthy. I hope always to deserve your good opinion.

I can't get the idea of your chasing all over the country. What would I do if I were living in Chicago and you took it into your head to chase all over?

Of course, you had to go to Philadelphia and wanted to visit your son at Dartmouth. But you make me jealous.

I want to travel also.

Miss Reeves and I had an amusing experience this noon when we went to the Gypsy Tea room for luncheon. The fortune teller who comes to your table and reads your fortune from the tea leaves proved her ability by calling your name. She described you accurately even to the diamond on your finger, and told other things that astonished me.

Love, ANN ELIZABETH.

CALLS HERSELF POOR

October 26.

Dear:

I thank you, dear heart, for thinking so kindly of me. [Referring to the white fox fur which Hardinge sent Miss Livingston at this time.] It is one of the most beautiful furs I have ever seen. You know, dear, I am a tall girl with broad shoulders, and it takes a long, narrow fur to look well on me.

I forgot to mention this when you asked me, but there must be some way to make it more narrow. A furrier will be able to tell me if it can be done.

About my coming to Chicago: It can't possibly be done by Nov. 1. If I had a chance to go about and see beautiful plays, I would be a different girl. But I am a poor girl, and I would have to save up a long time for a spree like that.

It would be foolish for me to give up the position I have before I have another. Now I must crawl between the sheets, for I am about to sneeze my head off, and you don't want a headless girl, do you?

Love and kisses, many sweet dreams, ANN ELIZABETH.

HAS FUR REPAIRED

My own dear:

Do you know, honey, I took the fur to a furrier, who said it could be made longer and narrower without trouble. My heart would be broken if it didn't come out O. K. He wants $10 for the work, but I am sure you won't object. I couldn't wear it as it was. You can't imagine how hard I'm scheming to come to Chicago soon. I hope you received my air mail letter, and did you get a kick?

"I WOULD LOVE YOU"

My own dear heart:

Why, of course I would love you dearly if I were with you and you were good to me. There is nothing I like better than affection. You thrill me when you say you want me there with you.

What a wonderful dream to take it easy and relax, with nothing to do but make myself beautiful to go out with you in the evening. I have never had a rest and vacation since I was thrown out in the world to make my own living.

I will see if I can clear the way toward coming to Chicago. I will talk with Mr. Cottrell about a leave of absence.

As you say, there are always other positions, but it is well to keep a position when you have it, as that means your credit is good. My credit is excellent in this town, so there really is a tie here after all. But I am going to see about getting away between the 15th and 20th of November.

SHE'S "SWEETHEART"

Nov. 3, 1927.

My dear Franklin:

You bet you can call me sweetheart, if you so desire. You won't make me mad, calling me that. Your letter reached the house Sunday night, a pleasant surprise.

My plans are to leave here on the 19th or 20th if Mr. Cottrell can find some one to take my place. I would like to obtain a leave of absence, but because of my extended vacation I think I will have to resign.

I believe that if I were sick or desperately in need that I could find work in Chicago. I am very excited about the trip.

I guess it is cold up there now, but I like cold. Just think that it will be snowing up there very soon. I am glad that Josephine is getting well. Let me know if you are glad that I am coming to Chicago.

Love,

ANN.

THE $200 DEBT

Nov. 4, 1927.

My dearest Franklin:

It seems I am writing you daily letters, and no doubt it worries you reading them, as they are probably of no interest to you. Thinking over my plans to leave the end of this month. I don't think that I can get away.

You see, dear heart, I owe $200. If I left the town the first thing they'd do is have the retail merchants association after me. I shouldn't go so far in debt, but it seems that it is the only way that I can clothe myself sufficiently.

I need a rest and change, but if I have to worry why I can't pay them, I'll have no rest. Life must be lonely for you now with Josephine ill.

I seem to be cursed that I must ever stand alone and fight my own battles. I am sorry to disappoint you, but, honey, I hope it will be a little disappointment to you not to have me so early with you.

If I were clear of debt I would have no explaining to do. It's 5 o'clock now, and I'd like to have you here with me again to go for a ride in the country.

Dear, you won't love me if I keep up my inconsistency. What a thrill it gave me when you wired "Wire me if you can be at opera Wednesday." But it's impossible. Please believe the truth, and your candid opinion of what you think of my decision. I wish I was going to Chicago tomorrow.

Lots of love and hugs and kisses.

YOUR ANN.

SENDS MILLION KISSES

Nov. 5, 1927.

My Dearest One:

I received the gorgeous box of furs. I was in bed when I received them. I was so thrilled I could cry. I am sending you a million kisses and hugs. I stayed home from the office today and went driving in the country.

The weather is warm and clear, but I wore the furs, of course. I am going to wear it to church tomorrow. I hear the weather will be cold.

Just think, snow in Chicago. I long to be there, and I plan to spend Thanksgiving with you, and I hope it will snow. I hope to spend Christmas with you, however, and certainly New Year's.

I hear that they certainly have some parties on that day in that town—or should I say city?

My bracelet is in the shop. There is a set out, but I found it, luckily. My sister and family send their regards to you. I was out there to dinner Wednesday and had the time of my life playing with the baby.

I think I better run along, have a bath and go to bed.

Please think of me once or twice.

Again I thank you for the furs. I really lack words to describe my appreciation. It is the best one I ever had. Everybody admires it, and I know it's the best in Tulsa.

Oodles of love,

ANN ELIZABETH.

SHE TAKES THE MONEY

My Dearest Friend:

Your two letters came this morning and it is the greatest joy to know you want me in Chicago. I could pinch myself to believe it. I'm so happy I could jump up and down. I can't wait till I leave.

Precious, what a feeling it is to have my mind clear and happy once again. I have missed that most in my life. It will be a new experience.

Cottrell was very disturbed when he found out I was going, but after we talked became reconciled to my leaving. It was so funny, you should have heard what he said: "That's what I get for letting that bird come up here and talk so long."

"He takes my secretary. But he's a fine fellow. I'll forgive him if he shows me Chicago when I come up."

Mr. and Mrs. Cottrell are coming up to Chicago soon, and we must entertain them and show them the town. I will be there two weeks from tomorrow night. I plan to leave Sunday, Nov. 20, and arrive Monday, November the 21st. Then I will not be so rushed.

I am anxiously awaiting the hour when I can wave good-by from the train.

That was a sweet line where you wrote of the love song that you heard. I'd love the radio and concerts and to hear them with you. You can send the money any time now. You're so gracious and generous to me.

I am forever grateful for what you have done, and I am very happy.

Two weeks from today I will be with you. Lovingly,

ANN ELIZABETH.

GOSSIP OF MARRIAGE

Nov. 11, 1927.

Dearest Franklin:

Armistice day, but we have no holiday. Mine is coming, though.

Sweet, I will be so glad to get a rest with no worries attached and in such heavenly environment. People around here are saying I am going to Chicago to be married. Denial from me does no good. Gossip goes on just the same. There is nothing in my mind such as you mention in your letter. Dismiss it.

Have you any idea where I will live when I first arrive, or must I see to that when I get there?

Lovingly, your own, ANN.

SURE OF HAPPINESS

My Own Dear:

I hope you are as happy as I. I can hardly content myself to stay here another week. I feel sure I will be happy and contented with you.

I appreciate every one of the pretty compliments you paid me, I want to have as beautiful a soul as you think my body is. I want you to teach me and guide me places I've never been, and remember I'm always willing to learn.

It's going to be a different life, but adorable of you to make it possible. I will always be grateful to you. You can never know the thrill I know. My heart is a-flutter and I dance as I go along. Bless you for making it possible.

I will go to bed now, dearest heart, and dream of where I will be in a week.

Dreamed of you last night. Yours

ANN.

JUST BEFORE TRIP

In the few days before Miss Livingston left for Chicago she wrote Hardinge the most affectionate letters of those read in court. They are in part as follows:

Nov. 15, 1927.

Darling One—Was quite thrilled to get a package in the mail this morning, and inside was my gorgeous fur scarf. I could kiss you a million times and then have more to spare for being so kind to me. I couldn't possibly tell you how much I appreciate your kindness, because I simply haven't the words. Your letter was very sweet, with the exception of talking about that old cruise to the West Indies, to stay away two months. I don't believe you will want to stay away that long, with me in Chicago. Now what do you think of that? Conceited, eh? Lovingly,

ANN.

Nov. 17, 1927.

My dearest Franklin—Have just learned that my train will arrive in Chicago at 6 o'clock from St. Louis. This is a very fine train with a wonderful lounge. I have heard so much about it that I want to ride that train, which I believe is over the C. and A. There is another from St. Louis, but the slow train is only two hours ahead of the one I'm taking, so please arrange to meet me at the station, or I might get right back on and come back to Tulsa. Lots of love till I see you.

ANN.

Nov. 19, 1927.

Franklin Dearest—I was so thrilled to get your letter this morning—the first in some days. Had begun to think you had forgotten me. The strain of trying to make my flight is telling on me. Once I get away from the office and get the rest I need I will feel better. I am all thrilled and will be glad to get started on my way. Get ready to entertain your Ann, for I will need all the affection and attention you can give me, for I will be all alone in the big city except for you. Love till Monday.

COMMITTEE OF 3 MARSHALS DATA ON 'L' VALUATION

Expects to Finish Task Within Six Weeks.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Col. A. A. Sprague, Joshua D'Esposito and George Woodruff, comprising the committee selected to evaluate the elevated roads for the purpose of a new franchise to a consolidated transit system, held their first meeting yesterday.

They estimated that their work will require six weeks for completion. When it is finished an important phase of the negotiations preliminary to the drawing up of the franchise will have been accomplished.

The meeting was held in the law office of Walter L. Fisher, attorney retained by Judge Wilkerson to advise the city on a transit solution. Allan C. Gilbert, assistant counsel and secretary of the citizen's committee, was also present.

Hold General Discussion.

A general discussion, preparatory to deciding upon a method of procedure, occupied this initial conference. In the discussion, it was said, some time was devoted to non-operating property of the Rapid Transit company, worth more than $2,000,000. While not even a tentative decision was reached, it is reported that the discussion indicated that the committee will seriously consider the elimination of the non-operating property as part of the valuation to be fixed for city purchase and for the purpose of consolidation.

The committee had obtained information that parcels of the nonoperating property are more profitable than the operating property, while other parcels produce little or no income. Some property of the nonoperating class is an unused right of way for an extension of the Garfield Park branch of the "L."

The last balance sheet of the "L"—of Dec. 31 last—shows an investment of $97,645,749, but in this sum are many securities owned by the Rapid Transit lines, listed at $412,532. This brings the property down to $97,233,217—"a little more than $97,000,000," as the citizens' committee reported to the aldermen and recommended as the maximum which should be fixed as the valuation of the properties.

Study "Miscellaneous Property."

In this $97,233,217 is "miscellaneous physical property," valued on the company books at $2,410,919.33. In that sum is the nonoperating property of the company which the committee discussed yesterday.

Briefly, the operating property consists of 1,830 passenger cars, of which 1,374 are wood and 456 are steel. These are run over 229.54 miles of track. Of this trackage, 170.55 miles are owned by the company and 58.99 miles are leased. Another view of the 229.54 miles of track is that 139.05 miles are elevated on steel and 26.61 miles have been boosted into the air on earth embankments, while the remaining 63.88 miles are operated on ground level.

Col. Sprague, according to a report of the meeting, appears to have collected considerable information personally. In the discussions before the rapid transportation committee on the 99 Dever franchise, the impression was given that the Chicago Rapid Transit company owns some trackage outside of the city. The colonel's information indicates otherwise.

Leased Tracks Revealed.

The tracks owned by the "L" on the Evanston branch end at approximately Irving Park boulevard. Northward to Linden avenue, Wilmette, the 10 mile stretch is leased from the St. Paul railroad, and the lease is terminable in 1944. The Niles Center branch of 4.93 miles, from Howard street, is leased from the North Shore electric line. The track between Laramie avenue and Westchester, 7.86 miles, is leased from the Chicago, Aurora and Elgin electric line. This lease is terminable in 1942. Then also there are 1.76 miles of the Kenwood and Stock Yards branches, which are leased from the Junction railroad. This lease is terminable in 1953. It is understood that all of these leases may be renewed or extended under the conditions provided in the original instruments.

The valuation committee assigned to Mr. D'Esposito, the engineering expert, the task of collecting the data and information to be analyzed and passed upon.

Hunt Identity of Two Men Injured by Automobile

Social service workers at the psychopathic hospital have for the last three weeks made futile efforts to locate relatives of a middle aged man who was knocked down by a hit and run auto driver, June 10, and brought to the hospital, suffering a loss of memory as a result of his injury. The patient has vaguely identified himself as George Long, 52 years old, 124 South State street, but persons at that address declare no one named Long has recently lived there.

EMMERSON OFF ON FISHING TRIP IN CANADA WILDS

Hints at Houseclean-ing on Return.

BY PARKE BROWN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., June 28.—[Special.]—With several new and interesting lures in his old tackle box, Gov. Louis L. Emmerson left the capital tonight bound for a Canadian fishing camp.

It is necessary that he break his journey in Chicago tomorrow, but early Monday he hopes to cast his first plug, and from then on, for something better than a week, he expects to be fighting the big ones—or looking for them.

Back in 10 Days.

The precise location of the camp has not been announced, as he is looking for rest, free from job seekers. He said today that he expects to be back on the job in about ten days, and he implied some of the housecleaning that he has been contemplating will go ahead with full speed at that time.

"There has been such a pressure of work," he said, "that I have not been able to accomplish many of the things that I wanted to do, but they will be taken care of when I come back."

This remark had an ominous sound to many of the old crew in the state house who, because of the pressure of other business, have been permitted to hold on to their jobs ever since the retirement of the Small régime.

Five Bills Still Remain.

The governor's last work in cleaning up his desk consisted of vetoing the only five bills still remaining for his consideration. There was only one of them considered of general importance. That was the McCarthy bill, prohibiting the use of the word "police" in connection with benevolent organizations" and similar organizations which purport to convey special police privileges to contributors or members by means of "courtesy cards" and similar devices. Attorney General Carlstrom held that the measure was defective legally.

Clarence F. Buck, director of agriculture, today announced the appointment of Phil S. Hayner of Taylorville as superintendent of plant industry.

INDICT OFFICIALS OF TWO ALLEGED "BUCKET SHOPS"

Officials of two alleged "bucket shops" which failed last year for a total of more than $3,000,000, were named in true bills returned by the federal grand jury yesterday charging them with using the mails in a scheme to defraud. Arthur R. Newbery and M. Mayer, officials of the former La Salle street firm, Newbery & Co., and Olaf T. Anderson and James H. McLaughlin of Penn-Tobin & Co., were those named in the indictments returned before Judge Charles E. Woodward.

According to Assistant United States District Attorney Lyman Sherwood, hundreds of small investors in Chicago and other middle western cities were victims of the two firms.

Downers Grove Group Wins Fight on Sewage Plant

The Downers Grove Taxpayers' association, organized last April to prevent the construction of a $750,000 sewage disposal plant two miles outside the village by special assessment, won a victory yesterday. Circuit Judge W. L. Pond of De Kalb, sitting in the Du Page County Circuit court at Wheaton on a change of venue, refused to authorize the Downers Grove sanitary trustees to impose the special assessment. Attorney G. H. Bunge of Downers Grove, counsel for the trustees, immediately entered a motion to withdraw the assessment roll, thus terminating the project entirely.

GOVERNOR NAMES CLYDE I. BACKUS TO STATE POST

Registration Department Shakeup Continues.

Gov. Emmerson late yesterday in Springfield announced the resignation of Dwight J. Anderson as assistant director of the state department of registration and education and the appointment of Clyde I. Backus to the post. The change was the first the governor has made in the department since he ousted A. M. Shelton as director and appointed Michael F. Walsh of Harvard, and it was believed to mark the beginning of a complete reorganization of that important department by the chief executive.

Mr. Anderson, a distant relative of the old Republican boss Fred Lundin, said last night he had been expecting a change for the last month.

Part "Best of Friends."

"I talked it over with the governor a month ago," he said. "At that time I agreed to resign whenever he was ready to accept my resignation. I understand the governor wishes to clean up the department completely and I certainly did not wish to stand in his way. We are parting company the best of friends."

Mr. Backus has been general secretary of the Kiwanis clubs of Illinois and Iowa and manager of the Chicago Trade Advancement association. The latter is an organization promoted by Mayor Thompson three years ago, and its ostensible purpose has been to bring conventions and other business functions to Chicago for the good of the city.

Friends of the governor, however, see no political significance in the appointment of Mr. Backus to the new state job. They say the governor made it on personal grounds and that it has nothing to do with the fact that the new assistant director has held the other job under Mayor Thompson.

Pledges His Coöperation.

Mr. Backus said he would accept the governor's appointment and that he was glad to be given the chance. "I will do everything I can to cooperate with Director Walsh and with the governor," he declared.

When Shelton, for seven years director of the department under Small, resigned recently he called the department a "pigsty" and said "all the political offal is dumped there." Graft and corruption have been rampant in the department for years, it has been openly conceded. It is stated by close friends of the governor that, although he has not had time to act until now, he intends to create a complete new department in the place of the corrupt one.

EX-BANK TELLER SENTENCED FOR THEFT OF $11,000

CRIMINAL COURT.

George Henderson, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in Pontiac reformatory; Urban Thomas, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 20 years in the penitentiary; Russell Hooker, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Stanley Klarkowski.

Martin Sohn, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Edward Kapiscke and Clarence Webster, robbery, sentenced to 1 to 20 years each in Pontiac reformatory; Patrick Dolan, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell; Robert Chapman, crime against nature, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary; Charles A. McCabe, embezzlement, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge William J. Lindsay.

Theodore Zolla, larceny, sentenced to 1 year in the Bridewell by Judge John J. Sullivan.

Alexander Grossman, burglary, sentenced to 1 year to life in the penitentiary by Judge Jacob Hopkins.

Charles McCabe, 26 years old, former teller for the Harris Trust and Savings bank, pleaded guilty yesterday before Judge Lindsay in the Criminal court to having embezzled about $11,000 from the bank. He was sentenced to one to ten years in the penitentiary.

McCabe admitted that if illness had not caused his detection, his shortage might have been much larger. He said that he started to take the bank's money about Feb. 1, in order to dabble in the stock market. He started out by taking small sums, he said, and gradually increased the amounts in order to attempt to recoup his former losses and repay his employers.

The shortage was discovered early in June when Fred J. Turnes, cashier of the bank, took charge of McCabe's books. The latter at that time became ill, and Turnes, who took over his duties temporarily, discovered the shortage. McCabe when confronted with the facts admitted his guilt.

Who wears a panama, powerful blue sweater and stockings to match, and putts like this?

No National Open ever saw so many well-dressed players or fans; no style event ever so confirmed the alertness of the foremost American makers of good clothes; for Moorit browns were everywhere. Some Dickens blues; many cool Dixie weaves for the blazing sun. (Much suntan backs and sleeveless whites and tans for the fair sex were also unofficially admired)

127 MORE CANAL EMPLOYES LOSE JOBS IN LAST CUT

With the removal of 127 more employés and a general readjustment in salary schedules for the remaining workers, less than 1,100 of whom are still on the pay rolls, officials of the sanitary district yesterday declared the reorganization, begun under the new board in December, to be complete. Yesterday's final slash will bring expenditures for 1929 well within the new budget regulations, according to President Elmore.

The pay roll slash was not accomplished without protests from political interests and representatives of labor unions whose partisans were affected. The halls of the district offices at 910 South Michigan avenue were thronged all day with ward committeemen and precinct captains, seeking to shield their henchmen from the ouster. Their demands were met with the statement that all jobs except those provided for in the budget were to be abolished, and that the surviving positions were to be filled with Democrats and Deneen Republicans in the 60-40 ratio agreed upon when the bipartisan group placed President Elmore at the head of the board.

Strike May Be Called.

A reclassification of laborers employed in sanitary district plants may precipitate a strike among the 200 or more members of the International Brotherhood of Firemen, Oilers and Maintenance Laborers at work in the district, officials of the organization present at the meeting asserted. The new wage scale for laborers, which divides sewage, plant and general laborers into three salary groups according to the nature of their work, will not be acceptable to the workers, E. J. Howells, business agent, declared.

"Our members will meet tomorrow night to discuss the matter, and to decide whether to accept the terms," he said. "I believe that the sentiment will react against the new wage scale, and in that event we shall strike. We have so notified President Elmore."

Changes Governed by Budget.

"All our actions in these changes in salary and personnel have been governed by the provisions of the budget, and we have no choice in the matter," Mr. Elmore declared. "The changes seem to me to be wise, inasmuch as we will save some $600,000 annually when they are put into effect."

7 COUNTY SCHOOL 'ACHIEVERS' SEEK CHAMPION TITLE

Seven champions of "achievement," who have been selected from the school children of the Cook county schools for their prowess in subjects varying from canning and cooking, pig and poultry raising to painting and music, will compete this morning for the honor of being acclaimed the supreme "achiever" of the county.

The contest will be held in the office of Edward J. Tobin, county superintendent of schools, who helped originate the achievement projects. The school boys and girls are allowed to make special studies of a variety of subjects outside the regular course and receive prizes for successfully completing these extra studies. In addition to those named above, these subjects include business, caddying, calf raising, cooking, field and garden work, sewing, vocal and dramatic art, physical training and swimming.

The seven champions have been selected from the seven divisions of the schools. The contestants will be their own advocates, telling the judges why they believe they should be given first honor.

BOOKS

Here Are Books to Pack for the Vacation Trip

If Love, Humor, or War Affect You.

"No Love," by David Garnett. (Alfred A. Knopf.)
"Stendhal," by Paul Hazard. (Coward, McCann.)
"The Week-End Library," third issue. (Doubleday, Doran.)
"Father William," by Donald Ogden Stewart. (Harpers.)
"War Bugs," by Charles MacArthur. (Doubleday, Doran.)

We have reached the time of year when the annual vacation and week-end problem lies just around the corner. The old query, what to take along to read, and what book to give one's host or hostess, arises as inevitably as a time table or a resort folder.

DAVID GARNETT.

This list of books, therefore, may be helpful. The titles are not given together because there is any similarity whatever among them, but simply because they are perfectly grand volumes to stow away in your kit bag and because they might interest your host as much as they will you.

David Garnett's new story, "No Love," is not at all like the fantastic things we have grown to expect from him. It is not even first cousin to "Lady Into Fox," for instance. As his first long novel it is well worth serious consideration. The locale is England, of course, and a small island near the mainland, where live the two families whose children weave the pattern of the tale.

Mr. Garnett's prose is meticulous and ranges from words cherished by the Victorians to the most stark and realistic adjectives of this post-war era. In fact, this reader balked at some of the realism as being a bit too thick and unnecessary. It's one thing to be seasick—one can't help that—but going into minute detail about it is disgusting and absurd. However, that cannot condemn a book of which it is only an incident.

The eternal triangle emerges well along in the plot and is handled with great skill and penetrative insight. The last of "No Love" is by far the best.

"Stendhal" has gone into twenty-four editions in France. It is translated from the French by Eleanor Hard, who accomplishes a beautiful piece of work. Not only is this book informative about a great French writer and genius; it is an excellent story, as well, written with wit, understanding, sympathy and imagination. If you are interested in biography you will be delighted with it. If you enjoy a glimpse of French life and history, you will appreciate it, and if you are merely intrigued by an unusual and fascinating character, you will find yourself devouring the rather bulky tome. Not in a long while has a keener, more interesting biography been published.

"The Week End Library," of course, is known to many. This is its third bow and as over a thousand pages bring to you the work of such well known writers as Elinor Wylie, Stephen Vincent Benet, Joseph Conrad, Leonard H. Nason, Philip Gibbs, Hugh Walpole, and Edna Ferber, the chances are 100 to 1 that you will be entertained for a longer period than Friday to Monday. All of the stories, essays and plays appeared first elsewhere and are reprinted here.

Donald Ogden Stewart makes you grin whether the thermometer stands at 70 or 7. He's just one of God's gifts to worn out people and if doctors were as intelligent as they look they'd prescribe a good dose of "Father William" for a tonic instead of that sticky brown stuff that comes in a small bottle with a big price on it. This particular laugh is about a middle aged man with two fairly grown children, who starts having a grand time in New York with a young girl the age of his daughter, but who comes a cropper when complications arise.

And if you know the wit of Charles MacArthur, he of "The Front Page," you'll know he could wring an ironic smile out of any situation, no matter how horrible or tragic. This he does with a vengeance in "War Bugs," his own private account of the war as he saw it, published serially in Liberty magazine. And, by the way, if you didn't read the account of his life in the New Yorker, a few months ago, you missed something. It was as amusing as the man himself.

He calls his account "a worm's eye view of the war." Well, then it was a pretty knowing little worm and it never went to sleep, for not a single detail escaped its glinty little eye, and what a sting it had for hypocrisies and all the futility of "making the world safe for democracy!" Charles MacArthur writes with a pen like a rapier and a sense of humor that is never off duty.

MERRY VIEW OF STENDAHL

This picture of Stendahl—whose biography by Paul Hazard has just been brought out in this country after having gone into twenty-four editions in France—was drawn by Alfred de Musset and appeared in La Mandragore Brianconnaise in 1899, soon after Stendahl, George Sand and De Musset had made a trip together from Paris to Rome.

Writer Turns to Tell About Mother's Life

Viola Meynell's Efforts Are Praised.

BY FRANK SWINNERTON.

LONDON. — [Special Correspondence.]—Miss Viola Meynell's life of her mother, Alice Meynell, will be ready within a short time, and this should prove one of the most charming books of the spring season. If my hopes are fulfilled, it will be a classic.

VIOLA MEYNELL.

For Miss Viola Meynell, besides being a writer of great distinction, has a lovely personality, and in this close and intimate study of her mother she has at last a theme which should give full scope to her talent. Miss Meynell used, before her marriage, to work very modestly at the pastime of novel writing, which never was allowed to interfere with her concern with household affairs (and in particular her care of her greatly loved mother).

She would sit at the side of the room, with others talking there, or she would run up to her bedroom for a little while to begin or continue a chapter; but so scrupulous was she that no trace of such difficulties in the way of composition ever appeared in the work itself. At all times this was sweet, demure, and as perfect as she could make it. The same, I have no doubt, will be found to be the case with "Alice Meynell: A Memoir!"

Another very scrupulous artist is publishing a book which will appeal to connoisseurs. This is "Shades of Eton," and the author is Percy Lubbock, whose "Earlham" and "Roman Pictures" were so greatly admired here. Mr. Lubbock was at Eton in the nineties, and his book, besides giving a picture of Eton as it then was, will contain portraits of many Eton notabilities, including Warre, Warre-Cornish and his wife, and A. C. Benson.

Mrs. Warre-Cornish was a great personality whose disconcerting method of speech was once illustrated by Mr. Aldous Huxley in an early story. She was the mother of Mrs. Desmond MacCarthy, whose delightful book, "A Nineteenth Century Childhood," is being brought out in a new and greatly revised edition under the new title of "A Victorian Childhood." If Mr. Lubbock succeeds in putting these interesting figures before us he will have done us all a considerable service. For, next to the fascination of gossip about the living [I do not mean "tattle"] I place the fascination of gossip about the dead.

And, to return to the living, who are not, as far as I know, writing biographies, but only spiritual autobiographies, I must mention a weekly party that occurs in London for the purposes of conversation—conversation being among the great arts, as the participants in these weekly meetings exemplify. This party consists, in the main, of James Stephens [the most brilliant talker in his own line that I ever heard]; Ralph Hodgson, the poet; W. J. Turner, the poet, dramatist, musical critic, who is a man for original ideas, who shrinks neither from paradox nor from combat, and S. S. Kotelianasky, a Russian who has perhaps the largest and most interesting acquaintance among intellectuals in London of any person now living.

I must confess that I have never attended one of these meetings.

Fleeting View of Paris and Famous Folk

And Miss Butcher Hastens Over to London.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

PARIS.—Those last minute phantasms of everything that you had planned to do and have left undone, those visions of places that you had determined to see the very first day in Paris and that are all as remote as Carcassonne was to the old woman in the poem whose wail was "Je n'a jamais vu Carcassonne" struggle, as I am about to leave, with the last minute memories of the people that embroidered the last days. In the flurry of leaving for London they are flashing memories.

There is the memory of an afternoon with the Comtesse de Curial who is one of the famous literary hostesses in Paris, and one of the leaders of a group of conversations called "Quart d'heure des Lettres" [a quarter hour of letters] which sponsors a magazine called Les Lettres. Such a flavor of the art of conversation as that afternoon distilled. There was no "conference" [as they call their meetings]. Comte Fleury, who has been to Chicago and has many friends there, arranged for me to see the Comtesse Curial. She and I had apparently both suspected our conversational skill in a foreign language, for when I arrived, supported, as usual, by my bi-lingual friend, Miss Roullier, we found our hostess armored by M. Lanoire, one of the editors of Les Lettres. We were all amused at the situation and from that moment there blossomed the kind of charming talk that one reads about. It wasn't difficult to understand how, under the guidance of such brilliant and charming minds as the Comtesse Curial's the art of the salon has been revived. The intellectual parties in France, she said, are preoccupied with religion. "Les Lettres" is the voice of the Catholic group. France always has been deeply religious in its literature, she says, not dogmatic nor orthodox, but mystical.

Another French impression crowding in is of a talk with Jean Giraudoux, one of the idols of the French tellectual reading public, who has been so almost a classic for twenty years that it was a distinct shock to find him almost boyish in appearance. Ever since I have known anything about French literature I have known about him and I expected a man with a mop of white hair and a scholarly stoop. Instead he is a delightfully youthful person (he said he is 44). He says that every one nowadays is writing in France, that they write books, as they play tennis, for the good of their souls. Every even slightly intelligent young person in France is writing, he says.

Memories of Sylvia Beach and her famous bookshop, Shakespeare and company, are entangled with memories of James Joyce, for she has been his champion and his sponsor for years. She is the one who published Ulysses. The new book, part of which has been published in "Transition," is so far from completion that the date of its publication isn't even discussed. Miss Beach has one of the most intelligent faces I have ever looked into, and the kind of jolly sense of humor that crinkles up lip corners. She persuaded James Joyce to let me see him, but he insisted that he never gave interviews, so I promised on my word of honor not to write about anything he said. I can say, however, without breaking my word that the actual day by day effort of living life (he is almost blind) has made his face as tragic as any I have ever seen.

And finally there is the memory of tea in the heavenly garden of the Union Interalliee, which is one of the loveliest in Paris, and seated at the table G. B. Stern, Paul Morand, and Edna Ferber, all perfectly delightful persons and jointly three of the most outstanding writers of their several countries, and their joint race. If there is any one in the world whose conversation is more exactly like her glamorous books than G. B. Stern I have never met her or him. She talks as brilliantly and as subtly as she writes and almost in the same phraseology.

Edna Ferber talks differently than she writes—much more jauntily and gayly. She is one of the funniest talkers in the world when she is in the mood. Paul Morand talks, not as he writes, but as any charming much-traveled diplomatic service man would talk. There is nothing exotic about his conversation as there is about his writing. Much discussion was created about the matter of the delete sign in the reading of proofs.

We all made our special marks, and it would take a convention of proof readers to convince any one of us that he or she was wrong. Edna Ferber was off the next day to the south of France to finish her novel, Paul Morand was just back from Germany, and G. B. Stern was dashing to Italy, after having watched her novel, "The Matriarch," become a successful play in London (she promises to come to America in October for its New York premiere) and this person was off to London!

QUICK SUCCESS

PHOEBE FENWICK GAYE.

This young English woman has won the praise of English critics for her first novel that deals with the France of Napoleon I., the capture of Moscow, and the famous retreat.

French Moscow Capture Lives in Vivid Novel

As Seen with Eyes of a "Vivandiere."

BY EDITH WEIGLE.

"Vivandiere," by Phoebe Fenwick Gaye. (Horace Liveright.)

This first novel, published recently in England, and written by a young English woman, created something of a sensation there and won the solid gold laurel wreath of many a brilliant critic, among whom were Frank Swinnerton and Arnold Bennett. I think it will be equally popular in this country, for aside from the merits of the book as a piece of literature, it is a vivid, fascinating story told in an entertaining way.

It is an historical novel, but what a far cry from the type we used to find so heavy and dull before André Maurois and E. H. Barrington came to the rescue! "Vivandiere" is teeming with life and emotion and adventure. It concerns itself with the Napoleonic era, which, in itself, was dramatic and thrilling, and out of that period it simply takes the Russian campaign—Napoleon's advance into Russia, his capture of Moscow, and the retreat—and deals with nothing else. Thus, it has a remarkable unity and when the author creates, besides, a character as warm and pulsing as Julie, the vivandiere, through whose eyes she describes the march with its attendant comedy and tragedy, she immediately arouses the interest of the most blasé reader. There is a human element achieved that penetrates the mass of historical data as a sunbeam shines through a dim room, bringing into high relief objects that might otherwise be dull and heavy.

Miss Gaye writes with an unflagging zeal and with the keenest imagination. She not only knows the history of the events she uses; she seems actually to have lived at that period, to have experienced the hardships, the joy and sorrow, the gay adventuring that made up the days of the French soldiers and of the motley women and children, vendors of provisions and of wine—vivandieres—who tagged along at their heels. Julie was one of them, one of the stray humans who followed Napoleon's army as an alley cat follows a boy carrying a string of fish. Born of a worthless mother, one of many children, she somehow scrambled up to adolescence and as soon as she could break away from parental bickerings and woes she set up shop for herself, buying a small supply of wines and and liqueurs and following the soldiers to whom she sold her wares.

Clever, courageous, shrewd, she also was loyal and gallant. She had the misfortune to fall in love with Gervais St. Siriac, scion of a noble family and an officer, both of which elevations put him quite beyond her reach, but because of her devotion she rescued him when he was ill, in Moscow, and because of her gallantry in aiding a distinguished Russian family, she was able to take him to the shelter of their home. There, as destiny would have it, he fell in love with one of the beautiful daughters of the household. The scene when Julie discovers it is one of the most vivid in the book and stamps itself on the memory.

The close of the story is beautifully worked out and only the happy ending addicts will criticise it—and perhaps even they won't, for it is so logical and so artistic that it seems inevitable.

"Vivandiere" would make a first rate film. It has all the essentials of a really worth while picture: dramatic action, an unusual and picturesque background, and a most moving lead. And, of course, a chance to use the inevitable mob and the words "stupendous, gigantic, breath taking," etc. The publicity department would see to that.

If I may borrow May Tinee's stars for a moment, I'd like to pin four of them on "Vivandiere."

July 4, 1804, Nathaniel Hawthorne was born in Salem, Mass. He died at Plymouth, N. H., May 19, 1864. He ranks as one of the greater American novelists, yet "Fanshawe," his first story, was published at his own expense. His best known works are "Twice Told Tales," "Mosses from an Old Manse," "The Scarlet Letter," "The House of the Seven Gables," "The Marble Faun," and "The Blithedale Romance." He joined the Brook Farm experiment in 1841. For many years he lived at Concord, Mass., and from 1853-'7 he was United States consul at Liverpool.

July 4, 1804, also was the birthday of George Sand, whose real name was Baroness Dudevant. She died at Nohant, Indre, France, June 8, 1876. She was known for her advanced political views, her unconventional mode of living, and chiefly for her writings, among which were both plays and novels. She capitalized her intimacy with Alfred de Musset by writing about it in "Le Secretaire Intime." "Elle et Lui," and "Lettres d'un Voyageur."

Asks Nobel Peace Award for Erich Maria Remarque

Eskil Sundstrom, Swedish author, has started a move to award Erich Maria Remarque, author of "All Quiet on the Western Front," the next Nobel peace prize. Sundstrom described Remarque's book as the greatest document against war ever written, and the newspaper, Social Demokraten, joined him in praising its merits and urging Remarque as the next prize winner.

Gen. Sir Ian Hamilton, speaking in London at the Gallipoli dinner, said that Remarque "deserves to be awarded the Nobel peace prize for the next ten years in succession."

More Prizes Offered to Spur Ambition of Those Who Write

Two more prizes are offered to aspiring authors. Longmans, Green and company, in an effort to encourage young writers and those who have not yet attracted general public attention, will give $7,500 to the best novel submitted in their contest. The competition is open to all who have never published a novel which has sold more than 5,000 copies. If the prize is won by an author who has had a previous novel published, a second prize of $2,500 is offered for the best first novel.

All manuscripts must be submitted under pen names to Longmans, Green and company, 55 Fifth avenue, New York City, before Dec. 1. The author's name must be sent in a sealed envelope accompanying the manuscript.

The Stratford company offers $2,000 for the best Jewish novel to be submitted on or before Jan. 15, 1930. The contest is open to all Jewish writers and rules may be obtained from the Stratford company, 289 Congress street, Boston, Mass.

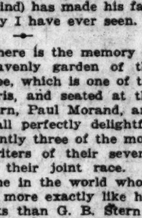
The War Novel for Everyone!
A World-Wide Best Seller!
ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT
By ERICH MARIA REMARQUE



FROM Portland, Maine, to San Diego, California, this great saga of the common soldier is duplicating its success abroad. American reviewers agree with German, English and Swedish critics that this is the most truthful and outspoken book that has come out of the World War.
Here is the story of a German soldier who went to the Western Front at 18, survived his comrades and now, at 31, writes what the critics pronounce the greatest of all war books. Simply but effectively he describes three things: the War, the fate of a generation, and rough good comradeship.
R. H. L. in the Chicago Tribune says: "We couldn't put it down, it's the realest, most terrifying, most gripping novel of the war we've ever read."
Frank Ernest Hill in the New York Herald Tribune says: "Obviously founded on indelible fact and might be an authentic autobiographical account."
Clinton Simpson in the New York Sun says: "Far and away the most vivid record we have had of the actual fighting in the trenches. . . . Whole passages remain in the memory long after one closes the book."

blurted out the wicked old professor at the close of the sermon which had been preached for his especial benefit. Seeing the lost sheep returned to the straight and narrow, the minister in a voice husky with emotion, said: "Let us give thanks for this conversion!" Whereupon the congregation rose and rent the air with frenzied praises.

EVANGELICAL COCKROACH in the lead with a conversion under his belt, Nine and thirty sinners follow in its wake—each sparkling with biting irony, rollicking satire, and brilliant wit. Each one is a pithy piece, amazingly odd; yet beneath the gaiety that cloaks them all is much meaty substance.
For instance there is Mary, Mary, Quite Obstreperous—Enoch Ardent—Pretty Girl's Progress—As One Moron to Another—Acute Aflatus and so forth.
Jack Woodford has contributed to most of the important magazines in America and his literary talents have been recognized for some time. In these short sketches he brings to bear a very agile intellect, a penetrating power of observation, and a surprising fund of humor.

CLOSE UPS OF THE TRULY GOOD.

It would not be any defense of the intelligence or humanity of fanaticism to establish that it was sincere, that it was a repression based upon consistencies in the thoughts and acts of the zealots. That would not make the domination of fanatics more tolerable, but it would have such virtue as sincerity can give to evil. American fanaticism of the present day cannot be made such an allowance. Every time the door is opened a little way upon the character of persons seeking to promote intolerance and to rule by the inquisition they are found personally indifferent to standards of morality upon which they insist, or to other standards upon which right thinking persons insist.

A generous mind may deal gently with the frailties of individuals who reveal weakness in the conduct of their private lives, but this tolerant standard of criticism is hard to apply when the person is one seeking by force to compel other people to conform to his professed morality. Inconsistency in such a person exposes him to condemnation without compunction.

The head of the Indiana Klux, Stevenson, was sent to prison for life for a vile crime. Under him the hooded organization had been asserting its control of private morality by violence against the law. Murder was not a full description of the charge upon which Stevenson was convicted. His was an unusual case of depravity.

Other revealed instances spread from mere inconsistencies, serious only in a profession of superior morality, to turpitude aggravated by similar pretension. Hypocrisy increases the offenses whether large or small. William Anderson, superintendent of the New York Anti-Saloon league, was sent to prison for third degree forgery. He had been the outstanding man in the league in the United States and had falsified his accounts. He was supported to the end by the other prominent members of the hierarchy, who threatened the public authorities in charge of the case with ecclesiastical anger if they proceeded.

The dry congressmen who let their baggage leak, as in the case of Michaelson of Illinois, were found in a most obnoxious hypocrisy. Michaelson had used a freedom of the port, which put him on his honor, and had brought in liquor, against which he votes. In his trial he escaped through the acknowledgment of his brother-in-law that the liquor was his own and not the congressman's.

A dry judge of the Kansas Supreme court was found, upon investigation of scandals in the Anti-Saloon league of the state, to have been paid lecturing fees by the organization. Although on the Supreme bench of Kansas, he had been in effect retained by a group of zealots, and he was so far indorsed by the dry morality that when an effort was made to have him appointed to a federal judicial position the two Kansas senators extended themselves in his behalf.

A variant of this came to light this week when Senator Gould of Maine, a political dry voting dry for a dry state, was found providing himself with wine for his table by patronizing a firm selling grape juice with instructions how to process it into an alcoholic content. Mr. Gould represents a state which wants him to vote dry and he does so against his personal inclinations and habits. He could yield his inclinations to this representative duty, but that imposes something on him, either to resign the habits which conflict with his votes and the law or the office which requires him to vote against his convictions and acts.

Dry congressmen have been found taking fees and percentages from the league. Upshaw of Georgia was among them. The Rev. Mr. Shumaker of the Indiana league was sent to the prison farm for trying to intimidate the Supreme court, and the contempt in which he was found was indorsed by his associates. It was a contempt of the processes of law which the citizenship is much enjoined to respect.

The Rev. Mr. Holsaple of the Michigan league resisted to the full of his vituperative ability the effort of sane people in the state to repeal the savage life for a pint law. He insisted upon this punishment as just for the obscure wretches who had fallen into the net which never caught the great operators of the Detroit rum running rings. But Mr. Holsaple was found in the records of the pardon board trying to release a bootlegger brother-in-law who had been sentenced. He might not be able to prevent a bootlegger connection in the family, but his respect for the law was indicated when a small touch of it came home.

Aimee Semple MacPherson, an exhorter to the better life, has recently passed from California to Michigan, to do for Detroit what she evidently thinks the Rev. Mr. Holsaple has failed to do. There are still repercussions of judicial scandal in California, the latest of incidents related to her desert experiences. If judgment is cynical and severe upon Mrs. MacPherson it is because of the pretensions of her career.

There comes, then, the case of Bishop James Cannon Jr. of Virginia and Washington, D. C. The political events of the last year threw Bishop Cannon into the front rank of moral dictatorship. To him the candidacy of Al Smith for the presidency was a moral issue of religious intensity, and he and his associates in the south, political and clerical, broke down its traditional democracy to help defeat a metropolitan New Yorker of unblemished reputation and unstained character because his ways of life, his religious belief, and his private standards were different from theirs, although his political tradition was their own.

To Bishop Cannon, Al Smith represented evils of the city, its horse racing, prize fighting, beer and whisky drinking, and its general godlessness of life. When a New York brokerage firm becomes bankrupt and its members are indicted for using the mails to defraud, the name of Bishop Cannon is found in its books. Of any other man it would be apparent that he had been gambling in the stock market, and public opinion would say, What of it? There wouldn't be anything of it except that the man would have been taking a good road for going broke. But in Bishop Cannon's place it was contrary to what he had made known as his principles.

What in general he professes and insists shall be in the law of the land does not condone stock market gambling. This glimpse of Bishop Cannon does not disclose the moral esthete, the stern rebuker of worldly ways and of the flesh. There is no hair shirt under the robe of the inquisitor. He is, when it suits him, a latitudinarian. He would put clerical rules into law, but he adjusts his discipline to himself conveniently and expediently.

These moralists are egotists of a well defined pattern. In some cases their hypocrisies are gross and in others their inconsistencies are revealing. A prohibitionist is not to be blamed if he cannot keep his own children in line, although that might indicate the futility of an attempt to coerce a great mass of people when their convictions and their consciences are not involved, but the world always has held a hierarchy ultimately responsible for the relation of its acts to its dictates.

This prohibition hierarchy is discovered dominating for the love of it and for profit, seeking its ends by compromises with public morality and association with political scoundrels, eager to rule, regardless of the means, and with each revealed instance found in personal violation of some canon insisted upon for the governance of other people.

That is the stench of moral control in the United States today.

REVIVING THE NICKEL PLATE ORDINANCE.

Promoters of the Calumet harbor plan are reverting to the Nickel Plate ordinance as the suitable arrangement for dredging Lake Calumet. The city council finance committee has recommended an appropriation of $900,000 for dredging. That was to have been the city's initial share in the undertaking under the discarded agreement with the Nickel Plate railroad. The aldermen have indicated that the second important feature of the ordinance will be revived if it is acceptable to the railroad. That is for the Nickel Plate to purchase 200 acres of land at $3,000 an acre, the proceeds to be used for dredging. The railroad's compensation would be privileges of accessibility to prospective warehouses on the harbor.

The virtue of the agreement with the Nickel Plate, if it can be reinstated, is its practicability. A means is thereby available for immediate construction of the harbor, and because private capital is interested in the success of the venture the investment would probably be profitable. The business of taking mud from the bottom of a shallow water area and piling it for fill is an inexpensive job, but it is work for which municipalities have paid extortionate rates. If the Nickel Plate has any supervision of the dredging, we hope that the railroad engineers will have a corrective influence on dredging prices, if they seem improperly high. At the start, therefore, if the railroad is watchful and if it has the authority to interfere, the success of Lake Calumet harbor may be determined.

Strangely, the engineers seem to have overlooked an apparently obvious feature in their plans for Lake Calumet. By cutting a channel from the Grand Calumet river to the north end of Lake Calumet a saving of some five miles in the distance from Lake Michigan to the harbor could be made. It would be an important saving because the winding course of the Grand Calumet from Lake Michigan to the south end of Lake Calumet is difficult navigating, so difficult, indeed, that some engineers believe that the river would have to be straightened before the harbor would be useful. Much simpler, it seems, is the plan to provide a direct and straight communication between Lake Michigan and Calumet harbor. The cost should not be great, and if one of the present slips on the Calumet river extending towards Lake Calumet were dedicated to the city only the western part of the channel would remain to be dredged.

The desirability of Lake Calumet harbor is no longer in doubt. The site has all the natural advantages for a harbor, easily accessible to the lakes and to the Illinois waterway, within a prosperous manufacturing district where, however, industrial property is available at reasonable prices, and close to highway and railroad facilities. In our judgment no better method of construction and financing has been proposed than the arrangement with the Nickel Plate, and if the harbor plans are to be realized within a generation, the aldermen, we believe, have no other alternative.

AN UNWARRANTABLE AFFAIR.

[Whiteside (Ill.) Sentinel.]

A most outrageous affair took place on the streets of Morrison late last Thursday night, and two entirely innocent people were halted by a shot and frightened by an official who evidently was looking for rum runners.

What are things coming to when citizens cannot drive over the streets to their homes in a peaceful manner without being stopped in such an offensive way? We read of the rum runner shootings elsewhere and react to them in different ways undoubtedly, but when such things almost come to pass in this orderly community we are wont to rise up on our hind legs and protest with all our might.

It was a most serious blunder, and Sheriff Kelly should severely reprimand his officers and ask for their resignation, as we believe their usefulness as efficient officials is about over when they get so careless as to fire a revolver while pursuing a car containing law-abiding citizens on their way home.

The Sentinel has always been for law and order and always will be, but there is such a thing as going too far in assuming one's duties, and we believe that these officers far overstepped the bounds of their duty. Mr. Citizen and Mr. Officer, just put yourselves in the same position and see how you would react to a similar situation. What will be done about it? Morrison and Whiteside county citizens are awaiting the answer.

BATHS AND INSOMNIA.

BATHS properly used are much superior to drugs in insomnia. Likewise they are far better to quiet extreme nervousness such as that which prevails just prior to delirium tremens.

Dr. Rebekah Wright gives the following essentials of different baths used in sanitaria for the nervous and the mentally disturbed:

Needle sprays—Temperature of water, 96 to 102 degrees Fahrenheit; temperature of room, 82 degrees. Force of spray, 25 to 35 pounds. Length of treatment, one to two minutes. If the room is below 82 the spray should have a temperature of 100 to 102.

The water is thrown in streams the size of a needle. The sprays are thrown horizontally from sixteen openings and they strike all four sides of the body. All parts of the skin are treated. The needle spray is followed immediately by a fan douche.

Fan douche—Temperature of water, 90, judiciously reduced to 74. Temperature of room about 80. Pressure of water, 20 to 30 pounds. Time required, 30 seconds to one minute. The finger is held over a jet of water in such a way as to make a fan shaped sheet. This is played first on the back, beginning with the heels and traveling upward. Next on the front, and last on the sides. The jet douche is used on persons who stand exposure to cold unusually well.

Jet douche—Temperature of water, 72 to 74. Pressure, 15 to 25 pounds. These standards are gradually changed to 66 degrees and 26 pounds. Length of douche, 10 to 20 seconds. The water is thrown against the back and limbs.

Scotch douche—Temperature of cold water, 70. Of hot water, 110 to 116. Pressure, 15 to 20 pounds. The method of use consists of douching the body first with cold water and then with hot.

Rain douche—Temperature of water, 92 to 97 degrees. Time, 30 to 60 seconds.

Warm rain douche—Temperature of water, 96 to 104. Time, 4 to 6 minutes. A rain douche is practically a shower bath.

Cold wet pack sheet—To quiet great excitement. Temperature of water, 48 to 70. Duration, one to three hours.

Neutral sheet pack—Temperature of water, 92 to 97. Duration, three to eight hours. Method of use: Soak three soft sheets in the water. Wring them dry. Wrap the patient completely and snugly. Wrap blankets snugly around the sheets.

NOT OF GREAT IMPORTANCE.

V. A. F. writes: About five years ago I noticed a peculiar spot of a yellowish tint on the skin over my eye. Since then is has spread considerably and on the other eye another spot has appeared and is spreading rapidly. Is this a skin disease? What is it called and what is it caused from? What can I do to get rid of it?

REPLY.

There is a yellow growth around the eye called xanthoma which is not very important from any standpoint.

SUGGESTS A DYE POISON.

Mrs. L. H. writes: My 7 year old boy has a breaking out all over his toes on his left foot. He also has it on his hands now. It looks like little blisters. His feet are beginning to peel. What causes this? Is it serious? Is it contagious? What can I do for it?

REPLY.

Your description does not fit scarlet fever. It suggests a poisoning due to dye or something of that sort. If so, it is not serious and it is not contagious. He will get well without treatment if he breaks away from the cause.

IN CASE OF DISAGREEMENT.

Marion, Ind., June 26.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—When a husband and wife hold a joint deed to a farm, is there any way in which the wife may claim her half or buy out the husband's share, as in the case of other business deals?—I. P. G.

CALIFORNIA AVENUE.

Chicago, June 24.—[Friend of the People.]—Could you inform me when the elevation at 49th and California avenue is to be opened and when California avenue is to be paved from 47th beyond 49th street? The assessments have been paid for a long time. If the work is not started soon, where can we go to get our money back? Why do we have to pay assessments and then wait year after year before the work is done?

J. P.

The assessment is being collected this year for opening and widening California avenue, between 47th and 51st streets. When all the assessment has been collected and all the awards paid for property taken or damaged the city will get order of court and take possession of the land condemned.

In a condemnation proceeding we must collect the assessment first in order to have the money to pay the awards allowed by the court.

The proceeding for paving the street will be a separate one from that of the widening. We have not yet spread the assessment for paving the street. It is expected that we will have the assessment confirmed for paving the street in time to start the work next summer. JOSEPH F. McCLORY,
Secretary Board of Local Improvements.

TOO MUCH HEAT.

Chicago, June 28.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—The apartment in which my husband, baby and I live is located over a boiler. Our flat is very hot inasmuch as we have had heat almost every day up to the present time because tenants on the third floor demand it and when the janitor is not around the building they go into the boiler room and turn on the heat. 1. Is there a possibility of our breaking our lease, or (2) could we compel the management to let us take an apartment on the second floor which has the same number of rooms and rents for the same amount?

No fulsome verse,
Nor urn, nor bust,—
Only the terse
"Excuse my dust!"

Her epitaph

For mercy, weep,
Perchance, for her,

Sans pose, sans mask,
Sans fear or trust,
Who deigns but ask

Or "Swinge" Astonisher, Try Rhyming It with "Swinge" Astonisher.

Kathleen McLaughlin, in her thrilling serial entitled Franklin and Ann, says: "He gave his name as Franklin Hardinge—the last syllable to rhyme with sinje." Well, yes, considering that Ann is suing Franklin for $250,000 for breach of promise, "singe" is a good rhyme. Or considering the pretty things that Franklin bought for Ann, the last syllable in Hardinge might be said to rhyme with "fringe." Or "twinge" and "cringe" would rhyme nicely if—but then you can never tell what a jury is going to do.

All Things Considered, It Wasn't a Bad Buy.

From the New York Sun we learn that crime cost the citizens of these United States $13,000,000,000 last year; that illness cost us $15,000,000,000; that insect pests cost us $2,000,000,000; preventable accidents, $5,000,000,000; bad weather, $2,640,000,000; the smoke nuisance, $2,040,000,000; rats, $364,000,000; strikes, $1,800,000,000; traffic congestion—but you see how it goes. The point is, now that we see how much money we spent last year for things Hevving knows we didn't want, we're going to stop kicking about the 200 francs that bottle of Château Yquem cost us at Papa Foyot's down at the Luxembourg in Paree last summer. Yessir, 200 francs for a bottle of Château Yquem seems like nothing at all compared with buying thirteen billion dollars' worth of crime.

LEGG SEEN AS HEAD OF NEW FARM BOARD

Farewell to Ernest.

We want our thirty-five cents back. We bought the July number of Scribner's Magazine because the June number was banned in Boston. Dear old Boston was shocked because of Ernest Hemingway's serial, Farewell to Arms. Hiding our July Scribner's under our coat and blushing guiltily, we snuck down to a deserted corner of the proofroom to read the second installment of Farewell to Arms. It was as shocking as Baedeker's Guide to Italy from the Alps to Naples, or Charley Dickens' Child's History of England, but no more. Hey, Scribner's, give us back our thirty-five cents, or we'll sue the city of Boston.

It is as well you cannot see
How tall a god you are to me,
That of the clouds around your head,
You cannot know; and that instead
You feel the ground!

'Tis well these things are so for you,
But dear for me, who never knew
In all my life a god before,
That came to knock upon my door,
How can this be!

Between one who is human small,
And one who is so god-like tall;
And yet it seems that it is true
For now the world is made anew,
I've dared to love the god in you!

AND NOW they say the investigation tends to show that good Bishop Cannon bought bucket shop stocks on Sunday. We would remind the ungodly who are prone to be harsh upon the good bishop that he seems so busy during the week in politics, and telling his fellow countrymen that they shall not drink liquor or gamble on the wicked stock market, that Sunday is probably the only day he has to give serious consideration to the stock market himself. And then only between sermons. Be not too severe with the good bishop, friends. Have a heart.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A dispatch from Gen. Grant reports no operations in front except from our guns, which fire at the bridge at Petersburg, 2,000 yards distant. A Petersburg paper of the 25th states that Gen. Hunter is striking for Jackson Depot and says if he reaches Covington with most of his forces he will be safe. The same paper says that Gen. Wilson destroyed cars loaded with cotton and furniture at Burksville, destroyed the track, and was still pushing south. All the railroads leading into Richmond are now destroyed.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—The following dispatch has been received by Secretary Stanton from Gen. Hunter, who has destroyed parts of the Lynchburg and Charlottesville railroad and large quantities of rebel stores on his expedition to Lynchburg: "I have the honor to report that the expedition has been entirely successful in inflicting great injury on the enemy, and victorious in every engagement. Running short of ammunition and finding it difficult to collect supplies while in the presence of an enemy superior in numbers, I deemed it best to withdraw and have succeeded in doing so without serious loss."

WASHINGTON, D. C.—A dispatch from Gen. Sherman says: "On the 27th we made an unsuccessful attack on the enemy's position. We lost between two and three thousand, particularly heavy in officers. Gen. Harker is reported mortally wounded; Col. Rice of the 57th Ohio, very seriously; Cols. Barndell, 40th Illinois, and Augustine, 55th Illinois, killed."

30 YEARS AGO TODAY

PARIS.—Desperate as the struggle may seem the military party is preparing to knife Dreyfus with a second condemnation at his new trial. France is now face to face with a new plot stronger than the first. Emissaries of Mercier are everywhere stirring up sentiment against Dreyfus. The Sfax, bearing the prisoner from Devil's island, is long overdue, and the belief is that the government is delaying his landing.

CHICAGO.—Miss Maud Susan Kerfoot Merigold, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Merigold, and Lowther Ferris were married at the home of the bride's parents, 3984 Lake avenue, by the Rev. S. J. McPherson.

LONDON.—A Johannesburg correspondent says that it is understood that President Kruger persists in his demand for arbitration as an essential condition on any settlement and that in the meantime the Transvaal continues its preparations for war.

WASHINGTON.—Pressure for the removal of Secretary of War Alger from the cabinet is increasing.

10 YEARS AGO TODAY

JUNE 29, 1919.

VERSAILLES. — The peace treaty has been signed. The world war which for four years ravaged the greater part of Europe was ended officially at 3:45 o'clock today, when cannon boomed announcing that the last plenipotentiary to the conference had attached his signature to the treaty. The meeting—an epoch in world history—in the Hall of Mirrors in the Chateau Louis XIV. began at 3:10 o'clock and the German delegates, the first to sign, had affixed their names at 3:13. The signing was done within a few yards of the spot in the same hall where William I. had himself been crowned emperor of Germany on Jan. 18, 1871, and where the German empire was proclaimed. The American delegates, headed by President Wilson, were the second to sign.

WASHINGTON.—President Wilson will not suspend the war time prohibition act, which becomes effective at midnight June 30. His decision was announced in a cable received at the White House from Paris. He said that demobilization of the American army is not complete and therefore he is unable to act without congressional removal of the bar on the sale of liquor, beer, or wine.

DEFENDING DEVER'S POLICE RECORD.

Chicago, June 23.—Police Lieutenant Stewart P. Moss in the Voice of the People made a wild and violent attack on the management of the police department under Morgan A. Collins during the Dever administration.

Lieut. Moss, among other things, said, "Promotions were made as a result of financial friendship with some political power, or were given to men whose sole claim to ability was a relationship to some politician, and whose efficiency was judged by the number of votes controlled by the same politician."

Lieut. Moss, by the way, was promoted to his lieutenancy during that time. Was his promotion the result of "financial friendship with some political power," or for any of the unworthy reasons he mentions?

I had the honor of being president of the Chicago civil service commission during the four years of the Dever administration. Promotions in the police department were the result of public examinations, held and conducted by the civil service commission, and not by Chief Collins. The two promotional examinations in the police department during the Dever administration were held for the positions of police lieutenants and police captains.

Those examinations were under my personal supervision. They were conducted with absolute honesty and fairness, and without political bias or control.

The lieutenants' and captains' lists posted by the commission contained the names of many of the best men in the department. The civil service commissioners and the men who assisted them were proud of the lists posted as a result of those examinations.

If the police department became inefficient and worthless during the Dever administration, as Lieut. Moss says, then at what time since did the alleged miracle of police improvement occur?

Was it during Chief Hughes' time, or was it since the St. Valentine's day massacre, when State's Attorney Swanson is said to have taken the blinders off some of the police officials?

NICHOLAS R. FINN,
Former President, Chicago Civil Service Commission.

THE DECLINE OF ROWING.

Evanston, Ill., June 27.—In writing your recent editorial "The Decline of Rowing," you were looking at the subject through commercialistic eyes. Rowing never has and never will be a paying sport. It is manifestly impossible to charge admission to a river bank. Speedboat and outboard regattas, under the aegis of the muse of advertising, and hence eminently financial in their possibilities, naturally attract huge crowds at our more famous watering places; and, admittedly, by far more people over the country are familiar with power boat racing than with rowing.

However, rowing is not on the decline, neither is it suffering from want of attention. The editor has only to witness the Yale-Harvard regatta at New London, the Poughkeepsie regatta, Derby day at Derby, Conn., or any of the other well known rendezvous of crew enthusiasts, to realize that rowing is gaining in popularity. Thousands throng to these towns to witness the test of speed and endurance, and it is a veritable fact that each year finds the number of attendants greatly increased.

As an ex-member of a Yale crew, I know of no other sport as completely enjoyable or beneficial. Eastern schools that have adequate water on which to row are each year adding to their list of crews. Yale now has a varsity eight, a junior varsity, a 150 pound crew, a freshman crew, and from 10 to 15 crews whose members are constantly training for places in the above named shells, and, in addition, perhaps a dozen class crews. We have, therefore, about 250 men engaged in rowing, and the university maintains three separate boat houses and staffs with adequate equipment. This is indicative of other schools that maintain rowing plants. Crew most emphatically has not been relegated to a minor capacity; on most campuses the crew captaincy is one of the most sought after of honors, and, as such, is placed on a plane with football, baseball, etc., as being worthy of such status.

A. M. T.

LYRICAL DEFENSE.

Chicago, June 28.—Rowing is enthusiastically supported on both east and west coasts, where a race draws a average size football crowd. What athletic contest, save perhaps an Army Navy duel or a Tunney-Dempsey fight can boast of over 125,000 spectators? This record throng cheered the crews at Poughkeepsie in the famous historical regatta held less than a week ago. And the race was not held in a large metropolis, but over two hours' train run from New York. Still people came, thousands of them.

To relegate rowing to the ranks of archery and fencing is a mistake. Yearly increase in rowing interest proves it. Even a greater mistake is to say that because the speed of a shell is negligible to that of a motor boat the former is losing prestige as a race. What man can run a race in better time than a fast motor car? Then why not doom track meets?

A good crew developed at one of our nearby universities would mean awakened rowing interest in the middle west. There is no athletic contest more thrilling than an eight oared shell race, a slender boat propelled by the rhythmically and gracefully moving bodies of fine young men. Ask any man who has played football and rowed which of the two sports he likes best. Nine times out of ten the answer would be crew.

ANNOUNCING THE MIRACLE.

Lake Forest, Ill., June 27.—Miss Amy Bird begs to inform The Tribune that she was playing contract bridge with her uncle, William Dunn, an old member of the board of trade, Mrs. H. S. Matthews and H. S. Griggs Jr.

H. B. Matthews was looking on but took no part in the game.

After about an hour's play with the same two packs of cards she was dealt a hand of thirteen hearts. The cards had been shuffled and cut in the usual way.

The Encyclopedia Britannica, under the heading of probabilities, says thirteen of a suit occurs but once in x o 000,000,000,006 x times, but the fact remains it is true absolutely. Miss Bird did not realize that this phenomenal hand was practically a miracle until she had read the article in the encyclopedia.

THE UNKISSED BRIDE

By BERTA RUCK

SYNOPSIS.

Joy Harrison, living in London and working for Dr. Rex Travers in Harley street, is upset by a letter from her fiancé, Geoffrey Ford, a well known novelist, asking to be released from the engagement. Preoccupied with her own trouble she fails to notice that Dr. Travers seems troubled, too. Towards the end of the day he tells Joy that he has lost a great deal of money through an unscrupulous solicitor and he will be forced to give up his house in Harley street.

Dr. Locke, a tenant, tells Rex that he has just been offered a practice with a commodious villa in the south of France which he cannot take on, and he suggests that he recommend Rex for it. The only hitch to the plan is that they want a married doctor and Rex is a bachelor. To his partner's suggestion that he marry and take up the new post, Rex turns a deaf ear.

Joy, who has been listening to the doctors' colloquy, suddenly sees a method of escape for her and she asks Dr. Travers if he will marry her on a business arrangement. The latter is stunned by her suggestion and finally asks her why she made it. She tells him that she is badly in need of another job, although her real reason is to have Geoffrey think of her engagement to another man.

The doctor broods over the change his altered circumstances will have on his young partner and ward, Percival Arthur Fitzroy. Finally he decides to take Joy at her word and they enter into an agreement to marry on a strictly business basis. Immediately after the ceremony, Rex, Joy and Percival Arthur go to the south of France. Joy enjoys the villa home and Percival Arthur has the time of his life. Joy and Rex become interested in each other. Then the Fords, Geoffrey and his mother, appear on the scene.

INSTALLMENT LIV.

THE CLAMORING VOICES.

Joy was right; never in all his thirty-three years of vigorous life had this man been so angry; the longing burned in him to grip this teasing baggage by the shoulders and to shake her as hard as she deserved for her treatment of a man, to hold her, not releasing her except after a kiss—more likely a string of kisses, and of definite anger. Brutal caresses might teach her not to provoke the brute in a man, and not to play with fire.

Joy, trembling, faced that unwinking blue threat. "In his temper and mad of revenge and just because he's lived with me, Rex feels fit to kiss me."

And in that instant as she stood half panicky, half joyous, wholly thrilled, she could almost feel her mouth taken, closed upon, crushed, purposefully hurt in that unmaterialized kiss. Yet—who shall follow the impulses of a girl in love, swung between desire of a caress and recoil from the violation of its giving? It was then that Joy flamed up into a fresh spurt of wrath, protesting most impetuously, most furiously aloud, "And now you won't let me out of the room, even? You stand there in front of the door?"

It was only then that Rex realized that he was standing there in front of the door; even with his shoulder set against a panel barricading the way out.

Instantly he moved; coming back to himself and to the sense that there are things no Englishman does [however much a girl may deserve that he shall do them, however much a Latin contemporary may smile and shrug because he does them not].

"I beg your pardon," Rex Travers said, quickly and coldly, opening the door. "I did not notice that I was standing in your way."

He took a stride away from that door, and Joy found herself shaking as she reached it. Its china knob, painted and gilded, felt like a lump of ice against her hotly moist little palm. She felt her heart flutter like a bird pressed under a handkerchief. She opened the door. Then, as once before,

ed his eyes upon her, drawing her head round again as surely as if ong fingers had caught her by the nape.

lf in panic, half in delight she turned back to face Rex where he ready to catch her into his arms again? to let all be explained? altered? good? No. O, no! Rex was stone again; worse, he was suave, colcool and completely Doctor Travers, speaking—understood what you said just now. Very well. Unfortunately I an appointment at twelve o'clock." He turned up his wrist. "It is a to twelve now. Then all the afternoon I am afraid I am busy until late. Tonight there's this dance, isn't there——"

Yes——"

We can hardly go into this today, then. But I will think over what is best thing to be done about what formalities should be taken, and we discuss it later."

It?" He meant—? Yes. That about her freedom, of course. She had for it.

Thank you."

Joy, too dismayed to say another word, took up a forgotten pile of Rex's handkerchiefs and mechanically stowed them into the handkerchief before she hurried out again, closing the door behind her. In that gaudy, goldy, flowery salon she stood; her heart like that bird prisoned under handkerchief, still fluttering the crescent curves beneath silk and washing itself, her small fists pressing against her mouth, her eyes staring at nothing.

What, what had she done now? Allowed the adored brute to believe she was asking for her freedom?

The whole of Joy seemed one incarnate protest, "But I'd never want to be free from him!"

In Rex, left standing there on the other side of the door, also with a heart pounding in his breast, and also staring at nothing, two voices clamored.

One told him "Well, that's that. It's all up now. You'll have to let the girl go, of course. After all, except for this outward show, running the house, having Mrs. Rex Travers on her visiting card, marriage certificate, and passport, except for arranging your meals and putting away your clothing, and so forth, she's not been any wife of yours. Since she's so obviously eager for her liberty, you'll have to let her have it. After all, you're civilized. You can't be a brute to that poor child."

"Can't I?" took up, savagely, that other voice in Rex. "Can't I! She's mine. Or would have been if that spindly chap hadn't turned up again and barged into things. Let him take her if he can. She's mine. I shall hold her to it and fight for her."

On the day and at the hour of the morning when the young Travers were going through that more or less restrained bedroom scene in their villa, Colonel Hay-Molyneux was stretched out in a long chair on the beach.

For himself this matured Anglo-Indian considered that two hot tubs a day with plenty of his favorite soap provided all the water he needed in his scheme of things, barring the soda with which he took his pegs. He would take baths, lazily he watched the others; Geoffrey Ford, sleek headed as a seal, was swimming out to the rock. Hay-Molyneux kept a lazy eye open for Geoffrey's mother, who should be down presently . . .

Ah, here she came. Escorted by two very Londony youths, one of them the piano playing boy off the yacht [and both rather silly young asses, Jim thought].

Jim guessed that she bathed because one had to, here. Unlike young Travers' wife, who was perfectly at home in the water, little Mrs. Ford resembled a dabbler, a splasher.

"You don't seem enthusiastic," Jim teased her as she strolled slowly by, twirling a red Japanese parasol.

"I? Why, I love the water!" she smiled, but her eyes were blank. She knew she was beaten. As if it were a flag, she dropped the parasol at Hay-Molyneux's white boots. Then she turned from her swains to say over her shoulder. "It's the Casino dance tonight, isn't it?"

"Is it, by Jove? I was forgetting. Keep me a couple for old sake's sake, Pansy." He had a pleasantly sentimental feeling that, by Jove, he was going to miss this little woman out of his life, once he was sure of not meeting her again.

He watched her in the water, the last of a line of bathers who jumped the waves as they rolled lazily in; Mediterranean waves no more violent than the wash from an upriver steamer that rocks the canoe. Suddenly in that caprice native to the most treacherous of blue eyed seas, there rolled towards her one of the series of waves that seemed as though it would be no different from the others. Pansy, laughing, conscientiously girlish, prepared to jump it—it was upon her! Wave of the under tide, which rolls in as aftermath of some storm on another coast. It reared like a fierce white horse above Pansy's scarlet poppy head, it lifted her, crashed down upon her, rolled her over and over in its frightening green grip.

Helpless, she felt it pull at her limbs, dragging her like a child's toy many yards from where it had fallen upon her; dragging her, she felt in panic, out to sea!

And then, suddenly, as if tiring of this scarlet clad doll, the wave flung her roughly aside again, tossed her up on to the beach, drew back roaring, sucking in to itself the red shoes, the cap, the knot of pitiful flowers. Pansy lay, half smothered with the water she had swallowed, the stunned gasping, while the crowd hurried up to ask in all the European languages what had occurred? No question of life saving, or of the dramatic moment. After all, the wave had not taken Pansy Ford . . .

Good morning!

The Chicago censor board, after a long delirium during which it fought what was not, as it thought, a monster of awful mien, but just a darn good movie, has come to its senses and passed "The Trial of Mary Dugan" with no cuts—and no "pink permit." That should have been done in the beginning. What the city of Chicago needs is a censor to censor the censors.

This picture, adapted from the play by Bayard Veiller, is one of the talkiest altalkers yet produced. Dialogue paints much of the story for your imagination. With the exception of one scene at the beginning of the piece, there are, as I remember, no cutbacks to illustrate the events that transpired prior to the trial of Mary Dugan. Practically all of the action and conversation—and the film lasts for one hour and fifty minutes—occur in a courtroom.

Tiresome? NO! There's not one draggy moment. So vividly do the characters tell their stories; so skillfully have they been directed in the telling that the related episodes are etched in color on the curtain of your mind.

It never would do to tell you here of the tales unfolded, nor to even give a hint as to the film's denouement. Because, if you didn't see the play you MUST see the picture, and to enjoy the latter thoroughly your minds must be blank so far as knowledge of climax or events leading up to that intensely dramatic moment are concerned.

"The Trial of Mary Dugan" is charged with suspense from opening to closing scenes. It is packed with surprise and human interest. A tragic thing, frankly exhibiting emotions flicked on the raw, still it has its smiles. It is magnificently cast. It is superbly directed. It tugs at the heartstrings and sends shocks to the nerve centers.

Norma Shearer's portrayal of the accused is brilliant and compelling. Young Raymond Hackett, who has the rôle next in importance to hers, also does some great work. He looks like a kid and there's a delightful ingenuousness about his acting. H. B. Warner handles well the duties of prosecuting attorney, and Lewis Stone and Olive Tell bring brains and personality to their respective characterizations. All minor parts are competently performed.

Sure's it's a grand picture we almost missed seeing because, we were told, it wouldn't be good for us!

If you ask me I'd say it should Make wrong girls RIGHT; KEEP good girls good!
For, thus it sternly, sadly warns:
"The Easiest Way is paved with thorns!"

(The moral is better than the poetry.)

See you tomorrow!

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question W. F. Bickel, McGregor, Ia., was awarded the $5.

The Question.

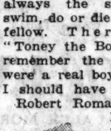
What books of adventure did you like best as a child?

The Answers.

Mrs. Babette Harbright, 732 Bittersweet place, housewife—"Robinson Crusoe." I read that book I don't know how many times. I read many other books, but that was so long ago—really, it was—that I can't remember the names. It's more than I can do to remember the names of books I read now.

Sidney Golnick, 100 North La Salle street, mail clerk—I used to like the Pee Wee Harris books when I was a boy. They were Boy Scout adventures and travels. I literally lived with those boys, and it was a great life they led. I liked Zane Grey's books. They are full of adventure and charm.

Mrs. Jack Pearl, Bismarck hotel, housewife — That's easy; Horatio Alger's books. They were boys' books—always a poor boy who ends by becoming wealthy, and always the sink or swim, do or die sort of fellow. There was "Toney the Bootblack" and—I can't remember the titles now, but they were a real boy's books, and I think I should have been a boy.



Robert Romans, Phi Delta Theta, Evanston, Ill., advertising representative—I liked "Tom Sawyer" the best. It seemed to mirror the feelings and experiences that every boy has. I read "Huckleberry Finn," although I thought "Tom Sawyer" was the more interesting. I read Tom Swift's entire series of some nineteen books.

Mrs. Bick Richards, St. Clair hotel, housewife—What else could it be but "Alice in Wonderland"? And if you haven't adventured with and become mystified by Alice and her strange world and the strange creatures in that world you should by all means do so, even now. It would be good for anybody and what ails them, if anything.

Lutheran Synod Aims Blow at Secret Societies

Expels a Church for Not Opposing Them.

Upholding the action of the Northern Nebraska district, the Missouri synod of the Evangelical church expelled the Immanuel Lutheran church of Omaha and its pastor, the Rev. F. W. Seesko from the synod in the closing sessions of the latter's triennial convention in River Forest yesterday.

The Nebraska church was charged with "continual violation" of the synod's restrictions against the administering of holy communion to members of secret societies. After a spirited discussion, the Rev. F. W. Seesko was allowed three minutes to speak on certain questions. The vote followed.

A dispatch from Omaha stated that the members of the council of the Immanuel church said they will seek "affiliation with a Lutheran synod that places more liberal construction on the ruling," and that a meeting may be called soon to take steps in joining another synod.

Milwaukee, Wis., was chosen as the next meeting place of the triennial conference to be held in 1932. The synod appropriated $419,225 for missions work among foreigners and Negroes in the United States. The Negro missions received $332,000, while four Indian missions at Red Springs, Wis., Oneida, Wis., Arlington, Cal., and Yakima, Wash., received $84,925. Other appropriations went to foreign groups including the Finnish mission in Michigan.

Today and tomorrow the scene of the convention will shift to the Sherman hotel where displays of issues of Luther's catechism and exhibits from schools, colleges, hospitals, and homes will be held.

The Sunday school building of the Ebenezer Lutheran church, Foster avenue and North Paulina street, will be dedicated tomorrow by Dr. Peter Peterson, president of the Illinois conference of the Augustana synod. He will be assisted by visiting clergymen and the Ebenezer chorus choir.

The building when fully equipped will have cost $200,000. The auditorium, seating 1,200 persons, can be divided into thirty-two classrooms. A gymnasium, a dining room, kitchen, offices, and rehearsal room for the choir complete the building. Andrew Norman was the architect.

U. S. Disabled War Vets Elect Californian Chief

Detroit, Mich., June 28.—(AP)—William J. Murphy, past state commander of California, was elected national commander of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War at the closing session of the veterans' annual convention here today. The next convention was awarded to New Orleans.

Women of the D. A. V. auxiliary won a victory today in obtaining passage of a resolution officially recognizing it as an affiliated organization. Mrs. F. W. Lambertson of Denver was elected president of the auxiliary.

Thurman L. Ely of Detroit was elected senior vice commander of the national veterans' organization and Frank D. Scotten, El Paso; George K. Demopulos, Providence, R. I.; Benjamin Neff, Minneapolis, and W. J. Folsom, Atlanta, were elected junior vice commanders.

PARENTS QUARREL OVER CHILD'S CARE; REPLACED BY EXPERT

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—Old King Solomon's device of offering to have a child divided by a swordsman, giving half to each woman claiming the child as hers was modernized today.

Weary of bickerings between Alfred L. Stamm, wealthy merchant, and Mrs. Lillian B. Stamm over the custody of Alfred Richard, 7, Justice Isadore Wasservogel appointed Dr. Israel L. Feinberg, an expert on child guidance, to supervise Alfred's care.

For a year Dr. Feinberg will direct the boy's education, selecting a governess and nurse. He will control the boy's diet, direct his morals, oversee his manners, choose his toys and games and select his clothing.

Dr. Feinberg will stand for the court and outrank in authority the divorced Stamms.

As a further safeguard to the child's "emotional stability and character" Justice Wasservogel instructed the parents not to wrangle in the child's presence and under no circumstances ever to speak ill of the other to him.

Justice Wasservogel acted on a report from Phillip J. Dunn, a referee appointed last August, to inquire into the disputes of the Stamms. Dunn held 23 hearings, examined 38 witnesses and took 3,000 pages of testimony.

Referee Dunn reported there was "need for many years of harmonious development of a single policy in the management of the child." He questioned psychiatrists, including Dr. Menas S. Gregory, on the effect of parental rows on a small boy. Five medical experts said such conditions might make Alfred Richard "unstable emotionally."

Alfred Richard at present is with his mother in her apartment. His father, who lives in Scarsdale, is to have his custody a part of the year. Dr. Feinberg will have access to both homes at any time to see if his scientific regimen is being followed.

When the Stamms were legally separated on July 8, 1927, she was given $14,000 a year alimony. Custody of the child was divided. Mrs. Stamm won a decree of divorce March 6, 1928, in Reno, with full custody. That started the battle. They were married Aug. 27, 1915.

Carewes in England on Second Honeymoon; Glad They Remarried

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOUTHAMPTON, England, June 28.—When the steamer Majestic arrived here last night among the passengers were Edwin Carewe and Mary Akin Carewe, screen actors, remarried in Chicago last week after having been divorced. They are "Very well at present, thank you," as Mr. Carewe said to reporters.

"We are as much in love with each other as ever we were, and we found we could not do without each other," Mr. Carewe added.

Another passenger was Norman Kerry—who hopped aboard in film fashion just as the Majestic was leaving New York, with little cash but a passport. His former wife, Rosina, was on her way to London to visit their daughter at school in London. At the customs shed last night Norman helped his former spouse with her baggage and then fondly embraced her. Mr. Kerry said to the newspaper men:

"There has been no actual reconciliation. I am very fond of my former wife and we are both devoted to our daughter."

Emotions Riot in Opera About 3 Kings' Love

With Lucrezia Bori as Perfect Heroine.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Just as a matter of scientific curiosity it would be interesting to know if the Ravinia company, or any other operatic organization in the world, could do better with poetic drama than was done with "L'Amore dei Tre Re" last night. The chances are exceedingly small that any one will ever be able to answer in the affirmative.

This is one of the high spots of opera giving. The work itself is a masterpiece, touched with fire and pulsating in its every measure. And the fire of the piece touched the imagination of four great interpreting artists, five in fact, for Gennaro Papi, at the conductor's stand, wrought with it with the eloquence that speaks in dramatic nobility of utterance. He touched the heights.

Lucrezia Bori was the Fiora, an ideal Fiora of patience, lonely wistfulness, the symbol of fate who in her own strivings pulled down her world with her. What a scene she makes of the second act, experiencing every emotion that it is possible to experience, piling climax on climax, until with final, heartwringing poignancy she is throttled to a pitiful death. You can, if you desire to be cold blooded and analytical about it, admire the skill with which she mounts from low emotional level to high and higher levels. But speaking as a mere member of the audience, I found myself taking all critical and technical standards and throwing them overboard.

It was no time to weigh values. The only thing left was to be carried along in the emotional tidal wave that she created.

And what a scene the three men of her fate set up with her, Giuseppe Danise as Manfredo, Edward Johnson as Avito, Virgilio Lazzari as Archibaldo. Mr. Johnson among his other striking gifts has an extraordinary ability to make the words of a text glow when he sings them. There were words in that scene that stood out as noticeably as a tone color from the orchestra. It is one of the reasons why his Avito is as nearly ideal as Miss Bori's Fiora.

And Mr. Lazzarri's groping, implacable old giant of a father glowed with the savage flame of a volcano. His physical blindness was a bit of high dramatic art, his passionate outbursts a bit of high tragedy, his utterances a bit of high singing.

Perhaps Mr. Danise's task was the most difficult of all, for Manfredo is obliged to be painted in reduced colors and low shadings. His problem is to present a virile, vigorous and at the same time gentle and sweet natured man. By comparison with the flaming colors of the others, he must almost seem drab. Yet this is the part, and Mr. Danise did it with the highest skill. In other words, here was a performance worth making a pilgrimage to see.

No Wonder Chicago Is Restless; Quiet 600 Million Years

Fossils uncovered in the Chicago area indicate that the simpler forms of organic plant and animal life flourished here over 600,000,000 years ago, according to Associate Curator Henry W. Nichols, geologist at the Field museum. Mr. Nichols makes the statement in a leaflet published recently by the museum.

This area has developed quietly and without serious disorder, in contrast to the volcanic eruptions and disturbances of geological forces which have accompanied the formation of other regions in the United States, Mr. Nichols believes.

Is it any wonder Chicago is a restless city now?

"Of course," the leaflet states, "the site of the city has been many times submerged, but these submergences have been slow and orderly processes. The rocks under the city lie nearly as horizontal as when they were deposited. The changes of level which have admitted and driven back the sea have not been great."

Dr. Sven Hedin, Swedish explorer, visiting Chicago for the second time, and his sister, Miss Alna Hedin, spent several hours at Field museum yesterday afternoon accompanied by Henry Field. Afterward they were entertained at tea at 234 E. Pearson street.

Dr. Hedin is a member of the Swedish academy and is the discoverer of many of the secrets of Tibet.

Wise Woman, Who's Overweight, Avoids Too Tight Clothes

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Until that diet you are now on honestly entitles you to get into last year's 38 size dress, don't try too hard to make the 38 grade. Try a size 40 and take it in here and there, if you like. But the dress mistake that most plump ones make is to crowd their adipose until it gets balky and breaks out in bulges.

No one but yourself and the saleswoman need know about the 40 size, and few will suspect it by looking at you if the garment doesn't cling. This caution we believe particularly timely at the moment of acquiring those last minute vacation sport things. A two piece sweater suit that clings will reveal more bulges and figure defects in a minute than a three piece one of the same material. The loose jacket with the three piece suit is a veritable little curtain to hide what may as well be hidden until the fifteen pounds are properly dieted off.

We refer, of course, to the two piece sweater of slipover upper part, and the two piece jersey dresses on the plump come in for the same degree of censure. If fat bulges one simply does not get the youthful effect that is supposed to lie in the weave of the jersey and sweater materials.

Selecting clothes that cling and clothes that are too tight, as I say, is a common mistake. There may be a mental triumph in the fact that you can wiggle into the pre-overnight size, but there's no figure triumph in it. If one has large busts, a protruding diaphragm and stomach and is thick across the back the sweater or any tight two piece costume not only is hard on the figure, but it easily becomes downright vulgar.

Chiffons and georgettes, though they have a certain tendency to cling, are not among the materials tabooed for the stout. Because they give no added bulk, they may be worn advantageously. The large patterned chiffons, though, ought to be foregone until the old, youthful figure is recovered.

He Was the Man.

Professors on the college campus have a way of speaking to the students and walking with them to class whether they can call them by name or not. One morning I met one and walked with him though I had no idea who he was. It was the beginning of a new term and to make conversation he asked me if I was to have new instructors that term.

"O, yes," I said, "I am to have that awful Prof. Cox in mathematics and they say he is a fright to work you."

I caught the funny twinkle in his eye and I realized he might be the man. Evidently he knew I surmised and he said kindly: "You're right in your surmise, I'm he, but I'll promise you I'll be humane at least." B. R.

Too Many Parents Have Mercenary View Regarding Marriage

BY DORIS BLAKE.

The blame for youth's lawlessness is being pretty generally shifted on to the shoulders of parents, and with obvious enough reasons for the charge. A phase of parental criminality or stupidity, as you wish, appears before my eyes fairly frequently.

To give an example: A young man desperately in love with a girl and she with him, is put through a grilling as to his financial prospects and present earnings, which, in itself, is no crime. On the contrary! But the young man is employed in the printing line; earns a straight salary of $40 a week and with extra work he averages $50 and sometimes over that.

"Besides," the boy writes, "I do not intend staying in this trade forever, as I am studying commercial art at C—— university and have only one year more before I graduate. Now, I am on the lookout for a position in an advertising agency and am positive, if given a chance, I will make good."

Until the sweetheart's father and mother learned from her fiancé his financial standing, they were the nicest of friends. The young man naïvely confides that he was beginning to think how fortunate he would be to have such in-laws. After the money disclosure they changed immediately to the point of making him feel unwelcome and are bringing pressure to bear on the girl to look for a better prospect.

"I know in my own heart that I will make good," he repeats, "I will do everything possible to reach that goal. But her folk seem only to look at it in today's light and not as to future prospects."

Incidentally, the chap has saved enough to start a modest apartment. But that's not enough.

Promoting materialism is just another of those charges that may be laid at a good many parents' doors. Money is the god, and there can be no substitute, not even a husband for their daughter who has character, ambition, and excellent principles.

Divorce statisticians might look into this parental feature when they're compiling their next report on causes for marriage going wrong.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Scrambled Eggs.

The man who wrote thus of the "soothing loveliness of scrambled eggs decked with shower bouquets of Irish bacon," was only one of the writers on this subject who has spoken in a similar high flown way of this emergency ration, as it were, which has commonly varied from the most common of dishes to something that can be described as lovely.

A famous cook begins his talk on the subject by saying: "Scrambled eggs are mostly served in silver timbales but in certain cases they also may be dished in special little crustades, in little receptacles made from hollowed brioches, or in tartlet crusts. Formerly it was customary to garnish scrambled egs in a silver timbale with small variously shaped pieces of toast, or with small scraps of puff paste cooked without coloration and shaped like crescents, lozenges, rings, palmettes, etc." Do you recognize the homely little dish in this description? The cook whose words we have quoted has fixed up his soft and creamy scrambled eggs in eighty different fashions, according to his cook book.

A woman cook who tried to tell the real way to scramble eggs, begins by saying: "There are two culinary horrors—hard, dry, horny scrambled eggs, and wet, mushy scrambled eggs." In fact, she called them "scrambled, scrambled." Nevertheless she thought there could be nothing better for a lucheon or supper or breakfast than scrambled eggs properly cooked. She made her recipe for the correct cooking of scrambled eggs a thousand words long.

The same skill and gentle fire that is required for frying an egg must be used in cooking the eggs, which have been broken and slightly beaten up before starting to cook them for scrambled eggs. The woman in question says: "Use the most skillful and gentle touch. Lift the cooked part in large pieces and let the uncooked liquid part run to the bottom of the pan. Continue this lifting and shifting until the mass is thoroughly heated through and is neither wet nor dry. Remove the eggs carefully to a hot platter and present immediately to the head of the house." The person to whom these have perhaps most often been presented in a certain social group—has been the studio guest.

FARM and GARDEN BY FRANK RIDGWAY

Old timers remember away back when gourds were grown as one of the regular crops in the pioneer's vegetable garden. In many gardens they have been completely dropped from the planting list, while in other cases they are grown for ornamentation in flower gardens.

For an odd plant in the modern garden the gourd is worth trying. Uncle Sam's gardeners at Washington, D. C., recently decided to revive interest in the gourd. Their information shows that gourd vines are raised on suitable supports for use as screens and for the variously colored and grotesquely shaped gourds that the plants produce. Some kinds, when young and tender, are used for food, being prepared in the same manner as summer squash, they explain.

Almost every variety of gourd seems to have its own reason for existing. Government gardeners say the lagenaria gourd is used for drinking cups, water jugs and flasks, storage containers, and bird houses. The dishrag gourd, or so-called vegetable sponge, is used as a sponge for scrubbing. It is first given a special treatment and bleached before using. In some parts of the world gourds are of great value, entering into the every day lives of the people as household utensils. Some varieties are even used as cooking vessels, according to the federal men.

Not many years ago it was common to see midwest farmers using the gourd as a dipper and a ladle, but today gourds in America are used mainly for ornamentation and as bird houses.

Government men point out that gourds with various size holes cut in them for entrance offer weather proof homes for such birds as woodpeckers, purple martins, wrens, nut-hatches, chickadees, and bluebirds. The United States department of agriculture, Washington, D. C., has recently published a new free leaflet, number 1615, "Gourds for Bird Houses and Other Purposes."

Senator Jones to Undergo an Operation Next Week

Washington, D. C., June 21.—(AP)—Senator Wesley L. Jones of Washington is to undergo an operation at a hospital here next week for a kidney ailment. He has been undergoing preliminary examination at the Naval hospital for several weeks. At his office today it was said he expected to be confined to the hospital for two weeks.

BY THALIA

The Morris L. Johnstons' delving daughter, Miss Angela Johnston, is back from the dusty ruins of the Levant, where for two seasons past she has been working with the Princeton archaeological expedition. Her summer project encompasses a quite, quite different phase of existence than that in which she has been devoting herself since this last season, and the year before.

The Johnstons have taken Mrs. J. Dyer Bradley's residence, "Bradleigh," for the next few months and are established there now. For Angela, that will mean tennis and golf in place of the strenuous efforts helping to unearth priceless old wagon wheels and ox bits, and perhaps bridge or teaing instead of the concentrated study and research she has been doing on the subject which interests her so greatly. It was two years ago that Miss Angela, shortly after the completion of a most successful college career at Bryn Mawr, became intrigued with the stories of past relics, and save for the season she took here last summer, has been over in Athens and Corinth with them. Besides the actual digging which can only be done in the springtime, she has studied at Athens, and made many short trips for enlightenment purposes.

She still thinks it is all great fun and immensely thrilling, and whereas it hasn't been decided whether or not she is to return next fall, she is intent on making archaeological study her life occupation. She may, I should add, let up a little this summer, because she's popular and in demand at parties.

The Tavern was so nearly swamped with requests for reservations for its holiday party last night that they had to make a two night affair of it, and are to have another gala evening tonight.

The Lawsonia Country club at Green Lake, Wis., is to be formerly dedicated over the Fourth of July week-end. The program of sports, including a regatta for 18 and 28 foot boats, a swimming tournament, golf, tennis, and a fireworks display will conclude with a dinner dance in the newly completed million dollar clubhouse on Saturday evening.

Among those who are planning to attend and who have made reservations at the clubhouse include the Julius T. Benedicts, the Allan M. Clemens, Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. McNear, Mr. and Mrs. Vincent Bendix, the Orville Taylors, Mr. and Mrs. Nell C. Ward, and Col. and Mrs. Horatio B. Hackett.

Chicagoans aboard the Reliance to arrive this morning from New York City include Mrs. William W. Gurley and her son Helen Gurley of 1416 State parkway, Mrs. Charles M. Hewitt of 1411 State parkway, Edgar J. Uihlein, Edgar Jr., and Miss Paula Uihlein, Mrs. Charles F. Spalding of 6 Scott road, Mrs. John V. Clarke, Miss Lydia Clarke, Miss Louise English, and Miss Margaret Conover.

The Harlow D. Higinbothams of Lake Forest have been visiting during the past month at Castle Hill, the Richard T. Crane Jr. place at Ipswich, Mass. Miss Florence Higinbotham will sail last week to join them.

Mr. Laurence Wilson of Lake Forest and her two little girls have gone to Westbrook, Conn., for the summer months.

Young Mr. and Mrs. John Ames whose own wedding only took place in fall, have been in the east to officiate as best man and matron of honor respectively for the marriage of Mrs. Ames' sister, Miss Alice Mackenmaker, to Stephen Campbell Gates of Oil City, Pa., which took place last Tuesday.

The Stuart Logans of 2344 Lincoln Park West went to New York City to meet Mr. Logan's daughter, Miss Phoebe Logan, when she returned from school in Europe a few days ago, and they are staying in New York for a few days at the Ambassador.

Nettleton Neff of 50 Bellevue place and his daughter, Miss Barbara Neff, sailed on Sunday on the Cristobal from for Spain.

White City Plans Extra July Fourth for Sally's Crowd

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

Which will it be tomorrow morning when you open your SUNDAY TRIBUNE—will you turn first to the "Funnies," or to see if you are among the winning guests for White City?

If you're not, I don't want you to be disappointed children for there'll be news of another party and you can try to win an invitation to that. But if you find your name among the winners I congratulate you—because every day brings more news of the fun we're going to have on our afternoon at White City.

Here's the latest:

The days around the "Fourth" are fireworks time, of course, and White City always has gorgeous fireworks at night beginning July 3rd.

But since we are coming in the afternoon after the Fourth, Mr. Herbert A. Byfield, president of White City, thought we'd like a daylight display of fireworks—so he's arranged with Mr. Rossi of the New Castle Fireworks company to give a daylight exhibition for our benefit. Won't that be splendid and its being done specially in our honor!

And there's the special performance at the outdoor circus, and then there's the shows and rides and all the stunts that everybody likes.

"A Swell Day" Is Payment Enough for Beach Party

Mrs. Fiske Huntington Bevans

Mrs. Bevans has prepared two booklets, one on "Prayers and Graces for Children" and another called "Books to Be Read to the Children or by Them," which will be sent free on receipt of stamped, self-addressed envelopes.

The beach had changed.

Everybody was a little disappointed at first. The children were used to the long stretch, which was broken now by breakwaters.

But—

"O, look! A dead fish. He's dried, though—he must have been washed up long ago."

"Boy! A horseshoe crab—what a whopping big one. Let's turn him over—he's dead all right."

"Hide him here—he's too heavy to take along."

"No, he isn't. I'll drag him by the tail."

"Gee, another dead fish! See how silvery and blue he is—it's a mackerel."

Already laden with coats, lunch, milk, papers, the party was before long carrying one bouquet of ten dead fish held by their tails, one huge horseshoe crab dragged by his, four large clamshells to scoop sugar and meal with, one conch shell, two dead small crabs in perfect condition, three gold shells and an armful of long pieces of driftwood to be sharpened up for broiling.

All of a sudden the familiar cry of danger arose:

"Im so hun-n-gry! Let's start the fire."

With all the driftwood in sight it would seem as though there might be a pile of it in a jiffy. But what with barnacles to look at, seawood to pop, sticks to sharpen, and one of the boys building a really clever break for the fire against the strong ocean wind, not to mention three shakings out of the sand that gets inevitably kicked into the provisions—it was some time before we sat broiling our ham and making toast surprisingly golden considering that we were using flame instead of embers.

Smudged young faces, glowing with sunburn and winburn and happiness, shining with butter and delight—what a playground the world can be for children!

After lunch there was ball of course, and fiddler crabs to see, and the footprints of snipe or sandpiper or tern to follow — long, leaping runs, and paddling and wading made necessary by the fact that the horseshoe crab had to be washed out inside if he was to be examined.

Then a lull, while we looked over the treasures of the sea, especially keen for the claws and leathery shell and hinged plates and joints of the underside of the horseshoe crab—following which came an exploring trip up the beach.

Even if you hadn't enjoyed it yourself [which you had] wouldn't that repay you for any amount of effort needed on your part to engineer the expedition?

Bright Sayings of the Children

The Tribune will pay $5 for each childish saying printed. The story told must never have been printed in any magazine or paper. It is not possible to acknowledge or return unavailable contributions. Write on one side of the paper. Address bright sayings to Aunty Bee, The Tribune, Chicago.

Little Katie was just learning to count and was proud of it. She had three brothers, Drew, Bruce, and Tobe. On being asked how many children her mother had, putting on a thoughtful air, she said, "Let's see," (counting her fingers) "there's Drucey, Brucey, Tobey, and Tatie, four."

K. V. S.

When four year old Rita comes to visit her grandma, grandma always promises her all the pennies she gets in change during that day. While visiting last week she did not have any so when Rita was going home grandma gave her a $2 bill; she ran to her mother, saying:

A Linen Frock Shows Blue Linen Trimming

BY LOLITA.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—The stocking market is a bare market. That much was plain to me in going around the campus of one of our leading colleges for women. In Maytime there was not a stocking to be seen in the place!

But how old fashioned these very young ladies of from 3 to 9 do show themselves! Upon their young shoulders rests the responsibility of stabilizing the stocking industry, for, whatever is shed by their older sisters, they continue to wear "'em." Socks such as we see in the above sketch completed by one strap pumps are still the proper mode when we are very young.

Here for the girl of from 3 to 9 is one of the linen models which all the young folks are wearing nowadays. It is in either handkerchief or regular linen and it occurs in white. The edges are bound with brilliant blue linen and flowers in varying tones of red and pink are appliqued at those points where the inverted plaits meet the appliqued bands of contrasting color.

Among girls of from 14 to 18 there is a striking adumbration of full fledged styles. It is especially interesting to see how such salients fashions as the sultan back tennis frock and the ensemble have taken possession. The latter borrows the straight line seven-eighths length coat of the deb and often the accompanying tweed frock is sleeveless.

A sweater and a tweed skirt sometimes supplant the all tweed frock and in this case the sweater strikes a note of contrast with the woolen fabric. Sweaters for girls are frequently sleeveless and their neck line is divided between square, V and crew.

Midsummer Snowstorm Blankets Jugo-Slavia

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

VIENNA, Austria, June 28.—For the first time in the history of the country snow fell in midsummer in various parts of Jugo-Slavia. At Ljubljana the snow was sufficiently deep in the hills to make skiing possible. A few flakes fell in Vienna. The sudden drop in temperature is believed due to icebergs floating in the gulf stream.

Along Sunrise Trail, fashionable Long Island's great motor parkway, there's a tea room that serves such delicious iced tea that scores of motorists may be seen parked there, every day, all summer long.

After finishing your tall, cool glass, if you were to ask the clever hostess her secret for making her famous iced tea, she would tell you her success is built upon this one thing . . . the kind of tea she uses . . . and that tea is India Tea.

Your grocer has India Tea . . . the same kind this smart Long Island tea room serves. Just ask him for a package of tea with the Map of India emblem on the label.

Anonymous!

...but it changed her entire life

Despite her beauty, charm, and wealth, an aristocratic Tacoma woman found herself hopelessly out of things—avoided alike by men and women.

Then, one day, she received a letter. Anonymous! Insulting. Enclosed was a Listerine advertisement on the matter of halitosis. Across it was written "Wake up." Today there is no happier or popular woman.

People won't tell you when you have halitosis (unpleasant breath). It's too delicate a subject. They let you go on offending others—hanging yourself.

Since you, yourself, cannot tell when you have it, and since very few normal human beings escape it, why not play safe and use Listerine as a mouth wash 3 times a day? Thus you will be certain not to offend others.

Full strength Listerine ends halitosis instantly. Being an active germicide* it first attacks the germ conditions that so often cause odors and then being a powerful deodorant, destroys the odors themselves.

Let us send you our free Book of Etiquette. Address Dept. H-3, Lambert Pharmacal Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

CAUTION
Occasionally you may be offered a product "Just as good" and "Just as safe" as LISTERINE. We hope you won't be fooled. There's nothing like LISTERINE.

Full strength Listerine while safe and pleasant to use, is so active it kills the stubborn Staphylococcus Aureus (pus) and Bacillus Typhosus (typhoid) germs in 15 seconds.

THE SAFE ANTISEPTIC

SIX QUIT SUIT WHICH IS HOLDING UP PARK BONDS

Attorney Charges Fraud in Bringing Action.

Six of the ten petitioners in the suit to set aside the $15,000,000 bond issues of the south park board, authorized at the election of last June, withdrew yesterday before Circuit Judge Philip L. Sullivan. The withdrawal was made by Attorney Ransom E. Walker, who charged that deceit and fraud had been used in the suit and who traced its inception to an unnamed disgruntled real estate dealer.

These withdrawals may result in dropping an appeal to the Supreme court and releasing the funds which contemplate improvements to benefit the 1933 World's Fair. Attorney Joseph B. Fleming, representing the commissioners, called attention to a statute which fixes a minimum of five petitioners in bringing a suit of this character. He expressed doubt that an appeal can be made with only four petitioners surviving.

Attorney to Continue Fight.

Attorney Hayes McKinney, who has represented the petitioners, said that the action would not interfere with his plans. He indicated that he will ask an appeal after consulting his secret backers, following his defeat before Judge Sullivan. A week ago the judge instructed Attorney Fleming to prepare a decree in favor of the commissioners which is to be signed Monday.

Attorney Walker charged that misrepresentations had induced his clients to sign as petitioners. He said none of the six had voted at the election and did not know the character of the petition they signed. He stated that the whole proceeding should be thrown out of court for want of equity, having been instituted merely to delay and kill improvements.

Attorney Walker said he will place William A. Dudley, managing director of the Greater Central District association, on the stand Monday to report on an investigation into the backing of the suit. He said Dudley's testimony would prove the suit "was created in perjury and born in fraud."

Election Fraud Disproved.

The attack on the bond issues began last July when Frederic J. McGuldwin charged fraud had been committed at the election June 4, 1928. In February the Supreme court refused to consider the allegations of fraud but ordered a recount on the charge that a recount would show a variance of 17,000 votes as compared with the official canvass. The recount, which was completed a month ago, substantiated the victory for the bond issues at the polls.

Dream Ship Is Freighted with Elmer's Praise

It's Worth While Program for All, He Says.

BY ELMER DOUGLASS.

The miniature symphony orchestra on W-G-N's Dream Ship has vanished for the night, and, for this listener, written finis to the evening's entertainment. During last evening's program it was again demonstrated that this short concert is as typical as can be of the effect and spirit of a full sized symphony orchestra concert. In the Dream Ship broadcast, titles and composers of the three or four selections played are not announced. In this respect it can be compared to symphony orchestra compositions, with their opus numbers and the usual three or four movements of which they are composed. This late hour program is worth while for all radio listeners.

A longer but similar orchestral concert was heard from WLS, 9 to 10, during which the entire suite of Tschaikowsky's ballet, "The Sleeping Beauty," was played. That this charming suite has escaped the attention of program directors is, I believe, one of the strange mishaps in radio. However, "The Sleeping Beauty" should sleep no more, at least, not until most of us are more familiar with its beauties than we are now. Also during this concert we were given a first hearing of Busoni's "Concertino" for clarinet, a modern work, played by Lillian Poenisch, and announced as extremely difficult, which we take for granted.

WM. O. HAWKINS, CONSUMERS' CO. OFFICIAL, IS DEAD

Funeral services will be held today at 11 o'clock in St. John's Methodist-Episcopal church, 74th street and Jeffery avenue, for William Oscar Hawkins, a vice president of the Consumers' company, who died Thursday night at the Jackson Park hospital. He lived with his wife and young son at 8009 Bennett avenue.

W. O. HAWKINS. [Russell Photo.]

Mr. Hawkins had been connected with the Consumers' company since 1922, being successively manager of the car lot department, chief of coal operations, and manager of coal purchases and sales, before becoming a vice president. He was a member of the Shrine and of the Lake Shore Athletic and Midlothian Country clubs.

"OLD BILL" BELL DIES; VETERAN OF FEDERAL BUILDING

Yesterday was the first court day in twenty years that callers in the chambers of Federal Judge George A. Carpenter were not respectfully greeted by William C. Bell, the 76 year old Negro who has been a familiar figure in the Federal building for two decades. "Old Bill" died yesterday morning in his quarters behind Judge Carpenter's home at 45 West Oak street. He is survived by his widow and three sons.

Born in 1853, Bell began life as a slave on a Maryland plantation. He obtained his freedom when his master's home fell into Union hands when he was ten years old.

According to the story Judge Carpenter got from him, bit by bit, during the last twenty years, Bell wandered to Washington and entered the service of the Beals, a prominent capital family in civil war days. He also served Union Generals Sheridan, Howard, and Perry and was a Pullman porter for years. He came to Chicago thirty years ago. During the race riots Judge Carpenter fitted him out with an apartment in a barn behind his home and there Bell lived with his family until he died.

COURT TO RULE ON DOG TRACK WRITS JULY 10

Final decision on the injunction secured by dog racing clubs to permit operation without police interference will be made July 10, Circuit Judge Harry M. Fisher indicated yesterday. The date was set when Assistant State's Attorney Lee La Rochelle appeared before Judge Fisher to seek immediate dissolution of protective injunctions.

Attorney La Rochelle asked that the hearing be taken directly before Judge Fisher from Master in Chancery Max Korshak. The judge refused to do this, but ordered that all proof be submitted to Master Korshak by July 6 and that the master make a final report by July 10.

Indictments against sixteen dog track officials and employes, named in true bills voted Thursday, were returned yesterday before Chief Justice John J. Sullivan of the Criminal court.

BODY OF BOY, 12, KILLED JUNE 10, IS STILL UNCLAIMED

Nation-Wide Search for Parents Fails.

"It seems mighty funny a little 'shaver' like the boy lying down in the basement in box No. 13 is still listed as 'unidentified,'" said the morgue keeper yesterday after several persons had viewed the body of the 12 year old lad. The boy was struck by a train while trying to cross the tracks at 109th street and the Grand Trunk railroad on June 10. Scores of persons have viewed the body, but have turned away shaking their heads.

A nation wide search has been made by the police in hopes of locating the parents of the boy.

Not a Boy Scout.

It was believed at first that the boy was a member of the Boy Scouts. A button with a picture of a Scout on it was found on the sweater worn by the youth. Yesterday it was learned that the button is not an official Boy Scout emblem, but is an advertising button. It could have been worn by a man, woman, or child in the county.

E. Urner Goodman, Scout executive, issued the following statement yesterday: "We are zealous in pressing the point that the lad was not a Boy Scout. We fear that the family may be deterred from viewing the remains by reason of the fact that newspaper accounts have insistently reported him as being a Scout and wearing a Scout emblem, whereas they knew their son was not a Scout."

Description Is Broadcast.

Sergt. Joseph Starshak, in charge of the missing persons bureau at the detective bureau, sent out a description of the lad to every police chief in the country. The radio also has been utilized in an effort to find the parents. And still no one seems to be missing a little fellow who weighs about 85 pounds, has reddish hair, and is about 5 feet tall. If he is not identified, he will be buried on Tuesday.

LOUIS SPRECKELS IS DEAD; EX-OFFICIAL OF FEDERAL SUGAR CO.

New York, June 28.—[Special.]—Louis Spreckels, widely known sugar man, and for many years general manager of the refinery of the Federal Sugar Refining company in Yonkers, died suddenly in his home in Yonkers early today after a heart attack.

Mr. Spreckels, who was a member of the famous Pacific coast family, was 62 years old. He was a nephew of Claus Spreckels, who founded the sugar business which made the family famous, and a cousin of Claus Spreckels Jr., and the reformer, Rudolph Spreckels.

THOMAS BYRNE, 76, VETERAN CHICAGO BUILDER, IS DEAD

Thomas Byrne, for 53 years a resident of Chicago, who as a building contractor played an important part in the building of the drainage canal, the Lake Street elevated system, and various structures of the 1893 World's Fair, died yesterday in his apartment at the Flamingo hotel, 5520 South Shore drive. Mr. Byrne, who was 76 years old, is survived by a widow and eight children.

Born in Cincinnati, O., Mr. Byrne came to Chicago in his early youth. He constructed four sections, or nearly eight miles, of the drainage canal. The family resided in Lake Forest before moving to Hyde Park. Funeral services will be held at 10:30 a. m. on Monday in St. Ambrose church, 47th street and Ellis avenue. Interment will be in Mount Olivet cemetery, Hickory, Ill.

President of Pioneer Iron and Metal Company Dies

Milwaukee, Wis., June 28.—(AP)—Morris L. Fox, 65, president of the Pioneer Iron and Metal company and a resident of Racine 30 years, died last night.

CIRCUS PEOPLE HONOR MEMORY OF JIMMY DURKIN

Eau Claire, Wis., June 28.—[Special.]—An unusual remembrance service was held here at dawn by the 600 show folk with Dodson's World's Fair shows in the "big top" of Jack Hoxie's Wild West show, in accordance with a custom of show people to honor deceased loved ones in the places where they were known. A visit here once of the late James Durkin of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE inspired the service.

The massed show bands played the old hymns and the show people sang them, led by Chief Clear Sky, Iroquois vocalist, and Lylah Reed. The Rev. Doc Waddell, pastor of the "Canvas church" with the Dodson's shows, spoke the memory tributs, and each one present was given an inscribed gold leaf bearing the facsimile signature of Mr. Durkin. The signature was taken from the remnant of an old package of "mats" and "plates" Durkin sent to his friend Waddell, and reads, "From Jimmy Durkin, CHICAGO TRIBUNE."

Mrs. Agnes White, 99, Lake County Pioneer, Is Dead

Mrs. Agnes White, 99 years old, died on Thursday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. William D. Kennedy, 918 Hickory street, Waukegan, after a short illness. She has been a resident of Lake county for 79 years. Born in Ireland, she came to America in 1850, making the trip in an old sailing vessel. Mrs. White is survived by five children, 19 grandchildren and 27 great-grandchildren. The funeral is to be held Monday afternoon at 1 o'clock from the home of Mrs. Kennedy. Interment will be in Union cemetery, Hickory, Ill.

Edward Carpenter, British Poet and Author, Dies at 85

GUILDFORD, Surrey, Eng., June 28.—(AP)—Edward Carpenter, poet and author, and a pioneer in the Socialist movement in England, died today aged 85. In 1884 he visited the United States and was a guest of Walt Whitman, famous American poet.

PROTEST BAR'S SINGING OF OLD "SALOON" SONG

Rockford, Ill., June 28.—[Special.]—Protest against the Illinois State Bar association's singing of that rollicking ballad "Saloon" at its annual banquet here tonight was voiced by Miss Blanche De Wolf, 23 year old woman member from Belvidere, Ill.

The bar association closed its two day convention with a banquet attended by 600 attorneys and their wives. The festivities were opened by the appearance of Judge Howard Hayes of Chicago on the stage singing two verses of the melody the central theme of which is mourning for the old days of the "bar and the railing, the dime and the pail."

W. C. T. U. Discomfited.

The banquet party, which included three Illinois Supreme court justices, joined in the chorus with a will, while several Rockford women, active workers in the W. C. T. U., appeared discomfited.

"In the present crisis, when organized government is pitted against organized crime, it seems a sad commentary that we, as members of the state bar association, were heard singing that disgraceful song," she began.

Mr. Black interrupted to remind her that he had been one of the singers.

"I don't question the quality of your voice or the other voices, but I do object to the quality of the song," said the new member. "We can only hope that the sounds penetrated no farther than this room."

Importance of revision of the nation's criminal laws to overcome the growing tendency to emphasize the rights of the individual at the expense of the rights of society was urged by two speakers before the convention.

"We have gone too far in our efforts to see that innocent men are not convicted of crimes," said Herbert F. Goodrich, who will become dean of the University of Pennsylvania law school on July 1. William D. Knight, state's attorney of Winnebago county, dwelt on the need of administration of justice looking to the rights of society.

Mr. Knight cited the fact that not a single gang murder in Chicago had been punished, that of 226 murder charges brought in Chicago in one year only 55 were convicted, and of 229 charges of manslaughter only four resulted in convictions. There is too much coddling of the individual under our present criminal law system, Dean Goodrich told the convention.

Urges U. S. Prosecution.

Coöperation between state and federal agencies and greater use of federal courts by state's attorneys was urged upon members of the Illinois State's Attorneys' association by George G. G. Johnson, United States district attorney for the Northern district of Illinois. Mr. Johnson emphasized the need for placing such cases before federal judges. State's attorneys in the northern part of the state, where the influence of Chicago is felt most strongly, were especially urged to adopt the practice. The gang crimes of the state, particularly in Cook county, Mr. Johnson declared, are the greatest blot on civilization of our times.

Officers Are Elected.

PRESIDENT—John D. Black, Chicago.

FIRST VICE PRESIDENT — Clarence W. Heyl, Peoria.

SECOND VICE PRESIDENT—Amos C. Miller, Chicago.

THIRD VICE PRESIDENT — John C. Smith, Centralia.

SECRETARY — R. Allan Stephens, Springfield [reElected].

Bobby Fights Storm Unsuccessfully.

BY WESTBROOK PEGLER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—Gene Sarazen and Al Espinosa, two tawny athletes who depend on their golf for their meal, today went ahead of Bobby Jones, a lawyer by trade but an amateur at golf, in the National Open championship tournament on the west course of the Winged Foot Country club at Mamarneck.

Sarazen got his second score of 71 in the second day's round of 18 holes and Espinosa, author of a seventy on the first day, got a 72. With 142 apiece they were two strokes ahead of Bobby, who waded over boggy fairways in a three hour downpour with a little fringe of 2,000 drenched and straggled spectators hemming him in. Shooting 38 on the first nine holes, no worse than par, and 37 on the second nine, one over par.

Ties with Shute.

This 75 and his 69 of Thursday set him back to a tie for second with Horace Shute of Cleveland, who used to be an amateur himself. Shute played the estate in 71 strokes, but he had taken two more than this in his first round, making 144 under the curious rules of arithmetic.

Late in the day Tommy Armour, the ninth professional now based on Detroit, came in with a card of 71 and tied third in the field at the half way point with a total of 145, having taken 74 on the opening day.

Leo Diegel's card was 74, the same as on his first round, and his 148 gave him a margin of one stroke over, or under, George von Elm, the second amateur in the standings at midway, who got a 70 today but took 79 Thursday.

The team of Horton Smith and Walter Hagen, who do a large business in signed testimonials, golf exhibitions, and arduous essays for the press, broke ricariously, were having a rotten time of it. Smith, the golfer with a grooved swing, winner of most of the boarding house and subdivision tournaments waged in the south in winter, had taken 77—76—153 in the two days, and Hagen, with no caddie to blame, for he played his round before the rain, got an 81 to add to his 76 for a total of 157.

A Cheering Total of 184.

There were other scores on the big board which smacked more of the consolation division of a duffers' outing, and one of the pros brought in a grand, sucker cheering total of 184 for the 36 holes. There were three pros, on the card of one Elmer Light, a professional, and young Jack Cummings, a handsome kid from Cleveland, accused himself of a ten on the seventh hole.

The rain began about the time Jones went to the first tee in the afternoon. Sarazen had gone out early and finished long before Bobby went to bat and even the wind which sprang up about midday to plague the players left on the range had not figured among his problems.

There were perhaps 8,000 people scattered over the golf course when the rain began, most of them massed around the clubhouse, where the ninth and eighteenth greens could be taken in with practically no marching.

Just a Conventional Rain.

A few thousand were out in the valley watching the golfers go by. There was no point in describing the rain. It was just conventional rain composed of water falling in close formation. The people who were exposed to it got very moist. Bright summer costumes became soppy wrappings, stained with runny colors and the ladies who wore their legs nude came in from the outer reaches of the golf course dyed like circus Indians. There was a rush for the clubhouse, but it seemed that one had to buy a ticket for 75 and bring up a member in good standing as a sponsor. So there was a second rush for the sandwich tent and the press cottage. One sensed considerable irritation among the refugees.

Not oblivious but regardless of the weather, Jones had set out with Emmet French, a professional. Their hands were wet and slipping on the grips of their clubs, and the course was transformed in five minutes from a hard baked layout, allowing extra yards to roll, to a marshy landscape on which the balls slid briefly along the grass, kicking up spray, and died. Jones got his par on the first hole but wasted a stroke apiece on the second and third. He won back one with a birdie three at the fourth, but lost it again with a six on the long sixth. And the best he could do there on the turn was to play even with par.

The officials attending him took very solemn measurements on the greens and moved his ball around the water hazards, accumulated in the little hollows. There were places, though, as at the eighth green, where the cup lay in a depression and the putts had to be struck some special way not generally seen in golf so as to run through the water.

The gallery clung as Bobby rounded the turn and set out for the short

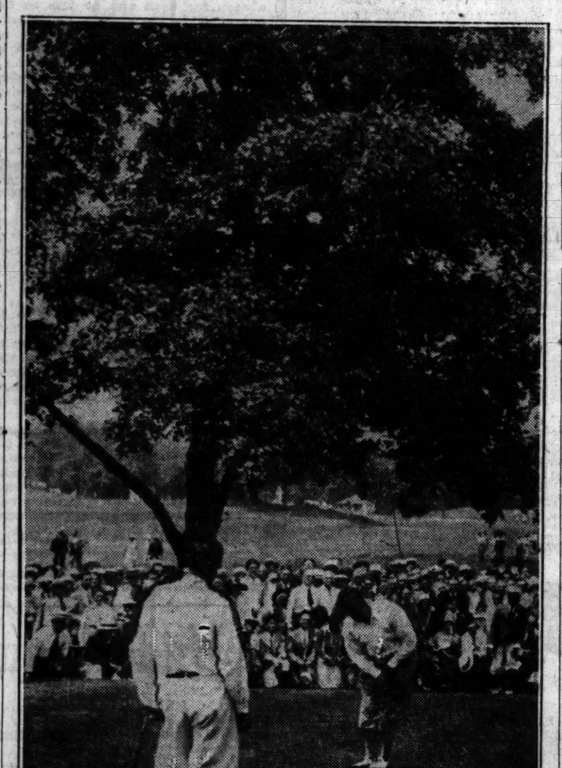
BOBBY STROLLS WITH "CALAMITY JANE"



It was Bobby Jones' unerring accuracy with the putter which permitted him to set the pace in the first day's play of the national open. Here he putts on the ninth green, getting a par 5 for the 517 yard hole.

Bobby Jones sinks his long putt at the 450 yard seventeenth for a par four. Calamity Jane, his famous putter, was working to perfection in the first round of the national open at Mamaroneck and the result was 69 for the 18 holes. He scored 31 for the last nine, which included a series of five threes. [Pacific and Atlantic Photo.]

HENNESSEY AND ALLISON BEATEN AT WIMBLEDON

Mrs. Bundy Scores Upset Against English Star.

BY WILLIAM SHIRER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WIMBLEDON, England, June 28.—Aside from the defeat of John Hennessey and Wilmer Allison by the two galloping French musketeers, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, respectively, the story here today is about Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, mother of five children and Wimbledon champion of twenty-four years ago, who surprised twenty-two year old Eileen Bennett and beat her in three sets, 3-6, 6-4, 6-4.

MRS. MAY BUNDY.

Mrs. Bundy annexed her first Wimbledon title two years before Miss Bennett was born, which goes to show that perhaps the game has not progressed so much in the last quarter of a century as admirers of Suzanne Lenglen and Helen Wills like to think. Mrs. Bundy's victory put her in the last eight of the women's singles.

Eileen Bennett is England's ranking player, and when she captured the first set against the middle aged Mrs. Bundy 6-3 most of the spectators left the stand thinking it was all over. Those who remained wished they had left when Miss Bennett jumped into a 4-2 lead in the second set and apparently had the match all but won.

Sallies to Net Like Cochet.

Then the American woman started attacking and rushing the net in a series of placements and keeping her opponent camping on the baseline with the depth of her drives. She took four straight games to win the set 6-4.

The spurt did not last, however, and again when Miss Bennett led 4-1 in the final set it looked as if it was all over for Mrs. Bundy, who appeared exhausted.

But once again she started sallying to the net like Cochet, and once she had Miss Bennett on the run she took five consecutive games for a 6-4 set and the match.

It was another day of upsets for women, for Senorita d'Alvarez, an unsuccessful finalist in the last two years here, went down before the powerful stroking of Mrs. C. G. McIlquham of England, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2.

Helen Wills and Helen Jacobs came through as expected, however, the American champion toying with Mlle. Sigar, Belgian champ, 6-2, 6-3, and Helen Jacobs putting out Joan Fry, one of the brightest of English hopes, 6-3, 6-4. The two California Helens now loom as likely finalists.

Big Bill Tilden strutted himself into the quarter finals with a win over Christian Boussus, French southpaw, 6-3, 9-7, 6-4.

Borotra at Top of Game.

Hennessey was unable to shake off the nonchalant and careless mood which featured his play all the week, and against Cochet, who was in superb form, he was hopelessly outclassed, 6-1, 6-4, 9-7.

Later in the afternoon Hennessey played the same listless game paired with Lott against the Germans, Kuhlmann and Nourney, the Americans winning, 6-1, 9-7, 7-9, 6-2.

Wilmer Allison found Borotra at the top of his game, and though he fought gamely before the huge center court throng he fell before the bounding Basque, 6-3, 6-1, 4-6, 6-3.

Tilden and Hunter had an easy time defeating Turnbull and Gilbert, 6-3, 6-2, 6-4. Lott and Edith Cross beat Fisher and Mrs. Uber, 6-4, 6-8, 6-4, and Allison and Helen Jacobs downed Geniten and Mlle. Gally, 6-0, 6-2.

Quigley Plays Robinson for Illinois Title

After disposing of Henry Foley, last year's champion, 3 and 2, Quigley yesterday encountered George Thomas, Floosmoor ace, in the semi-final. Play proceeded smoothly until the seventeenth hole. There, Thomas' iron shot landed in a pit filled with water. Quigley gave permission for his opponent to re-drop the ball, which Thomas did, eventually winning the hole and the match. The committee in charge of the meet, however, ruled that a halve was the best Thomas could have done. This, together with the fact that Quigley won the last hole with a 5 as against Thomas' 6, led the committee to declare Quigley the winner.

Robinson reached the final by defeating Gus Fetz of Mid-City, 1 up, after 20 holes, and Ralph Morgan, 17 year old Park Ridge star, 1 up in 18 holes. Results:

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

St. Louis, Mo., June 28.—Our Cubs climbed back into first place this afternoon, and there was no monkey business about the way they did it. Thrown into brutal frenzy when the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati score was posted, the boys put on a batting orgy in the second inning, which included Hack Wilson's nineteenth homer, Pat Malone's second, Rogers Hornsby's thirteenth and other things which fetched the total for the one inning to a cool seven. The eventual score of the assembled innings was Cubs, 9; Cards, 5.

The victory, combined with the defeat of the Pirates, gave the Chicagoans a four point edge for league leadership, and a string of six straight over the Cardinals during this balmy month of June. The day also dropped the Red Birds into fourth place, the first time this year they have been below the Giants in the league standings.

While not in his best form, Pat Malone succeeded in registering his eleventh victory of the year. Numerically the Cardinals outhit the Cubs, 11 to 9, and they worked Pat for six bases on balls, but most of this transpired after the big second inning, when he did not have to bear down. The Cubs made their nine hits count for 21 bases. Our boys didn't make a single until they had rapped out three homers and three doubles in the second and third innings. They made only three singles all afternoon.

Cubs Tame in First.

The Pirate-Reds final hadn't been received until after the game here was 15 minutes old, so the first inning was pretty tame. For the Cubs, McMillan popped to Gelbert, English was thrown out by Haines and Hornsby fanned on three pitched balls. The Cards made one run in their half. Douthit opened with a single to left and went to third on High's single to center. Hafey lined to Stephenson, but Bottomley singled to right, scoring Douthit. High went to third on Hafey's sacrifice fly, but died on third when Orsatti forced Bottomley.

Then they hung up that Pittsburgh score. Wilson knocked the ball over the right field pavilion, tying the count. Cuyler was hit by a pitched ball and stole second. Stephenson walked. Grimm forced Stephenson, Cuyler stopping at third. Cuyler scored and Grimm went to second on a wild pitch, and then Schulte walked. Malone knocked the first pitch into the pavilion in right center, scoring Grimm and Schulte ahead of him. McMillan was called out on strikes, but English doubled to right, and the Rajah made his thirteenth homer of the year and his second of the series, scoring English ahead of him. Haid relieved Haines. Wilson, up the second time, was thrown out by Gelbert.

Cards Come Back with One.

The Cards made another run in their end of the second. J. Wilson singled to left. Gelbert and Haid struck out, but Douthit doubled to center, scoring J. Wilson. High filed to Stephenson.

In the third, doubles by Cuyler and Grimm scored a run for the Cubs before a double play ended things.

The Cards added a run in the fifth. Malone walked High and Frisch on eight pitches. Bottomley forced Frisch, Grimm to English, High stopping at third, whence he scored on Hafey's sacrifice fly to Wilson. The inning ended when Grimm made a great stop of Orsatti's hot one over the first bag.

The Cubs rested from the third to the seventh. In the seventh they greeted Wild Bill Hallahan by making their ninth run. Hornsby walked, took second on Wilson's infield out and third on Cuyler's sacrifice fly. He scored on Stephenson's single to left. Stevie stopped at second on Grimm's single to right, but Schulte struck out.

Blake to Hurl Today.

Malone was touched up a little in the seventh. He walked Frisch. Bottomley filed to Cuyler. Frisch went to second on Hafey's long sacrifice fly to Wilson. Ornatti singled to center, scoring Frisch and took second on the throw to the plate. J. Wilson doubled, scoring Ornatti, and then took third on a passed ball. Gelbert walked. Smith batted for Hallahan and forced Gilbert.

Manager McCarthy has designated Sheriff Fred Blake as his choice for the third game of the series tomorrow. Fred has been working energetically to get in shape, and Joe figures he is due to pitch nine full innings for his fourth victory of the year. Manager Billy Southworth was undecided about his selection, but said his choice would lie between Sherdel and Johnson.

REDS, 10; PIRATES, 3

Pittsburgh, Pa., June 28.—(AP)—The Cincinnati Reds hit hard today to defeat the Pirates, 10 to 3, in the third game of the series. Red Lucas shut out the home team until the eighth when Paul Waner and Harold [Pie] Traynor reached him for homers. The loss dropped the Pirates to second place in the National league race, since the Cubs won at St. Louis. Score:

Fields' 1-2 Wallop K.O.'s Cooper in 1st

FIGHT DECISION.

At San Francisco—Ace Hudkins outpointed Charley Belanger (10).

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

JACKIE FIELDS.

From the first tap of the bell, Fields was master of the situation. He continually scored with left jabs and hooks and always sent his right to the face and body. Jackie showed to better advantage than in any of his appearances in Chicago. Cooper was counted out when the opening round of the two minutes and forty-four seconds old. Fields weighed 148 pounds and Cooper 149 pounds.

In the semi-windup, Spug Myers of Pocatello, Idaho, won by a technical knockout from Jackie Moore of Chicago in the fifth round. After Moore had been knocked down twice for counts of nine in the fifth stanza, his seconds tossed a towel into the ring as the signal of defeat. It was a gruelling battle as long as it lasted.

Harry Schuman, local 140 pounder, was given the decision over Roger O'Brien, also of Chicago, in the five round opener. It was a fast bout with both fighters trying at all times for a knockout. Solly Schuman and Willie Pelligrini, local 120 pounders, went five rounds to an interesting draw in the second fight. Al Crisp of San Francisco was awarded the decision over Harry Greenfield of the west side in the other ten rounder on the card.

O'CONNELL WINS FROM LEJECK IN ILLINOIS TENNIS

George O'Connell yesterday defeated Charley Lejeck, 3-6, 7-5, 6-2, to enter the semi-finals of the Illinois state tennis tournament at River Forest. A few minutes later O'Connell and Red Thalheimer defeated Leo Boldenwick and Roland Nord, Chicago Town and Tennis stars, 6-0, 6-1. They are favorites to annex the doubles title.

Clare (Pete) Zinke, Cincinnati star, lived up to her No. 1 western ranking by winning from Ruth Willard twelve straight games. In a pre-run semi-final doubles event Miss Zinke and Ruth Oexman, No. 1 ranking doubles team, defeated Miss Watson, Milwaukee, and Catherine Wolfe, Indiana champ, 6-4, 7-5.

Today's semi-finals finds Thalheimer and O'Connell, doubles partners, battling each other in the singles. O'Connell, who has played tennis in virtually every country of the world where they have courts, recently won the U. S. intercity doubles title at Cleveland.

Londos Throws Strack on Logan Square Mat

Jim Londos, California heavyweight wrestler, last night defeated Charlie Strack, Stillwater, Okla., in straight falls at Logan Square ball park. Londos took the first fall in 43:07 with a body scissors and the second in 9:42 with a flying mare. Rudy Dusek, Omaha, Neb., and Joe "Toots" Mondt, Colorado, heavyweights, wrestled 45 minutes to a draw in the semi-final.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

If Dan Howley's Browns should happen into a pennant the White Sox will deserve a cut in on the world's series' loot. The Chicagoans continued again yesterday to this possibility, making the thirteenth time in fifteen attempts this season they have obliged the St. Louis entry in this respect. The score of this one was 7 to 3 and it was definitely salted away even before the first inning was completed.

Two things contributed to this latest whittling down of Blackburne's hopes. One was Alvan Crowder, who was skillful enough to subdue the Sox with five hits. The other was Grady Adkins for whom a vanishing act is not unusual. Four Brownies hit the pitcher boy safely and one walked in the first chapter. Three of the five scored, Adkins was yanked and in the subsequent sessions the Browns made it a bit more decisive by slapping Bob Weiland about the lot.

Sigafoos Makes Debut.

The only excuse the Sox can offer for scoring two runs on five hits is that two of their blows off Crowder were triples. Cissell drove one to the left board in right to open the sixth inning and was driven home by Watwood's double. Hoffman duplicated Cissell's smash to start the seventh. He remained on third while Melillo was booting a grounder by Sigafoos, who made his debut as a second baseman in place of Kerr. Then Berg grounded into a double play on which Hoffman ran home. Except for these two rounds the Sox had fewer chances than the proverbial Chinaman.

Adkins didn't encounter any threats in the first inning until after he had retired a pair. Manush started the rumpus with a single. Schulte singled past the great Shires, who has a large chunk of meat out of his left arm and is handicapped when it comes to moving quickly. Kress sacrificed 'em with a double. O'Rourke arrived on a pass and Melillo singled Kress home. Weiland arrived at this point and fanned Schang to end the unhappy inning.

Play Two games Today.

There are two battles today, the first at 1:30 o'clock.

AYCOCK, YALE GOLF STAR, WINS COLLEGE TITLE

Deal, N. J., June 28.—(AP)—Tommy Aycock, Yale star from Jacksonville, Fla., won the national intercollegiate golf championship on the Hollywood course today, defeating the Eli captain, Marshall Forrest, in the 36 hole final, 5 up and 4 to play.

Aycock, just completing his sophomore year at Yale, succeeds as champion Maurice McCarthy Jr. of Georgetown, whom he eliminated yesterday. While the all-Yale final was an anticlimax, attracting a gallery of only about 120 persons, Aycock fully earned his laurels by the brilliant golf he produced yesterday in downing McCarthy and Lester Bolstad of Minnesota, the Big Ten champion.

ADGIE K. O.'S BROWN.

Sarazen and Espinosa Tie for Golf Lead

tenth, which lies across a rough valley. The hood of his bag was protecting his clubs, but his hands were wet and he was gripping the handles with special care so the shafts wouldn't spin in his fingers.

Club Members Rave.

At the tenth his drive landed in a sand pit and his recovery left him two putts away, so he was three over par as he moved on to the eleventh tee. There was a continual bellowing and waving of arms as the marshals of the course, selected from the club membership, threatened the customers. A brassard with lettering on it always transforms the common club member into something very like Baldwin Felts, guard of the era of the armed wars between the Polack miners and the Colorado Fuel and Iron company. He works up the most ferocious rages and pines for a riot gun.

But the goofy 2,000 of both sexes, having followed Jones this far through the downpour, scrambled erratically over the course and hemmed in the fairways so close that there was little more than an alley for him to shoot through. This was by way of being a compliment to young Mr. Jones' accuracy and he kept his tee shots flying down the limited width allowed him.

An iron shot fell just short of the green and his chip shot rolled so close that his first putt dropped it. This was a par five hole, and the crowd now swarmed to the thirteenth, which is more than 200 yards, but recorded as par three. There he spooned his drive to within ten feet of the cup and took two putts.

Doesn't Move the Ball.

At the fourteenth he saved another and was only one down to par for the entire round so far, dropping a 12 foot putt for a 3 on a par four hole. He missed another birdie at the fifteenth by half an inch when his first putt of fifteen feet slid by.

From there on he could not gain. His second shot, a brassie, overran the sixteenth green and lay on muddy ground, but he ignored an official voice which yelled, "Move that ball out of ground under repair." Bobbie gave it a high boost with his niblick and dropped it only two feet from the hole. Then he missed the putt. Par was five.

He had dubbed a brassie on the morning round and now, on the seventeenth, he bruised the ball again with an iron. The lie may have been bad, but, whatever the reason, the ball ran only 75 yards. So he lay three on green, thirty feet from the pin. He took three putts and lost two strokes, par being four under and not very difficult under fair conditions. Sixty-three players remain now to shoot 36 holes for the open championship Saturday, but the fight seems to be Jones, the amateur, against two pros, and a rather sharp conflict, too. For the pros regard Bobby as a spoiler who takes the haggis and the vermicelli out of the mouths of deserving toilers, but won't swallow the stuff himself. Sarazen and Espinosa will strike for the prize money and royalties, but also for their altars and their fires.

PHILADELPHIAN WINS NATIONAL MARBLE CROWN

Ocean City, N. J., June 28.—[U. P.]—Before a crowd of 3,000 and with every shot broadcast over a national hookup, Charles "Sunny" Albany of Philadelphia, won the national marble tournament today. Albany completely outclassed Michael Batche of Akron, O., winning five straight games in what was scheduled to be the best five out of nine. The scores were 9-4, 11-2, 7-6, 7-6, and 8-5.

E. M. Walker of Decatur, Ill., who was forced to quit the preliminaries by a sudden attack of tonsolitis after the first day's play, sat at the ringside in an invalid's chair. It was his first day out of bed since he became ill Tuesday.

In 1874 Eddie Foy made his first appearance at Jim Fitzsimmon's Pacific Garden concert hall, southeast corner Clark and Van Buren, in a blue stocking baseball uniform, loaned by John S. Burke, doing a clog, straight jig and sand jig. He received $12 per week. Later he doubled with Charlie Grey under the name of Grey and Foy, doing a double song and dance. Grey for years was prominent in St. Louis theatricals.

The Long Road.

I think I like the long road best—
It seems to lead away in quest
Of venture, distant loveliness,
Or some far mystery.
Its every turn seems beckoning me
To come its way; the sweet caress
Of clover-scented, song-filled breeze,
Dim vistas through the singing trees,
Blue hills . . . call me.
So gypsy-like, I'd take my pack
Nor care one whit when I came back.

MAYTAG, M'CRARY REACH FINALS IN OMAHA TOURNEY

Omaha, Neb., June 28.—Bud Maytag of Newton, Ia., and Bob McCrary from Des Moines twisted the twenty-ninth trans-Mississippi golf championship into an all-Iowa affair today by romping into the finals.

McCrary, the upset genius of the entire week's play, drove into the final round by defeating Nathan Grimes, Denver medalist, 10 and 9. Maytag almost matched his one-sided triumph by eliminating Larry Moller, youthful Quincy, Ill., shotmaker, 8—7.

The pair, who are alike in temperament but as different as Mutt and Jeff in size, will fight for the title tomorrow over 36 holes.

Mudd Wins Golf Title in C.A.A. Meet

BY HARLAND ROHM.

J. A. Mudd Jr., one of the Beverly Golf club's lowest handicap members, won the championship of the Chicago Athletic association in its annual golf tournament at Olympia Fields yesterday. Mudd played the famed number 4 course in 36—41—77, but despite those last shots on the second nine he won by four strokes.

More than 200 Cherry Circle golfers, including those inner organizations, the "Tankers" and "Foozlers," and "Gym Knights," had their choice of number 1 or number 4 courses. Most of the better golfers picked number 4 with the result most of the low gross scores were turned in from that course.

Mudd went along in two strokes over par for the first twelve holes, varying from par on only four holes, one of the variations being a birdie deuce on the sixth. When he came to the punishing finish which broke so many hopes in the national open last year, he slipped a bit, losing a stroke to par on five of the last six holes.

C. C. Hopkins of Exmoor was runner up with 81 and Thomas Dunbar, third with 84. Charles W. Booth of Midlothian, C. A. A. champion the last two years, took 84 shots.

Hugo Arnold, one of the last foursome to finish, won low net by virtue of a handicap lower than the twelve other who equalled or beat par with their net scores. Arnold did 79—8—71, Irving Hartz was awarded second for his 88—17—71 and J. W. Ellis, 88—17—71, won third.

Rioco III., American Speed Boat, Wins Again at London

LONDON, June 28.—The American motor boat, "Rioco the Third," driven by Ralph Snoddy, was again an easy winner in the second heat this evening in the second stage of the race for the duke of York's international challenge trophy on the river Thames between Barnes and Putney.

TWO BAD THROWS ENABLE INDIANS TO BEAT TIGERS

Johnson and Shea Guilty in 5-4 Battle.

Detroit, Mich., June 28.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers literally threw away a ball game today, two wild throws giving the Cleveland Indians a 5 to 4 victory. John Miljus was touched by the Tigers for 15 hits but kept them so distributed that eleven Detroit runners were left on base. Two of the Cleveland runs were scored in the fifth inning when Roy Johnson threw from center field into the grandstand in an attempt to catch Miljus at the plate. Jamieson scored from first on the same error. Mervyn Shea duplicated the misplay in the eighth on a peg to second. The resultant run broke up a 4 to 4 tie. Score:

QUAKER STATE-MENTS

It is the part of thrift, my friend, to use Quaker State Motor Oil, for there is an extra quart in every gallon. This means—special refining has taken from each gallon a quart of waste material that has little or no value in thy motor. Thus, instead of the usual quart of waste, thee gets in every gallon four quarts of lubricant—an extra quart!

UTILITIES COME BACK STRONG IN CHICAGO TRADING

Acme Steel Shares Hit New High Level.

Utility stocks came back strong in the Chicago stock trading yesterday. Commonwealth Edison touched 275, later receded and and closed with a net gain for the day of 12½. Radio issues were buoyant as were several stocks in the general list.

Commonwealth Edison yesterday paid the city of Chicago $2,202,393, which, with the $150,000 paid the city on May 8, represents three per cent of the gross revenues of the company from operation of plants for the year ended May 31, 1929. The payment of three per cent gross is based on the franchise agreement of 1908.

Other Gains.

Other utility stocks chalked up nice gains. American Commonwealth Power A showed seven points better at the close and the A stock was up 2¼. Middle West Utilities and Public Service no par finished the day with gains of 2½ and 4¾ respectively.

American Commonwealths Power corporation and affiliated companies profit for the 12 months ended May 31 before reserves and federal taxes were $2,355,649. The figure does not include income from investment in American Commonwealth's Power System of Massachusetts.

Acme Steel ran up to 130, a new high for that stock, and closed five points under that figure. It is estimated that earnings for the second quarter will exceed $3 a share, making six months net amount to about $5.87. Sufficient business is on hand, it is understood, to maintain the present earning rate.

Jonatron Tube was up three points with reports that the company is figuring in merger negotiations with several eastern companies. U. S. Radio dropped 3 and Grigsby Grunow netted 2 points.

Borg Warner corporation earned $5.12 a share on the common stock in the first five months of the year. Net income for the period, the company reported, was $3,911,551 after all charges and preferred dividend requirements. In the same period last year the company was made up of only four divisions, while at the present there are nine units in the corporation. Borg closed with a gain of nearly a point yesterday. National Standard and Perfect Circle were up 1½ and 1¼, respectively, while Bendix Aviation and Allied Products closed fractionally higher.

Reports Net Income.

Chicago corporation issues, Beatrice Creamery, A. M. Castle, Lion Oil and Poor & Co., all showed some improvement. Hormel was up 2½ points. Poor & Co. reports income for the first five months of 1929 was $1,329,650 before interest and federal taxes and after depreciation.

United Light and Power company for the 12 months ended May 31 showed net income of $6,898,937 after all charges, equal after preferred dividends to $1.72 a share on the common shares outstanding. The preferred stock of the company was five points better yesterday in light trading.

Lewis G. Blessing, vice president of Bastian Blessing, announces that a 24 hour working schedule has been started in two of the departments of the company.

REPORT INSULL PLANS UTILITY CHAIN MERGER

Two Billion Dollar Combine Seen.

BY O. A. MATHER.

Reports of another vast merger of public utilities which would bring together the Middle West Utilities and North American companies set the New York and Chicago financial districts agog yesterday. Word came from New York that both Samuel Insull and Martin J. Insull, respectively chairman and president of Middle West Utilities, were conferring with Frank L. Dame, president of North American, in the eastern city on consolidation terms. At the Chicago office of the Insull organization the only information available was that the Insull brothers were out of town.

Consolidation of the Middle West Utilities and North American companies would unite two great chains of public utilities operating in nearly every state, serving nearly 5,000 communities with a total population of nearly 12,500,000 and with properties of a total value of nearly $2,000,000,000. In addition, it would result in a further community of interest between the great Insull chain, in which Middle West Utilities is the chief holding company, and the North American group.

Arranged Joint Purchase.

There already is a tie between the Middle West Utilities and North American companies. Three years ago these two groups arranged for a joint purchase of a majority common stock interest in the North American Power and Light company, controlled by the Studebaker-McKinley group in Illinois. Cement Studebaker retained his interest but the deal marked the virtual retirement of former Senator McKinley from the public utility field.

Last year Middle West Utilities extended its sphere by acquiring the National Electric Power company, which controls subsidiaries in New England, the middle Atlantic and the middle western states. The North American company also made several acquisitions, chiefly of utilities in California and the District of Columbia.

The properties of the Middle West Utilities company are roughly placed around $900,000,000, which serve about 4,700 communities in thirty states and with aggregate population of more than 6,000,000 people. Its gross annual operating revenue exceeds $150,000,000.

The properties of the North American company represent about $850,000,000, serving about 940 communities with nearly 6,300,000 aggregate population. It's gross earnings run around $130,000,000 a year.

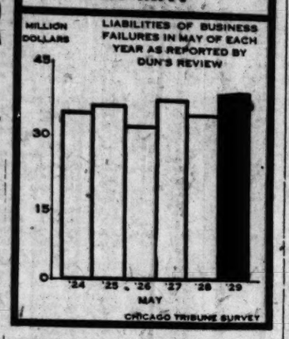
Forms Largest Group.

While Middle West Utilities is the chief holding company, it is only a part of the Insull chain. The largest individual factors are the Peoples Gas Light and Coke and the Commonwealth Edison companies, which serve Chicago, and the Public Service company of Northern Illinois, which operates in adjacent territory. However, all these companies are interconnected to form the greatest superpower pool in the country.

Rumors of still other great utility combines figured in yesterday's news. It was said a holding corporation is being planned to take over domestic properties now affiliated with the Electric Bond and Share company and having assets totaling around $1,000,000,000. Companies mentioned as slated to go into the new corporation are the American Power and Light company, the American Super-Power corporation, the American Gas and Electric company, the Electric Power and Light company, the National Power and Light company, and Electric Investors, a utility investment company.

Organization of the South States Utilities company to take over a group of telephone and natural and manufactured gas properties located in Indiana, Mississippi, Alabama, and Georgia was announced yesterday.

LOSSES ON ACCOUNT OF BUSINESS FAILURES WERE HIGHER IN MAY



CHICAGO ASSOCIATION OF COMMERCE ASKS TO INTERVENE AT HEARING

A brief asking that it be allowed to appear as an intervening petitioner at the hearings of the contemplated mergers of the Baltimore and Ohio and the Chesapeake and Ohio was filed yesterday with the interstate commerce commission by the Chicago Association of Commerce.

The association points out that Chicago commerce will be affected either way the commission decides on the cases and believes that it is entitled to be represented at the proceedings. The association has not disclosed what its position is relative to the proposed mergers.

A protest against further dicriminination by eastern railroads against middle west steel and iron interests was also filed with the commission yesterday through the commerce association. It is maintained that proposed tariffs of four eastern railroads to become effective July 15 attempt to lower the rates on iron and steel products from West Virginia and Ohio and adjacent producing points to the southwest. The new schedules on shipments via steamship lines from North American ports to gulf ports and the rail lines beyond would be on a materially lower basis than prescribed to cover the all rail routes from Chicago, the association says.

PHONE ISSUES LIFT BOND MART TO YEAR'S PEAK

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—With total transactions of $18,226,500 today, the bond market was more active than it has been for more than a year. This figure had not been matched since April 20, 1928. The trading in American Telephone 4½s alone was greater than trading for the entire bond market on light days, with its turnover of $6,797,000.

The American Telephone convertible 4½ issue rose 6½ points and closed at 143¾ after hitting a new high price at 143¾. International Telephone convertible 4½s went to a new top of 149, up six points. Other convertibles were active and strong, Public Service of New Jersey 4½s leading with a net gain for the day of nine points after establishing a high record price of 253.

Active rails, like Atchison 4½s, Missouri Pacific 5½s and Southern Pacific 4½s with warrants climbed fractionally. Buying was particularly heavy in the Southern Pacific issue. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s made another new high at 253 on an overnight gaing of nine points.

Other convertibles heavily traded in at about yesterday's final prices were the Allegheny Corporation 5s and the newly listed Lautaro Nitrate 6s when issued.

MIDDLE WEST TRADE PICKS UP, REPORT SAYS

Trade in the middle west continued to pick up last month, according to the monthly review of the Chicago federal reserve bank.

"The improvement noted during April over the corresponding period a year ago was again evident in May for all reporting lines of wholesale trade except drugs," the bank says. "Half the groups, however, had smaller sales than in April and, individually, the majority of grocery firms sold less than a year ago. For the five months of 1929 grocery sales increased 2.1 per cent; hardware, 7.2; dry goods, 10.5; drugs, 2.8; shoes, 1.8, and electrical supplies, 22.1 per cent over the same period of 1928.

"Sales by department stores gained 7.5 per cent in May over a month previous and totaled 1.8 per cent above a year ago. Wholesale and retail distribution of automobiles aggregated less in May than a month previous, but both showed large gains over May, 1928."

RAILROAD NOTES

Promotions and appointments in the official staff of the passenger traffic department of the Pennsylvania railroad have been announced. The changes are effective July 1. C. H. Mathers Jr., now assistant general traffic manager at Philadelphia, assumes the newly created position of general traffic manager-passenger. J. P. Anderson, at present passenger traffic manager, Chicago, is appointed assistant to the general traffic manager-passenger, and will continue his headquarters at Chicago. C. E. McCullough, at present general passenger agent at Washington, has been appointed passenger traffic manager at Chicago.

The Wheeling and Lake Erie railroad has ordered 1,500 tons of 110 pound rails from the Carnegie Steel company for August delivery.

Fail to Agree on Basic Export Gasoline Price

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—Members of the Export Petroleum Association, Inc., failed at their meeting here to agree on a basic export gasoline price and instructed the special committee which has been considering the question for some time to continue its investigations. Although the differences between various oil interests over the export gasoline price are understood to have been aired further, the association deferred action pending the receipt of the committee's report. The Royal Dutch Shell interests who are said to be opposed to suggestion that the basic price of export gasoline be advanced were represented at the meeting today.

Rentals, Not Age, Wreck Skyscraper

BY SCRUTATOR.

Construction work, and particularly the building field, has been one of the outstanding factors in American prosperity since the war. In Chicago alone, it is said, 100,000 men earn their living in trades allied to the building industry.

The extent to which residents of the United States go in wrecking structures that could stand for many more decades, in order to replace them with something better, is usually a marvel to the visiting European, accustomed as he is to more nearly static conditions.

Forty years is sometimes set as the time limit during which the owner of an office building in a large American city can hope to obtain economic returns. Properly located, the site value so enhances that the structure must then be removed and another substituted. In some cases the period is shorter still.

There is no reason why the buildings put up in the late '80s and the '90s, assuming that the work was honestly done, should not serve the purposes for which they were built in 2000. Several of the older ones in the loop, recently wrecked because they were out of date, were found in excellent condition; so good, in fact, that they furnished stern work for the wreckers.

Limit to Cost Saving.

The argument has sometimes been advanced that it would be better, from a dollars and cents standpoint, to erect the large buildings so cheaply that they would be out of date and in danger of falling to pieces at the end of three or four decades. An instance often cited is the Waldorf hotel in New York. On it was lavished everything that, in its day, was regarded as necessary to a hostelry of the highest class. It has been wrecked to make way for a larger and taller building, while other hotels, not nearly so well constructed, are still getting the cream of guest patronage.

Doubtless the first named hotel could have been built more cheaply. But there is a limit in cost saving. No one can build a large structure to comply with laws or renting requirements and have it arranged so that its physical usefulness will be ended at forty years. This was pointed out yesterday by O. W. Rosenthal, veteran building contractor.

"Any building that complies with the ordinances and is given the proper care will last for centuries," he said. "If the builder cheats on specifications or the owner neglects the property, it will deteriorate. But rentability, in the face of strong competition from new buildings, can be maintained for long periods. I have in mind one that was ultra-modern in 1908 and is nine-tenths rented today.

"Costs for a building of given size depends greatly on the decorative effects. If the marble in the corridors—and the public has been educated to marble—is five feet in height, or seven feet, or ceiling height, there is a great difference. It makes no difference in the efficiency of a building when the beams are below the ceiling level. It does make a betterment in looks to conceal these beams. To do that means greater cost and the loss of ceiling height."

Towers Held Economical.

Limitations on the height of buildings come from various causes. In Chicago, as in New York, it has been found that the second and third stories of tall buildings are most difficult to rent, either because of lack of light and air or a peculiar disinclination of mankind to take a short trip in an elevator. The unpopularity of the lower floors caused at least one owner in New York to keep his building several stories lower than he had originally contemplated.

Mr. Rosenthal asserted that the cost of the towers overtopping the main bodies of fifteen or twenty Chicago skyscrapers cost 33 per cent more to construct, in proportion to rentable space, than the lower floors. To offset this is the advertising value to the tenant and this expert believes that at present such towers are economical.

As a summary, it may be guessed that an office building, or even one for residential purposes, should be erected at the least cost possible to comply with building laws and to renting conditions. This assumes that only rent and increment value in dollars is considered. On the other hand, buildings with beauty as well as utility have been found profitable and it may be that their period of usefulness will be so extended that they will justify their cost.

Credit Is Given to Bernet's Genius.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—Fulfilling expectations that the Erie railroad would resume dividends on the first and second preferred issues after a lapse of twenty-one years, directors voted today two semi-annual dividends of 2 per cent on each of these issues, payable July 31, and Dec. 31 to owners of record July 15 and Dec. 15.

Dividends on both classes of stock were reduced in 1907 from 4 per cent to 2 per cent and since that time there have been no disbursements on them. Payments were begun at the rate of 1½ per cent on the first preferred in 1901 and were increased to the full 4 per cent in 1904. Payments on the second preferred reached 4 per cent in 1906.

Was Once a Blacksmith.

Today's action is regarded in railway circles as a tribute to the administrative genius of John Joseph Bernet, who was placed in charge of the road shortly after the Van Sweringen brothers of Cleveland purchased it in the open market. Bernet recently resigned as president to head the Chesapeake and Ohio, through which the Van Sweringens intend to create a fourth eastern trunk line, providing the interstate commerce commission gives its assent.

Bernet, who has been office boy, blacksmith, railroad telegrapher and on up the line to president, has a reputation as a railroad doctor. The Van Sweringens bought the Nickel Plate railroad in 1916 and Bernet left a New York Central vice presidency in 1927 to develop the road from two "streaks of rust" to a dividend payer.

Up until 1924, when the Van Sweringens bought control, the Erie stock was so widely distributed no one person or group had control. In 1927 the Van Sweringens took over the management. Economies followed. By the end of 1929 $85,000,000 will have been spent on rehabilitation of the road.

Pipeline Extra.

Directors of the Indiana Pipeline company authorized today a distribution of $20 a share from capital stock reduction account. This will be paid on surrender of old $50 par value stock for three new $10 par shares. Directors also declared an extra dividend of $3 and the regular quarterly of $1 on the old stock, payable Aug. 15 to holders of record July 26.

A quarterly dividend of 50 cents a share was announced placing the stock on a $2 annual dividend basis equal to $10 on the old $10 par value stock of the Bank of Sicilty Trust. U. S. Finishing company declared an extra payment of $1 a share and the regular quarterly disbursement of $1.25 on the common stock, both payable July 15 to shareholders of record June 27.

The Prudential company announces that semi-annual dividends payable June 30 have been declared on the two investment trusts originated by that institution. Investment trust shares, series "A" with reserve, will pay the regular dividend of $50 per 100 shares, and in addition declared an extra dividend of $39.07 per 100 shares. Investment trust shares, series "B," will pay a dividend of $15.42 per 100 shares.

Plans Capital Increase.

The Travelers' Insurance company of Hartford proposes to increase its capital by offering one new share to shareholders at $100 a share for each seven held.

Directors of the American Bond and Mortgage company have voted to omit the quarterly dividend due on July 1. The directors took this action because the business of the company for the last six months has been on the decline.

An extra dividend of 50 cents and a regular quarterly dividend of 75 cents, the latter placing the common stock on a $3 annual basis, against $2 previously, were declared by directors of the Corn Products Refining company. Both disbursements are payable July 20 to stock of record July 5. A year ago an extra 50 cent dividend was declared in addition to the regular quarterly payment of the same amount on the common.

Chicago Wins Two Honors at Realty Meet

BY AL CHASE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Boston, Mass., June 28.—[Special.]—Chicago figured conspicuously in the final day of the realtors' national convention, winning first place in two contests in which real estate boards from cities throughout Canada and the United States participated.

The Chicago real estate board was awarded first place in the appraisal contest. The Chicagoans who won this for their home town organization were Mark Levy, Earlye Krumrine, Leo Varty, Henry G. Zander, and Joseph Hall. This is the third time Chicago has taken first prize in the national convention appraisal contests.

The second honor given the Chicago contingent at Boston was a first prize awarded to the Chicago Trust company for having the best mortgage and finance advertising display at the convention.

Talk by Chicagoan.

Chicago also was prominent in today's convention program. The outstanding speech of the day was delivered by Harland H. Allen, Chicago economist.

"The building industry," said Mr. Allen, "appears to be one of the substantial assurances we have against business depression and one of the most buoyant and effective means of all the sustaining forces for national prosperity and high standard of living.

"Economic prophets in analyzing the outlook for the building industry must take into consideration the changed attitude of the public toward the obsolete building, which today is discarded just as obsolete machinery is discarded. The demand of industry is that its quarters be as modern and efficient as its business technique and machinery."

Part Banks Have Played.

Mr. Allen called attention to the change in real estate banking. He said that the public financing of realty enterprises has been one of the most pronounced and improved financial developments of a decade. In 1919 the real estate public financing totaled less than two and a half per cent of the gross volume of corporate securities sold in the United States. By 1928 this volume had increased almost one thousand five hundred per cent, or from $57,000,000 to $809,000,000.

The convention closed this evening with a banquet in the Statler hotel and a dance at the Copley-Plaza.

DISPUTED TRADES IN CONTINENTAL OIL CANCELED

New York, June 28.—(AP)—All dealings in stock of the Continental Oil company made on the New York Stock Exchange yesterday were canceled and the time for performance of contracts in that stock was indefinitely postponed in resolutions adopted today by the governing committee of the exchange.

This drastic measure was necessary, exchange officials felt, because of a mixup when for about an hour brokers and traders failed to distinguish between the stock of the Continental Oil of Delaware, admitted to trading on the exchange yesterday, and stock of the Continental Oil company of Maine, listed on the New York Curb Exchange.

The ruling of the governing committee was the subject of widespread comment in Wall street. It was reported customers of certain brokerage houses who had placed buying orders for Continental Oil "at the market" on Thursday were preparing to sue to compel performance of their contracts. They were said to be ready to dispute the right of the stock exchange to cancel these contracts, pointing out that the orders were placed in good faith with the clear understanding that they were buying Continental Oil of Delaware and not the old Continental Oil of Maine.

Starts His 58th Year on Chicago Board of Trade

William R. Linn, oldest member of the Chicago Board of Trade, begins his fifty-eighth year as a grain trader today. Mr. Linn, who has been less active in recent years than two decades ago when he was one of the largest operators in the pit, expects to be at his office in the Postal Telegraph building to observe the anniversary. He is 78 years old and resides at 209 Lake Shore drive.

CURB MARKET SHATTERS ALL SALES RECORDS

New York, June 28.—(AP)—All previous sales records were shattered today on the New York curb exchange in a rush of buying that whirled leading public utility stocks to new peak prices. The ticker began to lag at the opening and never caught up with the market, being an hour behind at the close. Sales totaled 3,304,500 shares, compared to the previous record of 3,046,400, established on Nov. 28, last.

Comparatively moderates rates for call money with only two more trading days left for the month and new rumors of utility mergers, including reports of a billion dollar alignment in the middle west furnished the background for the broad advance. The air stocks were the only group to finish behind minus signs, but most of the selling in this section was profit taking attracted by yesterday's advances.

Among the Leaders.

Electric Bond and Share, and United Light and Power "A" were the leaders, both soaring to new highs. Bond and Share, which is reported planning a merger of its affiliated companies, closed at 124, its high price of the day, for a gain of 6¾. Sales in this issue totaled 85,500. United Light and Power "A" on a turnover of 309,700 shot up to 52⅝, and closed at 49⅞ for a net gain of 7. Through United Light and Railways this company owns a substantial common stock interest in American Light and Traction, and Detroit Edison company.

Commonwealth and Southern, which established an individual sales record last week, opened at 26¾ on a block of 100,000 shares, and finished at 28, its high price for the day, with a gain of 2¼. Total sales in this issue were 783,000 shares.

New highs were established by American Superpower new at 54¾, Central States warrants and convertible preferred, Columbus Electric Power, Commonwealth Edison, Electric Power and Light option warrants, and United Light and Power conver-

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—New high record prices were numerous in the final tables of today's stock market but the advance was again far from being a wholesale affair.

Profit taking cut down the ratings of a long list of lately favored issues, others dropped behind from neglect, while a few sold off on unfavorable news or reports. Probably a score of new lows for the year were registered, among the "victims" being such well thought of stocks as Tobacco Products, Shubert Theater, International Cement, Wesson Oil, preferred, Kresge, Sloss Sheffield Steel and General Outdoor Advertising "A."

Scores Greatest Triumph.

A good share of the new price peaks fell to the utilities group where prices keep close to top levels—newly set from day to day—here of late, and where it does not take much of a gain to set a fresh record. At that, some of the big leaders of the division jumped ahead rather sensationally, American Power and Light advancing for a net gain of 8 points, American and Foreign Power rising 5½ and Commonwealth Power jumping 13¾ points. Peoples Gas, which has not been so active as some of the others since utilities came to be so strongly the fashion, scored the greatest triumph of the day, skyrocketing for a net gain of 25 points on a heavy turn over.

Wall street was full of public utilities meager talk today and it was no trouble at all to start a boom for most any member of the group. One of the most widely circulated stories had it that a consolidation may be worked out for Electric Power and Aviation corporation of the Americas led the recession in the air stocks, closing with a loss of 2⅛. C. M. Aviation Corporation of the Americas is identified with the Wright interests.

Checker Cab, responding to the pool operations, ran up 5¼ points to close at 75⅜. Officers of the company announced shipments for the first half of the year were expected to exceed the total for the entire year of 1928. Investment trusts encountered a good demand, Goldman Sachs was steady, and Capital Administration "A" shares sold at a new high at 47¾, but lost a half point to close with a net gain of 2¾. The oils were quiet, and the mining shares—Newmont and Noranda each advanced nearly 2 points. Heyden Chemical reached for a new high.

TRADE, INDUSTRY SHOW TENDENCY TO TAPER OFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, June 28.—"Trade and industry this week show a slight tapering off, part of this, perhaps, due to purely seasonal influences, particularly hot weather, part of it to reports of slightly modified estimates of yields of crops, such as wheat, and some fruits," says Bradstreet's. "Even with the slight quieting down noted, however, the general trend of reports is still at a higher level than a year ago.

"In the iron and steel trade the effects of the hot wave of last week finds reflection in reports of a slightly slower speed of operations, but in addition the facts are apparently visible that lack of rain on some areas, as, for instance, the spring wheat northwest, is perhaps responsible for a slowing down in future business while in others, as for instance, the southeast and southwest, too much rain has been an influence in holding back distant buying.

"In the steel trade, effects of the lessened prospect for fruit crops are noted in a slowing down of tin plate production and in a lessened call for material for auto and implement manufacture, which is not unexpected, in view of the year-long activity in this line—this despite the rally in June in wheat prices—the lower level of prices of most farm crops, as compared with this time a year ago."

IMPAIRED WHEAT CROP REPORTS BOOST PRICES

Griffin Sees World-Wide Grain Shortage.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Sensational reports of crop deterioration in the Canadian northwest, with the Canadian Pool placing the condition of spring wheat in the three provinces at 55, or 16 points less than last year, were instrumental in advancing wheat prices here 3@3¼c from the finish of the previous day, and while there was heavy selling by holders of offers and by scattered longs the finish was within a fraction of the top with net gains of 2⅝@2¾c, with July, $1.13⅝@1.13¾c; September, $1.13⅝@1.13¾c, and December, $1.23⅝@1.24⅛.

Corn was firm with wheat and ⅝@⅞c higher with July, 92⅝@92¾c; September, 94½@94¾c, and December, 81¼c. Oats gained ¼@⅝c with July, 43⅝@43¾c; September, 43¾c, and December, 46⅝@46¾c. Rye was up 1⅝@1⅞c with July, 88½c; September, 90c, and December, 98c.

Sees World's Crop Scare.

Sharp as was the upturn in wheat prices here, it was mild as compared with Winnipeg, which gained 3¾@4c for the day. Buenos Aires gained 1⅞@4¾c. The Canadian Pool report was taken as suggesting a yield of 235,000,000 to 400,000,000 bu for the prairie provinces, compared with 508,000,000 bu harvested last year, and the outside figure will only be reached under the most favorable weather conditions from now on.

An almost world wide crop scare in wheat is already apparent, according to J. P. Griffin of J. S. Bache & Co., who called attention to the fact that the United States, Canada, Argentina and Australia have a grand aggregate of around 120,000,000 acres, or about 6 per cent of the total world's acreage, exclusive of Russia and China. Drought reports are coming from all four countries, an almost unheard of condition, while recent cables have suggested that only an average crop is in sight in Europe. As he sees it present reports suggest a reduction in the world crop of 300,000,000 bu or more, from the 3,710,000,000 bu harvested in 1928, which would make a yield well below the apparent disappearance during the 1928-'29 season, and force the world to draw heavily on the carryover from the old crop to meet actual requirements. He believes that present prices for wheat are too low.

Harvesting of winter wheat in the southwest is under way again with irregular threshing returns coming from Kansas, one report showing a range of 6 to 36 bu per acre. Liverpool closed ⅝@¾d higher, with dry weather in Australia having some effect, as did the Pool report. Export demand at the seaboard was slow, with sales of 400,000 bu in all positions.

Coarse Grains Advance.

Trade in corn was only fair and largely of a local character, with a further fractional widening of the spread between the December and the September, the latter being 2⅞c over the new crop month at the last, against 2c at one time Thursday. Weather conditions over the belt were generally favorable. Country offerings increased materially, with purchases of 180,000 bu to arrive.

Dry weather reports from the American and Canadian northwest which may have considerable influence on the yield of oats, had a little effect on futures here, but the aggregate trade was light, and in the main the market was influenced by the action of corn. Liberal exchanging was under way between the July and the September. Rye was higher in sympathy with wheat. Unfavorable crop comments continue to come from the American northwest.

COTTON MARKET FIRMER

Cotton market held within relatively narrow price limits, but the undertone was firmer, with the close about the top. Net gains here were 3@10 points, with New Orleans up 4@11 points and New York 3@15 points. Weevil reports continue to attract considerable attention, as the critical period of growth and prospective damage is close at hand.

Nat C. Murray, the Clement-Curtis statistician, estimates average condition of cotton at 72, compared with 78 a month ago and 65.2 last year. Weevil is more numerous than usual, which menaces the future. Acreage is placed at 48,850,000, or 4 per cent in excess of last year. Estimates for important states follow, with last three ciphers omitted in the crop:

PACKERS BUY BELLIES

Buying of lard and bellies credited to packers and warehouse interests was largely responsible yesterday for a higher range of provision prices, although there was some buying on the strength in grains and hogs. Offerings came largely from scattered longs, with some liquidation in the July deliveries. Closing trades were unchanged to 2½c higher on lard; 12½@17½c higher on bellies and unchanged to 10c higher on ribs. Cash demand for meats was reported as good and prices were very firm. In some quarters there are expectations of a better export call. Prices follow:

Small receipts and urgent demand on both local and shipping account boosted hog prices to within 10c of the highest since May 9. Extreme top advanced 30c at $11.40, with the general average up 20c at $10.80.

Activity featured the trade and only 3,000 were left at the close, the high point of the day. Eight local packers handled a total of 11,200, while shippers bought 5,500 and city butchers 2,500. Total arrivals at 13,000 were smallest for Friday since last September.

Despite the decline in medium quality cattle this week and the reported weakness in some classes of choice steers, prime beeves averaging 1,398 lbs., soared to $15.65 yesterday, highest of the year for Friday. Bulk of cattle, however, sold at $12.00@13.50, against $13.85@14.40 the previous Friday, with the week's bulk at $13.25@14.85, against $14.00@15.15 the preceding week. Prime steers are in line with the season's peak, while light steers show declines of 25@75c compared with a week ago. Butcher stock showed further losses. Calves are 25@50c above a week ago.

Yesterday's meager supply of lambs sold mostly steady to strong, with better grades in some instances showing slight upturns. Best Idaho range lambs reached $14.75, with top natives at $14.50, bulk of the supply of fat lambs going at $14.00@14.75. Prevailing quotations are mostly 25@50c under the close of last week, while aged sheep are unchanged and yearlings 25@50c lower. Feeders are selling strong compared with a week ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 200 cattle, 6,000 hogs and 1,000 sheep, against 391 cattle, 8,484 hogs and 2,244 sheep the previous Saturday, and 336 cattle, 4,218 hogs and 2,268 sheep a year ago.

PRODUCE MARKETS.

No change was made in the price of butter and fresh eggs. Live spring chickens declined 1c with other poultry unchanged. Receipts, 6 cars by freight. Potatoes in good demand, but light offerings checked business. Market higher. Receipts of new, 15 cars; on team track, 85 cars.
